In 1896 the total trade of the ountry was $230,025 000 and the revenue $36.618,590. The deficit was $330,-551. In 1908 the total trade was $650,-793 000 and the revenue $96,500,000, and there was a surplus of $19,000,000. One must judge by results. If it be extravagauce to increase the trade of the country from $259,000,000 to $650,000,000, and show a surplus of $19,000,000, then what should be said of the conservative overnment which secured a trade of $239 000,000 and came out at the end the year nearly half a million in debt If extravagance brings results such as

Devon was, supposed to have become But in 1831, that is to say, 275 years later, the earldom was claimed by William Courtenay, third Viscount Courtenay, of Powderham Castle, near Exeter, on the ground that in the patent creating the Earldom of Devon, in 1553 by Queen Mary, the words "de corpore stio" had been for some reason or other omitted; consequently that the inheritance of the peerage was not restricted to the heirs of the body of the nobleman upon whom the earldom had been bestowed, but extended to his collaterals. The recovery of a peerage in such a fashion, and by virtue of such an omission, is unique in the annals of the English aristocracy.
