A SAFETY PIN

Queer Journey Through Child's Body.

POINT UNFASTENED

THE REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE OF A CHILD.

Reappeared Again in a Few Days With the Point Foremost--The Doctors Say It Is An Altogether Unique Experience.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 29.—To swallow a safety pin with the point unfastened, is enough to make anyone nervous, but that was the remarkable experience of a child named Burlington. The child is about five years of age, and lives at Mount Hamilton. A few days ago it swallowed a safety pin with the point open. When Mrs. Burlington learned of the occurrence she was greatly alarmed. Hour after hour passed, but the child did not complain of any pain, and was as well as usual. Dr. Baugh was called, but all he could do was to order the child to be fed potatoes and food of a pulpy nature, so that the pin would not have the same chance to penetrate the delicate membranes. Fruits and gentle laxatives were given, and two or three days afterwards the safety pin reappeared, point foremost.

The doctor says that it is one of the most wonderful cases he has ever heard of, that an open safety pin would pass point foremost, through stomach and intestines, to the heart almost miraculously. Orange pipe, gum, plum stones, melon seeds etc., are different. They have no point like that of a safety pin. There have been many instances of people swallowing glass, or things with sharp points or edges, and in many cases no harm is done. It is an dangerous experiment for anyone, and the Burlington family is sincerely thankful that the safety pin is again in safe place.

The three-year-old child of Mr. Russell, of the Strand hotel, had a somewhat similar experience. It swallowed a large safety pin, but the point was clasped. It was found without any harm to the child.

MURDERED IN A BOAT.

Youths of Penitentiary School Slay Inspector.

Paris, Aug. 29.—Three youths of the penitentiary school of Belle Isle, near Lorient, murdered the inspector in charge of them, yesterday.

Eight of the lads, under the charge of the inspector left Belle Isle in a boat, and were to have gone swimming. When they were some distance from the island three of them sprang at the inspector and threw him overboard.

He tried to climb into the boat again, but broke his skull with the blades of their oars, and he was drowned.

The other five lads in the boat who had sat perfectly still during the murder, were taken in the boat into a deserted nook on the beach near Quiberon (where Dreyfus was landed on his return from Devil's Island) and then set fire.

The murderers were arrested in the afternoon and the body of the inspector was recovered.

SAVES TWO BABIES.

Plunges Into River and Rescues Them.

Geneva, Aug. 29.—A young Swiss girl was, yesterday, wheeling two babies on the banks of the River Aar, at Terne, when she negligently left the perambulator.

Suddenly it started to run down the bank and plunged into the river, the two babies being thrown into the stream.

A young well-dressed Englishwoman, who heard the nurse's cry of alarm, and then saw the children disappearing in the water, at once plunged into the river—hat and all—and, after a long struggle, succeeded in safely landing the babies.

A crowd had collected by this time, and loudly cheered the Englishwoman, who refused to give her name. A gallant cabman offered his services, and drove the dripping girl back to her hotel, the crowd shouting "Brave, Anglaise!" as the carriage disappeared.

DOUBLE LOVE TRAGEDY.

Young Man Slays Girl and Blows Out Brains.

Pars, Aug. 29.—Jean Roblot, an infatuated young woodcutter, of Vevey, has committed suicide after murdering the daughter of the mayor of Clemency, with whom he thought himself in love.

Roblot had loved the girl from a distance, but had never spoken to her, and she had never answered his letters. He called at her father's house, yesterday, and asked for her hand, but was told to go away and not be importunate.

He left the house and hid himself among the bushes in the garden. When the girl passed he shot her dead, and then blew his own brains out.

LAD DIES OF GRIEF.

Shame of Being Suspected of Murder.

Milan, Aug. 29.—A pathetic sequel to the murderous attempt on a London nurse, Miss Lowe, in the Madane express, in January, 1906, is narrated from Turin. Among the many arrested suspected travellers in that train was a lad, sixteen, Paul Pellegrini, a chimney-sweeping in Turin.

The young mechanic was compelled to pass many weeks in prison before he succeeded in demonstrating his entire innocence to the satisfaction of the police. Since being set free he has been meeting the company officials at Montreal and will undoubtedly take the matter up at once.

QUITE ACTIVE

Tourists Stoned Through a Mistake.

THE STRIKE BREAKERS

MISTOOK THEM AS BELONGING TO OPPOSITE SIDE.

Fifteen Americans Hurt—Those Not Bruised Had Clothes Damaged—Fights Are Very Frequent—Police Had to Work Hard.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 29.—The strike situation here has reached an acute stage, and acts of violence are daily occurrence. Strike-breakers are beginning to come into town and liquor up with the result that bloody encounters are frequent. Thursday several strike-breakers became noisy and offensive, bragging of their determination to work for the C.P.R. in spite of endeavors to make them quit. A pitched battle ensued, resulting disastrously to the strike-breakers.

An unpleasant episode occurred on Thursday night when a party of tourists returning from French river were stopped by mistake. The road from the wharf passes property of the C.P.R. and, as the party, which consisted of fifteen Americans from Pittsburgh, approached the tracks a shower of missiles greeted them. Several of the party were severely bruised and many lost their hats in the confusion.

The responsibility for the outrage is uncertain. Strike-breakers claim that the assault was made by a party of strike-breakers, who thought the tourists were strikers and wished to retaliate for the injury sustained by comrades during the day. The C.P.R. policemen blame the strikers for the affair, but it seems hardly possible that the citizens, familiar with the tourist business, could make such a mistake. The strike-breakers, being strangers to local conditions, would be more likely to err in this direction.

Strike-breakers made a demonstration, marching toward the town, armed with clubs, but were driven back to the cars by company policemen.

Reports are given out that power and rolling stock are in good condition but your correspondent possesses facts showing that trainmen are holding meetings over the entire system protesting against risking their lives with equipment in its present shape.

A grievance committee of trainmen is now meeting the company officials at Montreal and will undoubtedly take the matter up at once.

COOL-CURED CHEESE

Dreams of Disaster, Refuses to Board Ship.

New York, Aug. 29.—Crying that he had dreamed that the French line steamer La Touraine, which sailed for Havre, would go down at sea, Marie Fenelli refused to go aboard the vessel, although every effort was made to induce her to change her mind.

With her husband and seven children, Mrs. Fenelli was to have sailed for their old home in Alessandria, Italy, where they intended to spend their remaining days, but the strange dream had so thoroughly frightened the woman that she would not go on the vessel.

Her husband and several friends tried to drag her on board, but she resisted desperately, and when La Touraine steamed away the woman with her little flock of children and an angry husband were still standing on the pier.

NO DOGS ALLOWED OUT.

London, Aug. 29.—The first summons under the new Kent control of dog law, 1908, which provides that no dog shall be allowed out between sunset and sunrise without effective restraint, was heard at the Bromley police court yesterday. The owner of the animal in question was ordered to pay the costs.

TO ASK HIS AID.

A despatch from Toronto says that a move is being made, by outside parties, to induce the Dominion government to call on Prof.

Adam Shortt, Queen's University, to endeavor to settle the C.P.R. strike.

GIRL'S PLUCK REWARDED.

Saves Life and is Promised Marriage Dowry.

Naples, Aug. 29.—Margherita Ferrari, an eighteen-year-old village girl, yesterday, saved the life of Signor Botani, a man of considerable wealth who was sailing in a small boat at Porto Cesario, on the Adriatic coast.

A storm arose, and before Signor Botani could return to port his boat was capsized. There were a number of spectators ashore, but they were debating whether it was safe to go out in so rough a sea, when Margherita Ferrari arrived on the scene.

Without hesitation she sprang into a boat and rowed out to the former Botani, just in time to save his life.

When she returned ashore with him she swooned, and it was several hours before she regained consciousness.

Signor Botani has made her happy by promising her a handsome dowry, which will enable her to be married at once.

At the cheese board, yesterday afternoon, 1,200 white and 420 colored boarded. Bidding started at 11c. and reached 12c., at which price 255 were sold.

ROBERTSON BROS.

RUSSIAN POLICE ALERT.

SECRET AGENT BEING CONTINUALLY WATCHED.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—In spite of the fact that the Russian revolution may be considered provisionally crushed, the police do not for a moment relinquish their watchfulness, employing a whole army of secret agents at home and abroad, and following every step of noted conspirators and suspicious individuals.

The agents abroad are particularly numerous in the centers of the revolutionary movement—St. Petersburg, Paris and London. No act of assembly escapes the sharp eyes of the police.

A highly placed detective said the other day that he generally knew even the matters debated and the results agreed on at these secret meetings, though he naturally declined to divulge by what methods he obtained the knowledge.
