Looking To Vermont.
New York, Aug. 31.—The outcome of the election, Tuesday, in Vermont, is awaited with keen interest at the headquarters of the republican and democratic national committees in this city. The showing made in this state in the number of the number of voters who go to the polls and the gains or losses to either party in comparison with the vote of four years ago will influence in no small degree the shaping of the campaign in all of the eastern states. It is conceded that the republican party will win.

AUTUMN SOWN CROPS.

The Results of Co-operative Experiments.

Three hundred and seven farmers throughout Ontario conducted experiments with autumn sown crops during the past year. Reports have been received from twenty-six of the counties of the province. Those counties which furnished the greatest number of good reports of successfully conducted experiments were Bruce, Norfolk, Middlesex, Grey and Halton. The experiments deserve much credit for themselves and for the farmers generally. Average results of the carefully conducted co-operative experiments with autumn sown crops are here presented in a very concise form.

Winter Wheat.—Three varieties of winter wheat were distributed last autumn to those farmers who wished to test some of the leading varieties on their own farms. The following are the averages in yield of straw and grain per acre: Imperial Amber, 1.4 tons and 25.9 bush.; Abundance, 1.2 tons and 23.3 bush.; and No. 5 Red, 1.2 tons and 22.6 bush.

Not only did the Imperial Amber give the greatest yield per acre in the co-operative experiments throughout Ontario in 1908 and in 1907, but it also came first in popularity with the experimenters in each of these years. The Imperial Amber will again be distributed throughout Ontario this autumn as one of the three varieties for co-operative experiments. The Dawson's Golden Chaff, which we distributed for co-operative experiments throughout Ontario in each of twelve years previous to the autumn of 1906, and which is probably grown more extensively in Ontario at the present time than all other varieties of winter wheat combined, has not been included in the co-operative tests since 1906.

Winter Rye.—Of the two varieties of winter rye distributed in the autumn of 1907, the Mammoth White stood first in average yield of grain with 24 bushels, and the Common, second with 28.6 bushels per acre. Last year the Mammoth White surpassed the Common rye by an average of 5 bushels per acre throughout Ontario.

Fertilizers with Winter Wheat.—In the co-operative experiments with different manures applied in the spring of the year, the average yields of grain per acre for the past five years are as follows: Mixed Fertilizer, 27.6 bush.; Nitrate of Soda, 25.8 bush.; Murate of Potash, 25.7 bush.; and Superphosphate, 25.3 bush. The unfertilized land gave an average of 22.4 bush. per acre. The Superphosphate was applied at the rate of 32 pounds and the Muritate Potash and the Nitrate of Soda, each 160 pounds per acre.

Fodder Crops.—In each of five years the seed of Hairy Vetches and of Winter Rye has been distributed throughout Ontario for co-operative experiments in testing these crops for fodder purposes. In the average of the five years' experiments, the Hairy Vetches produced slightly the largest yield of green fodder per acre, but in 1908 the largest yield was produced by the Winter Rye.

Distribution of Material for Experiments in 1908.—As long as the supply lasts, material will be distributed free of charge in the order in which the applications are received from Ontario farmers wishing to experiment and to report the results of any one of the following tests: 1. Three varieties of Winter Wheat; 2. two varieties of Winter Rye; 3. five fertilizers with Winter Wheat; 4. Autumn and Spring applications of Nitrates of Soda and Common Salt with Winter Wheat; 5. Winter Emmer with Winter Wheat or Winter Barley; 6. Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye as Fodder Crops. The size of each plot is to be one rod by two rods long. Material for numbers 3 and 4 will be sent by express and that for the other by mail—C. A. ZAVITZ, O.A.C., Guelph, Ont.

Ready For The Dollar.

The Delicatessen.

Marjorie, aged nine, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said: "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone, Marjorie said, "Mama, am I very ill?"

"No, dear, your temperature is a little over a hundred, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears. "Now, mama, I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get a hundred in anything."

REV. STEARNE TIGHE

SAID GOOD-BYE IN ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL.

He Has Served the Anglican Church For Fifty Years—Entered the Ministry to Fulfil His Mother's Dying Wish.

Rev. Stearne Tighe, who is leaving town to be with his daughters in Carleton Place, prefaced a beautiful and simply eloquent sermon in St. George's cathedral, on Sunday evening, by saying that it was due to the dying wish of a good mother that he had entered the ministry, in which he had been permitted to serve for half a century, and he regretted that more mothers were not so minded.

Mr. Tighe's text was, "God breatheth into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul," whereupon he opened up the history of religion from first to last. He declared that God, the source of light, is almighty and all powerful, and is a remarkable proof of the truth of holy scripture. It points out God as a God of deep love to the human race, to whom He has given all things needful for the body, and has bestowed also the more important element, the spiritual faculty. Both are of and from God, and with the life spiritual the third Person of the ever Blessed Trinity has most to do. The spiritual element never ceases, but goes into the presence of the Creator. Joy, sorrow, regret are evidences of the spiritual as separate from the carnal, and no surgeon, however skilled, has found wherein the body dwelt the spiritual elements, friendship, love, sympathy, kindness and good will.

We know little of what will come to pass when we go to the spiritual kingdom, but enough to feel sure that we will still be under the special guardianship of the Holy Spirit, from Whom all good derive come. Sometimes there is fear of death in those who have not tried to understand the gospel of the grace of God, and have not known Him. But the more we know of Him, through reading, study, prayer and the cultivation of better thoughts, the less will the fear be, knowing that He is just and loving to the utmost extreme. And even if we pass to His presence without this preparation, we may still feel sure of the infinite mercy, though before the presence of Christ we cannot help but feel self-condemned. "I am sorry," said the preacher, "that it will be made clear to me that we have been lovingly and patiently dealt with by our Creator. I love to dwell on the love of God, Who gave His Son, as only in this light can we discharge the duties of our religion." He that keepeth My commandments, he it is that loveth Me, not looking for reward but from affection and reverence for the Person of the Son of God. Our religion must be as the leaves working from the heart out. All the baptized are priests unto God, sworn to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things. Illness, in spiritual as in worldly things is disastrous, and could we do grander work than that for our King? We should show forth, in every act, the love of God. He and she only who do this are the Christian gentleman and Christian lady, and they will, influenced by Christ, go forth, in contentment, winning the blessing and regard of those who meet them.

Mr. Tighe read a lesson at matins and evensong, and after the latter service was given flowers from the cathedral clergy, both in the services and in kind deeds to the poor, and sick of the parish, and in losing him the parish loses a scholar and a Christian gentleman.
