Ottawa, July 9.-The Hodgins charges occupied the attention of the commons, yesterday, for some time, and afforded an opportunity for a re- competition of Asiatics. view of the accusations which had been brought against the Transcontinental railway commissioners, and for a review of the disputes in regard to classification which have arisen in ion fishing licenses.

the construction of this line. Victor Geoffrion, in moving concurrence in the report, referred particularly to the course which Maj. Hodgins had followed in withdrawing his Oklahoma Red Men Want Rights personal charges, leaving it to the engineers to pronounce on the disputed question of classification.

Houghton Lennox (Simcoe) presented the conservative view of this matter, and argued that the withdrawal of Maj. Hodgins' charges did not conclude the work of this enquiry and that the committee should go right on with its investigation of the im portant disputes regarding fraudulent classification which were still open.

The records produced before the committee disclosed the existence of many questions apart altogether, from the Hodgins' charges and the terms of reference demanded that these should be looked into. In conclusion, Mr. Lennox moved a minority report on the work of the Hodgins' enquiry, embodying the views to which he had already given utterance.

It is understood that the government proposal in regard to the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba will be in the form of a resolution expressing the expediency of extending the limits of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec to Hudson Bay.

All sums for the expenses of members of his party had been refunded. For a portion of the time abroad he had been obliged to use his own money. The imperial government had paid only his ordinary hotel expenses. He had had legitimate expenses in excess of that provision. His final settlement had been delayed by reason of the fact that the account as touching the matter treaty-making, had been passed through the trade and commerce department. Under this head $3,500 had been due to him and he did not get it until two months ago. The minister complained of the fuss that had been made about the matter since it was he himself who had been obliged to wait for his money.
