The increase in the water-borne traffic has been largely due to the in-steamers. Vessels six hundred feet long can easily pass the Sault through either the United States or the Canadian canal. All that is needed to enable vessels drawing twenty-five feet of water to reach Kingston from Duluth, Thunder Bay, or Chicago, is the improvement of the Detour channel, and this is constantly going on. By the time a new Welland canal can be completed large vessels from the upper lakes will be ready to pass through it. What this means in rela-

COMPARISONS MADE.

After being in power eighteen years the conservative government was compelled to borrow money to pay the or dinary expenses of the country.

The conservative press is loud in de nunciation of extravagance, entirely overlooking the fact that when the liberals assumed office they found the result of mismanagement, a gene ral stagnation in business circles and a heavy deficit as a legacy from their predecessors in office.

It is true that the expenses of the 1 country have largely increased, bu not out of proportion to the business transacted. The conservatives over ook this feature of the case when criticising the government. It does not suit their line of argument to belief of the credit side of affairs.

In 1896 the total trade of country was $239,025,000 and the venue $36,618,590. The deficit was $300,551. In 1908, total trade $650,793,000 and the revenue $96. 500,000 and there was a surplus $19,000,000. One must judge by re ults." If it be extravagance to crease the trade of the country from $239,000,000 to $650,000,000 and show a surplus of $19,000,000 then what should be said of the conservative government which secured a trade of $239,000,000 and came out at the end of the year nearly half a million

If extravagance brings results such as this, the people would be pleased to welcome more of it. The money of the people is wel spent, if it encourages trade, and a government that can do this and show a large surplus, is a better government than one which failed to stimulate trade, and could not make both ends meet at the end of the

The conservatives managed to show after fifteen years of office a total trade with Great Britain of $98,935,-040. The liberals after twelve years of power can point with pride to the total trade with Great Britain of $208,745,193.

MUST GO AHEAD.

Should the Dominion government be ninety-five and a half million dollars. assive or should it go ahead? If Every dollar of this large sum has the people want to return to the days of 1896 and an expenditure of $40,and to prevent the increase of debt 000,000 a year then two-thirds of the post offices should be closed, thousands of customs houses should be abandoned, public works should cease, no further transportation facility should be provided, aids to navigation should be-removed, lighthouses left in darkness, harbors and channels should fill up, and no more crops should be raised in the west, because they could not be taken to market. This would return to the conservative days of small things, small receipts, small expenditures, and complete stagnation in every branch of national life.

The liberal government takes a very lifferent view of things. With wise foresight the government has spent money generously, but prudently. Aids to navigation have encouraged shipping and reduced the insurance crate, harbors have been deepened and new hannels cut and improved. Post ofices have been erected in response to the necessities of the people. Mail accommodation has been increased, docks have been constructed for the convenience of the people. LABOR AND MILITARISM.

About It.

Some labor men decline, it seems, to take part in a tribute to Lord Roberts on the ground that they belong not to the realm of war, but to that of humanity. But a stronger proof of humanity can hardly, given than was given by Lord Roberts in his treatment of the quished Boers. He recognized qualities. He said of them They are brave men, large-hearted. enerous, and respect their enemies, We have never in the field met a braver enemy than the Boers." In an address to his troops he said: "We must be careful to avoid punishing the innocent for the guilty, and must remember, though misled deluded, the Boers are in brave and high-spirited people, are actuated by feelings, which entitled to our respect."
