FORMER KINGSTONIAN.

Henry Baker Pays Visit to His Old Home.

Henry Baker, who left Kingston in 1837, is a visitor in the city, accompanied by his son, L. W. Baker. Mr. Baker is the owner of a large stock farm at Trenton, Missouri, and his son is with him in the business. The two have been on a trip to this part of the country, and Mr. Baker, Sr., states that he desired very much to visit the old town. This is his first visit to the Limestone City since he left, and naturally enough, he noticed many changes, in fact everything appeared to be changed for all that time, Mr. Baker says, the town was in a rather dilapidated state.

THE WOODEN BASE OF THE CITY DOME.

City Property Committee Seems to Favor Rebuilding on it—Hope to Do a Lot With the Insurance Money.

After the meeting of the city property committee yesterday afternoon, the members inspected the ruins of the city buildings' dome, and seemed unanimous in the opinion that it would be a great mistake to tear down all of the wooden base resting upon the stone walls. They were of the opinion that the steel portion of the dome should be erected on the wooden foundation, which consists of a great mass of heavy timbers, which, it is doubtful, could be secured at this time without an extensive hunt all over the country. Only a few of the timbers are charred, and the rest are all the better for that, as the charring makes them all the more secure. Aid. Free said it would cost $500 to remove the timber. One has no idea of the solidity of the base of the dome, until he walks through it. The wood is practically in as good condition as when it was erected over forty years ago. For this reason there is a likelihood that the property committee will recommend that the dome be rebuilt, without tearing down the wooden base. It is not thought likely that the architect will recommend any such partial repair, but would advise rebuilding the dome from the stone walls.

SKIPS WITH $5,000.

Intended Bride in Distress—Considerably Poorer.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 21.—After making all arrangements to marry Miss Blanche R. Eldridge last night, Jewett E. Warren, supposed to hail from Atlanta, Ga., has disappeared, leaving his bills unpaid and his intended bride in distress. A dispatch from Atlanta says neither the city nor the telephone directory shows any J. E. Warren. It is alleged that Warren has taken with him about $5,000 belonging to Mary E. Cramer, aunt of Miss Eldridge, and all the jewelry purchased for the niece.

DIES FROM EXHAUSTION.

Falls Dead After Many Hours at the Tiller.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—Beaten about by a storm from Monday night until Wednesday night, the little schooner rigged yacht, Junonia of Milwaukee, with David Beebe and the dead body of his sailing companion, Philip Thompson, on board, was picked up in mid-lake by the steamer Helens, and was towed to the harbor here. Thompson had been steadily at the tiller for hours, when in the height of the rain and windstorm he arose to put on a coat. Without a word he dropped to the bottom of the boat dead. As the Junonia neared the harbor she sank out of sight.

SEAT FOR MOTHERWELL.

Steps to Be Taken to Open Constituency.

Winnipeg, April 21.—Hon. Messrs. Turgeon and Motherwell are in the city on department business. Both are delighted with the result of the Saskatchewan election, although, of course, regretting that fate had not been more kind to the minister of agriculture. However, Mr. Turgeon admitted that steps would be taken immediately to provide a seat for Mr. Motherwell, so that the province might still have the benefit of his administration of the department of agriculture.

ASKED FOR INCARCERATION.

Admitted to Asylum at His Own Request.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 21.—Max K. Philon, a married man with a family, who came here from Montreal, applied at the local asylum for admission as a patient. While he talked rationally, Philon said he knew himself he was not mentally right, and unless placed under surveillance might cause personal injury to some one. He was sent back up to Montreal, where physicians and after an examination by two doctors the necessary papers were made out.

LID OF IN COLCHESTER.

Halifax, Aug. 21.—The lifting of the lid in the trial for bribery of A. R. Bayne, "the Yankee mining man," who seems to have been the chief operator in the "pirate" election of John Stansfield, M.P. for Colchester, yesterday continued to furnish startling revelations of corruption practiced in the famous bye-election last November. Witness after witness testified to the distribution, with a lavish hand, of rum and money by Bayne. The sensational feature of the case is that all the witnesses for the prosecution assembled and the distribution of liquor and money took place there. They were treated to drinks, and in some cases asked to "forget some things."

THE LATE MRS. E. W. TWICHELL.

Westminster Park, Aug. 19.—Last night at her summer home on Westminster park, Mrs. E. W. Twichell succumbed to a fatal attack of acute gastric enteritis, after only two weeks of sickness. She is among the oldest residents of the river, having lived at her cottage at the park for twenty-five summers. She is survived by her husband and one son. The body was taken to her home at Auburn, N.Y., this morning, where the funeral will be held.

STARTS ON LONG CRUISE.

Alexandria Bay, Aug. 19.—The steamyacht Idler, one of the pretty cruising yachts of the Thousand Island region, was, yesterday, sold to Messrs. Fox and Umberhauer, of Philadelphia, Pa. The boat, with the new owners, will start immediately on a cruise down to Montreal and Quebec into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, along the coast of Maine and on down the eastern coast, en route for Philadelphia. In the winter the yacht will cruise in southern waters. Mr. Umberhauer is a member of the Kiel Yacht Club, of England, and the Idler next season may ply the foreign seas.

ALBERTA READY TO BONUS.

Calgary, Aug. 21.—In a speech at Cardston, Premier Rutherford, in discussing the school book contract, said that the Alberta government is prepared to bonus any Alberta firm that would undertake the work of publishing text books and come up to the same standard as the contract with the Morang company set forth.

CALLS TAFT CRUEL.

Bostonian Says No 300-Pound Man Should Ride.

Boston, Aug. 21.—If George T. Ansell, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has his way candidate William H. Taft has taken his last horseback ride. "It is outrageous cruelty to animals," said Mr. Angell recently, "for a big 300-pound man like Taft to ride a horse about the country. "It ought to be stopped at once. No teamster or any one who knows anything about animals would think of loading a horse down. "I do not doubt the stories sent out from Hot Springs that the horses' legs have been sprained and strained. "Something should certainly be done about it. No man weighing 300 pounds has any business on a horse's back. If he must ride let him use an automobile or an elephant."

INTENDED BRIDE IN DISTRESS—CONSIDERABLY POORER.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 21.—After making all arrangements to marry Miss Blanche R. Eldridge last night, Jewett E. Warren, supposed to hail from Atlanta, Ga., has disappeared, leaving his bills unpaid and his intended bride in distress. A dispatch from Atlanta says neither the city nor the telephone directory shows any J. E. Warren. It is alleged that Warren has taken with him about $5,000 belonging to Mary E.
