

Told in Twilight

Mrs. Allaire Shortt, "Otterburn," gave a delightful picnic to Kingston Mills on Monday. The party went down in a van and a carriage, and it was composed of Mrs. H. A. Betts, Mrs. Guy Gamsby, Miss Annie Macleod, Mrs. Moira and Miss Ling Moira, Miss Archer and Miss Phillips, of New York, Miss Constance and Miss Mildred Cooke, Miss Edith and Miss Cordelia Straubenzie, Miss Maud Betts and her niece, Miss Kitty Betts, of London, the hostess's children, Alan and Elsie, Mrs. Adam Shortt's little girl, Lorraine, and Mrs. Gamsby's Marjory and Guy. The reason d'etre of the affair was Mrs. Shortt's visitor, Signorina Copello, and the presence of artists, both in song and with the brush, added to the pleasure. Besides the guests named there were three whom their young girl "mothers" meant should enjoy the happy day, and they were the dollies owned by the three little girls in the party. Fishing, and successful fishing, was one of the features of the afternoon.

Mrs. Joseph Walkem, Beverly street, entertained at ten, on Saturday, for Miss Evelyn Kerr, of Toronto. The drawing-room was gay with crimson rambler roses in great profusion, with feathery white and pink gladioli, and the brilliant blooms. In the tea room sweet peas made the air sweet and the girls assisting being Miss Kitty Betts, Miss Mabel Brownfield, Miss Mabel Brownfield, and Miss Sylvia Cochrane. The guests invited were Mrs. E. T. Taylor, Miss Elsie Taylor, Mrs. Jeremy Taylor, Mrs. John Cochrane, Mrs. T. D. R. Hemming, Mrs. Alexander Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Hugh Oeler, Miss Gertrude Strange, Miss Mildred Cooke, Miss Nora Gordon, Miss Grace Hemming, Miss Dorothy Brownfield, Miss Marie Caruthers, Miss Lillian Kent, Miss Marion Redden, Miss Portia Mackenzie and Miss Christine Cochrane.

Needless to say, the croquet party, in the park, did not come off, yesterday, as scheduled.

Two events, a picnic with the Misses Fairlie as hostesses, and a high tea, at the Country Club, had cold water, or perhaps more accurately, tepid water, thrown on them yesterday, and didn't survive the dampening effect.

The Yacht Club had for its hostesses, this afternoon, Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick, Mrs. George Mackenzie, Miss Marion Redden, Miss Frances Sullivan, Miss Christine Cochrane, and Miss Lenore Hamilton.

Miss Kathleen O'Hara, Clergy street, organized a picnic, to-day, in honor of her brother, Mr. Geoffrey O'Hara.

REV. C. W. CASSON.

My Gospel.
My gospel is the good news that every man is born the child of God, divine in his nature and heritage, sovereign in his position and power, and partner with the Infinite Father in every work of righteousness. If I were able to reveal to you the fact that you had been born heir to a princedom, after you had lived many years in ignorance of the fact, would you not regard it as good news? And this is exactly the gospel of good news that I have to bring to you, only on a far grander scale. Prince are you by very birth and being! As such I hail you, giving you the reverence that is your due by virtue of your position.

Great Hindu Feast.
Dussehra—October-November—is the soldier's feast in India. It commemorates the opening of the campaign of the great Hindu national hero—Ram—against the giant demon—Ravana. It is kept with great ceremony. The soldier worships his weapons at this time, the artisan his tools, the agriculturist his implements of husbandry and the weaver his loom. Animals are garlanded and decked out specially at this feast. It was after this festival that kings, in ancient times, to go forth to battle.
