

THE 5 P.M. EDITION

WILTON PRESBYTERIANS

Re-Open Their Church After Renovating It.

The Wilton Presbyterian church was reopened on Sunday. During the past few weeks it has been undergoing extensive repairs. A new furnace was erected in the basement, figured windows were placed throughout the building, a beautiful window was erected in memory of the late Mr. (Wess). The church was also painted throughout. At the re-opening services, on Sunday, Rev. Dr. MacTavish, of Kingston, was the preacher. Rev. Dr. Williams, of the Methodist church, Wilton, assisted in the morning service. There were large congregations present. In the evening many were unable to get into the building. The offerings amounted to over $300. On Monday evening a garden party was held on the church lawn, and there were over 300 paid admissions. The Odessa band was in attendance, and rendered some fine music. Addresses were given by Rev. Dr. MacTavish and Rev. Mr. Williams. Booths on the grounds dispensed ice cream and other delicacies. The proceeds of the garden party amounted to somewhat over $100.

STOLE FARMER'S MONEY.

W. J. Trudell, Bath Road, Hunting For English Farmhand. On Monday afternoon W. J. Trudell, a farmer living on the Bath Road, told the police that he had been robbed of $31 by an English farmhand named Frederick Goodheart. The police were at once put on the case but as yet have not succeeded in running their man to earth. Trudell stated that Goodheart had worked for him about a year, and was a good workman. On Monday he came to the city and when he returned he found his man gone. He did not know where he had cleared to, and was not much worried until he found that $31 had also disappeared, and he at once suspected the Englishman of the theft. Trudell succeeded in tracing the man to the city and found out that he had secured a suit of clothes from a second-hand store on Princess street, but could not find him after that. Goodheart is only about nineteen or twenty years old and has not been in this country very long. He is short and stout in appearance, with rather light hair. He would Surely Be Blamed. A good story is being told on an ex-alderman, who, it happened, was up in the city buildings' dome a short time before the fire broke out. When he heard of the fire he was quite surprised and told a friend of his being in the dome such a short time before. "Don't you tell that to anyone," exclaimed his friend in an awful whisper. "Why?" asked the wondering ex-alderman. "Why, my good man," replied his friend quite seriously, "they'll say you set the place afire."

To Play Baseball.

The policemen and postmen will play a game of baseball on the cricket field, on Thursday afternoon. A collection will be taken up and the proceeds will be given over to the Orphan's Home and the orphanages of the House of Providence. The blue coats will line up: Arniel, c.; Filson, p.; Bateson, 1b.; P. Driscoll, 2b.; Davis, 3b.; Hedges, 3b.; Mullinger, 1b.; McAdoo, c.f.; Naylon, r.f. "Con." Millan will umpire the game.

The first two pastors of this parish were Archbishop Gauthier, of Kingston, and the Bishop of Alexandria. If the present incumbent, Rev. D. R. Macdonald, wishes to escape their fate he had better seek another parish before it is too late.

Perth, Ont., April 24th, 1908, CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE CO., KINGSTON.

Dear Sir,

To-day I am in good humor, because the Canada Life has notified me that it has made a further reduction in my premium. This is what was promised, and is now being performed. When an insurance company does this it is more than can be said of some others, and I am therefore pleased. I have society assurance which does not compare at all favorably with that I hold in the Canada Life. I have an Endowment Policy also in the Canada Life, which has matured and been paid. This was a bonanza, as the profits paid were large and more than satisfactory to me.

Yours truly, D. HOGG.

The same contract can be secured to-day at the Office, 18 Market St., J. O. HUTTON, Agent.

NEW STEEL STEAMER

WILL BE BUILT BY CAPTAIN ROYS

For Service on the Bay of Quinte As Well as the River—He Will Handle Excursions at Popular Prices.

Capt. Roys, of the steamer Aletha, has had a most busy season. In fact, he has had more requests for excursions than he could book. The Aletha has been plying in Bay of Quinte waters a great deal this season, with an occasional trip down the St. Lawrence. The general skipper has had large crowds, too, on every excursion. "Belleville is a great excursion centre," he told the Whig on Monday. "Three boats took excursions out of that city one day last week, and with there were scores of people left on the dock. Each boat had its full complement of passengers."

"This winter," declared Capt. Roys, "I am going to build a larger boat. It will be constructed of steel, and will be as safe and sound as anything I can make it. I will have a steamer capable of carrying 500 passengers, and will then be in a position to handle the excursion trade to better advantage."

Regular prices and a general skipper have made the Aletha a favorite boat along the Bay of Quinte and the St. Lawrence river. The captain knows every inch of these waters, and his passengers are always sure of a safe trip when he is at the helm.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Maxwell is at the penitentiary with coal from Connetant. The schooner Burton, Gananoque, is waiting to get into Davis' dry dock. The steamer Waterbury passed down Monday night with freight for Quebec.

The schooner Straubenzie is unloading coal from Erie at the Locomotive Works. The steamer Mississquoi brought a large load of passengers from Cape Vincent to-day.

The barge Hiawatha, of the M. T. Co., left the dock to-day, after undergoing repairs. The schooner Mary Ann Lydon arrived at Crawford's this morning with coal from Oswego.

The steamer Alexandria was at Folger's last evening on her way to Montreal with passengers and freight. The schooner Aletha, for Ogdensburg; steamer Caspian, down and up, to-day; steamer Rideau Queen, for Ottawa, this morning.

Charles Joyner, Oswego, started work to-day to take the coal off the burned steamship Robert McDonald and try to get her to shore to be repaired. The steamship Hincley is lying at the Kingston and Pembroke wharf waiting to tow two lumber barges to Oswego. The tows are coming from Ottawa.

The steamer Rideau Queen left Davis' dry dock on Monday evening, about midnight, but had very hard time getting through the bridge. She was blowing for about half an hour before the bridge was finally opened.

M. T. Co.: Tug Mary P. Hall arrived from Montreal with three light barges and cleared for Montreal with two grain laden barges. The steamer Stoumont passed up on her way from Sydney to Fort William with a cargo of steel rails.

PLANS CARRIED OUT.

The City Building's Dome Was Not a Makeshift. The burned dome of the city building was not a makeshift, as suggested at the city council meeting Monday afternoon. It was a perfect structure, erected from the original plans of the architect who designed the dome in 1865 and whose design was one that has been admired during all these forty-three years. The original plans are in possession of Mr. Power & Sons, architects of this city. The late John Power, father of the present firm of architects, had charge of the construction of the dome, and the plans have been with the Powers ever since. The burned dome was erected in 1865, after the fire in the King street end of the buildings in 1858. Just fifty years ago, shows a lower dome than the one burned. At that time the clock was in the King street tower of the building and there were no cupolas on the main building.

Grid The Dome With Lights.

On the new dome of the city building, it is proposed to place several circles of electric lights, so that it may be illuminated on various nights, particularly in the summer. Mayor Ross would like to have a maple leaf in electric lights placed on top of the weather vane. Circles of lights might be placed around the lower edge of the bellry, and around the upper and lower rims of the clock portion of the dome, and the dials might also be surrounded by electric globes. The additional cost would not be large, and the lighting effect would be grand. It's time that Kingston put on a little more outward lighting display, and here's a splendid chance of a being.

The Great Millionaire Had Miraculous Escape.

Kingston Still Has Dome. Belleville Intelligencer. The dome of Kingston's city hall is in ruins, caused by fire, but so long as the dome of the Whig's editor is intact, the Limestone City will worry along somehow.

Will Take Six Weeks. Manager Folger, of the city light plant, expects the work of repairing the new gas tank will occupy six weeks. It will be ten days more before the tank is cleaned out and ready for the coat of cement it is to receive inside.

Adjusting The Loss. To-day, representatives of insurance companies who carried risks on the city buildings, together with civic representatives, went over the billings to adjust the loss. Mr. Carey, of Power & Sons, architect, Kingston, represented the insurance people, and the city engineer and J. W. Power, the city.

Cars Off The Track. About ten o'clock Monday morning a Grand Trunk freight train, bound east, ran off the track at the west end switch, near the outer station. The rear end of the train was off the track and it was about three hours before it was replaced on the rails. The last train east and west, at noon, were tied up, for some time, until the train was put back on the rails.

He Was Let Go.

The adjourned case of Frank Dara-you, charged with being a frequenter of the disorderly house that was raided a few weeks ago, was up before the magistrate this morning, and the prisoner was allowed his liberty. "I have given your case every consideration," said his worship, "and after careful thought, it is just a question whether you come under the legal head of a frequenter of the house or not, and I am going to give you the benefit of the doubt. You are a young man yet and it is your first appearance here, so I hope it will be a warning to you."

The bride wore a white satin gown and tulle veil, and the four bridesmaids, with white lace and net over chiffon, wore touches of blue, and white picture hats trimmed with La France roses. Capt.
