SAW A PHANTOM CITY.

Rare and Beautiful Mirage Of Irish Coast.

Dublin, Aug. 26.—A strange story of a mirage, which reminds one of "The Spectre Island," of "The Phantom City," comes from Ballyconnelly, a town on the wild Connemara coast...

Thursday evening a small town well situated with houses was observed on the sea about six or seven miles westward. The beautiful spectre showed lovely and dim, being first seen by some young persons.

Some hundreds gathered to witness the enchanting spectacle, which they state was composed of different sized and varying styles of architecture.

Here was a dismantled dwelling as if even this strange land of sunshine had been visited by the crowbar brigade.

The phantom city was visible from 3 p.m. until 6 p.m., when it gradually vanished from view.
