The Merry Widow

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY HENRY W. SAVAGE

It was a strange, dexterous blend of east and west of Ilsonan oriental posturing and of gliding, modern waltz steps—the very poetry of motion.

"A lady went into the summer house with a gentleman."

what sullen pride forced back from the lips. Then last dreamy chord and the music was hushed. Danilo and Sonia started, amazed, as though from some vision of paradise.

"I'M AWAKE FROM MY CRAZY DREAM OF LOVE, AND I'M GOING BACK TO MAXINE."

The old bone's feeble jest brought Danilo quickly back to earth and to a sense of everyday surroundings.

"Were you looking for me?" he asked, none too civilly.

"Only to see if you had succeeded yet in finding who the lady is with whom De Joldon is in love. She must be made to win him away from any idea of marrying the widow."

"To biases with that and all the rest of your silly plans!" shouted Danilo.

"Don't worry any more about the widow. It's no use, I tell you. She is going to marry a Frenchman in spite of us all! And," he went on blithely, goaded by the chagrin and bitter disappointment in Popoff's face, "I'm going to dance at her wedding."

hind the couple. Natalie quite enjoyed the prospect of listening to her adorer's melodramatic words of farewell and of posing heroically as a self-sacrificing, dutiful wife.

So interested was Natalie in De Joldon's parting speech that she did not hear the ambassador, just outside, exclaim excitedly:

"Nish, I'm sure I saw that summer house door close behind a lady's skirt! Let's see who is in there!"

Grasped Reptile, Thinking it Tree Bark. Shamokin, Pa., July 20.—Not looking closely, but thinking that a big copperhead snake tightly curled on the middle of the trunk of a fallen tree in the woods was a dark splotch of bark, Miss Ella Never grasped it to draw herself over the tree.

In a flash the reptile sank its fangs into the girl and disappeared. When Miss Never grew somewhat calm she discovered blood issuing from her hand.

Realizing that she had been struck by the snake she hurried home, her arm in the meantime swelling to twice its normal size. Physicians are working hard to counteract the effects of the snake poison.

SPENT $3,000 SEARCHING FOR HEALTH.

FROM SHOAL LAKE MAN COMES THE FOLLOWING WONDERFUL STORY:

Mr. Robert Squires says: "I have spent over $3,000 in search for health; have travelled from place to place looking for suitable climate. I came to the conclusion that climate made no difference in curing throat and lung troubles. At the health resorts consumptives died there as at any place else so I determined to find a home remedy. A friend advised me to use Psychine. The first few bottles gave great relief from coughing and seemed to ease the pain in the lungs. Within a month the cough and night sweats had disappeared, and I had greatly regained my strength. I used ten bottles, but my case was a serious one, and I didn't begrudge the cost. For I was completely cured after medical men considered my case hopeless. My lungs are now sound and no sign of disease whatever is apparent."

How strange it is that we often overlook or despise the remedies near at hand. In Psychine we have the greatest and most successful tonic this country has known. There is life in every dose! The proprietors want you to prove their statement by sending for a sample. Cut out the coupon and mail with your name and address to the Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto, and we will gladly send you a TRIAL BOTTLE FREE. All druggists and stores sell at 50c and $1.00 a bottle.
