REAL ESTATE VALUES

Like all others, are regulated by the law of supply and demand. As the demand for a commodity increases, the price goes up.

Herin lies the opportunity for profit in reality. The demand for it grows every year—the demand for residence; and the demand for business property. It is merely a matter of getting possession of a good piece of real estate and holding it.

It is important, however, to get a good selection and to buy right. We can help you in these matters.

SPRANG OFF STEAMER NOT YET DEFEATED WERE SUCCESSFUL

TO SAVE A WOMAN FROM DROWNING.

Steamer St. Lawrence Collided With a Put-Put—A Foolhardy Young Woman Tried to Cross the Steamer's Bow.

About four hundred yards out from Thousand Island Park landing, on Sunday morning, at ten o'clock, the steamer St. Lawrence collided with a gasoline put-put, in which Mrs. Gordon, a manicurist staying at a cottage at the Park, was the sole occupant. The young woman, through nervousness or foolhardiness, maintained a course right across the bow of the steamer, which was coming up from Fine View, en route to Clayton.

The captain of the St. Lawrence blew danger whistles, but they were unheeded. When a collision seemed unavoidable, the signal to stop and reverse was given by the captain, but the steamer could not be stopped until the put-put was struck and overturned.

Just as the young woman was dumped into the water, one of the steamer's crew jumped from the main deck and swam over to where she was struggling to keep afloat. He caught hold of her and kept her up till the steamer's lifeboat, which was quickly lowered, arrived on the scene, and picked them up. The captain of the St. Lawrence showed marked ability in the manner in which he acted during the episode. Had he not stopped the steamer just when he did, the young woman would likely have been drowned. The put-put sank after being overturned.

Three hundred people along the shore witnessed the accident, and intense excitement reigned. Then a man was seen to spring from the steamer, and the spectators breathed easier as he made his way through the water to the struggling woman.

The captains of the Folger steamers are constantly bothered on the river by foolhardy people in gasoline launches running across their bows. There seems to be no diminution to the crazy practice. Until half a dozen people are drawn down in as many cases of collision, it is unlikely that there will be any stop to it. It is only a few days ago since the St. Lawrence had to come to a dead stop in mid-river to allow a gasoline yacht to get clear of the big steamer's course.

The law should step in and make an example of some of these small boat runts.

ENGLISHMAN SURPRISED.

Want Looking For Trouble and Got It.

A few days before the Marathon race a trivial bet was made between some employees at the Locomotive Works and one of them, an Englishman, lost his side of it, and refused to pay. Then came the big race, and the same man bet that Longboat would not win out. He won his bet and the loser deducted the amount owing him from the previous bet from the amount. This made the man from across the sea very angry and he threatened what he would do if the entire sum were not handed over.

To bring matters to a head he went up to the man's house one evening and said that if the money was not at once handed over he would "take it out of the man's hide," and the Kingstonian said he would give him a chance to do so.

Accordingly he went over to Barriefield to settle it. The Englishman had a lot of friends to see him trouble his neighbor and quite a number from the village also came down to see the hull. A ring was formed and the two men stripped off and went at it, but it did not last as long as they thought it would. The man who wanted to scrap got it and got it good. He was pounded all over the ring and was finally forced to cry that he had enough. The wrong head was tanned, much to the amusement of the onlookers.

TO HAVE ANOTHER GAME.

On Friday evening the postmen were busily engaged in their regular practice at the Cricket field. The boys generally get out very early in the evening, as they do not want everyone to see their good players and what they can do, but the police are up to all their gags early or late, and one of the force was right on the job to see the practice. He was nicely concealed in the park, where he could witness the whole performance without being observed, and Paley, Hiscock & Co., were dealing out some secret signals, etc., much to his delight. A careful copy was made of the same and they were submitted to the captain of the pelers. There is every prospect of another game on Thursday afternoon, when the police will be able to get their full team off to play. Fison will then be in the box and will do his best to win out as it is rumored there is a gold medal in it if he pulls out ahead.

RACES ON SATURDAY.

On Saturday afternoon a large crowd turned out for the matinee at the fair grounds. Two events were put off, a trot and a pace. They were all stepped in good shape and were closely contested. The first race went:

W. H. P. (John Purdy) 1.2.1.
Natty Boy (Winthrop Sears) 2.3.2.
Harry R. 3.2.3.

Time, 1.28 : 1.28 : 1.27.

The next race was also very close, the first two heats being good ones. It resulted as follows:

W. H. P. (John Purdy) 1.1.1.
Natty Boy (Winthrop Sears) 2.3.2.
Harry R. 3.2.3.

Time, 1.28 : 1.28 : 1.27.

HAD A BAD MEMORY.

Could Not Say Where He Secured Liquor.

One of the street sprinkling brigades says that King street west might be watered as frequently as Montreal street, if it possessed the facilities, but until a stand pipe is put up at Beverly street, it cannot be expected that good work can be done, owing to the long haul from Macdonald Park.

BETTER FACILITIES NEEDED.

One of the street sprinkling brigades says that King street west might be watered as frequently as Montreal street, if it possessed the facilities, but until a stand pipe is put up at Beverly street, it cannot be expected that good work can be done, owing to the long haul from Macdonald Park.

"I must have secured it in Gananoque," he said, to the court, "but I do not remember."

The accused could not tell the court which train he came on to the city, although he had an idea that he left Gananoque about six o'clock on Saturday night. The magistrate imposed a fine of $2 and costs.

"It is just twenty years since I was before the court," McCull said to some of the officers.
