HAD A LIVELY CHASE

AFTER A COLORED MAN WHO WAS DISORDERLY.

Constable Timmerman Had a Very Busy Time on Tuesday Afternoon—Notes From Police Court.

Police Constable Timmerman was the busiest man on the police force yesterday afternoon. He was on duty at the station, and inside of half an hour responded to three calls, and made as many arrests. The first call was received from an Ontario street hotel where a man under the influence of liquor, was creating a disturbance. The man was so "dead drunk," that Constable Timmerman had to secure a dray to get him to the lock-up. In the police court this morning, the prisoner gave the name of James Thompson and said his home was in Toronto. "This is the first time I was ever before you," said Thompson, who is a cripple, to the court. "I'll get out of town if you give me a chance."

"How far can you go in a day?" asked the court. "I can make four miles," was the reply. "Well, start out for Toronto, and make your four miles, but don't come back here again."

"All right, I will," said Thompson, as he left the court room. "I'm done with liquor forever." "Glad to hear you say that," was the court's final reply, and Thompson started on his road race towards the Queen City.

The second case that called the attention of Constable Timmerman, was that of a row which occurred near the ferry wharf. A number of young colored men came up from Alexandria bay, where they have been employed as servants, and one of them indulged too freely, and got somewhat troublesome. At the ferry wharf he endeavored to start up a fight with some of his companions. An effort was made to pull him off, but he still kept up the trouble and in the scuffle which followed, the main offender, Walter Williams, had his shirt pulled off his back.

When Constable Timmerman appeared in sight, Williams took to his heels and ran down the track. The constable went after him, and there was a lively chase which attracted a great deal of attention. For an old member of the force, Constable Timmerman showed up well in the sprinting line, and near the Anglo-American Hotel, caught his man, and hustled him off to the station, in a cab. On the way to the station the prisoner was still in his shirt, and he attracted considerable attention. The magistrate imposed a fine of $5 and costs, or twenty days, and the fine was paid by one of his friends.

Constable Timmerman's third call was for a first appearance drunk who had to be taken to the station in a cab. Constable Timmerman was certainly more than busy, when he had to call two cabs and a dray to get his man to the cells. Robert Heath, "on the Indian list" pleaded guilty to drunkenness, and was fined $10 and costs, and on a similar charge Alexander Mitchell was also taxed $10 and costs. "I was in Oswego, and I brought some liquor back with me," said Mitchell. "Better leave your head behind, next time," was the court's reply. "All right," said Mitchell with a smile.

"It is not safe for you to be found under the influence of liquor in this jurisdiction," added the magistrate. Simon Burns, arrested on a charge of stealing a hide from a K. & P. railway car, was discharged, there being no evidence to show that he was guilty of stealing it. Michael Hogan, called as a witness, told of Burns coming to him with a hide, for which the witness gave him a deposit of $1.50. No other witnesses were called.

Auto Racing At The Bijou. With characteristic enterprise the Bijou Theatre is the first to present in moving pictures, the remarkable automobile races recently held at Dieppe, in France, which are the most celebrated and fashionable auto-races in the world. "The Dieppe Circuit," as the track is called, is 245 miles long and during the races is kept clear of all vehicles except racing motors. During the last races it was covered at an average speed of 49 miles an hour, and in some parts a speed of seventy-two miles an hour was reached. Famous Freres who made the film employed ten moving picture cameras, which were stationed at the most dangerous parts of the track, and no less than five "screws" were caught by the cameras. The Dieppe races of 1907 were shown at The Bijou last autumn and were considered by many the most interesting pictures ever shown at The Bijou. That picture only one wreck was shown as against five in the 1908 races. "Edgar Summerby and 'Eileen My Own'."

A Red Hot Show. At the Princess this week, Kane and Langley, Dutch romances and dancing sourette, have been fine attractions. Mr. Kane kept the audience in laughter, and "wooden shoe" dancing is a unique feature. Miss Ethel Wellock is termed the Canadian Melba, her deep contralto voice has fine volume and she sings with great feeling. Her rendering of "Why Did They Sell Killarney" greatly pleased the audience. She will repeat the song throughout this week. George Hammond continues in illustrated songs, his "Bridget McCue," is all right.

AN ODD TANGLE

Developed in Regard to Oronhyatekha's Estate.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—An odd tangle of problems which has ever come before the Indian department of Canada for solution has arisen over the settlement of the estate of the late Dr. Oronhyatekha. The problem relates to the portion of his estate which lies on the Mohawk Reserve, in the township of Tyendinaga, near Deseronto. The reserve in question consists of about 17,000 acres of land, and the population located there, according to the last report of the department, is 1,327. Residences on the reserve are not confined strictly to Indians, as some sixty odd white people have leases on the Mohawk lands, and most of these leasees reside on the reserve. None of the members of the band have absolute title to any portion of the land but rights have been acquired, and holdings secured, which have continued in the possession of different Indian families for many years.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, who died in Savannah, Ga., on March 3rd, 1907, left a beautiful property known as "The Pines." His interest in this property was absolutely so far as the buildings were concerned, but the band, as a whole, still retain part interest in the land itself, on which the dwelling stands. Dr. Oronhyatekha, at the time of his death, was survived by one son, Dr. Adland Oronhyatekha, and one daughter, Mrs. Johnston. The daughter having married a white man, Percy J. Johnson, is now, in the eyes of the law, a white woman.

As is well known, the son of the late supreme chief of the I.O.F., Dr. Adland Oronhyatekha, died suddenly, last year, not long after the demise of his illustrious father. Complications have arisen in connection with the settlement of the estate of "The Pines," consequent upon the fact that two widows of Dr. Adland Oronhyatekha have put in claims for an interest therein. It seems that the first Mrs. Adland Oronhyatekha, whom he married in England more than a decade ago, some years ago secured a divorce in the United States from her husband. Then the young doctor contracted a second marriage.

One would naturally think that the first Mrs. Adland Oronhyatekha, by reason of the divorce, would have contracted herself out of any interest in the estate of her former husband, but, under the Indian act, when a white woman marries an Indian she becomes an Indian woman in the eyes of the law, and is not affected by the ordinary code. It is this ground, that widow No. 1 claims an interest in the belongings of her former husband.

The contention is opposed by the legal representatives of widow No. 2, who hold that she alone is entitled to her late husband's interest in "The Pines" property. The problem is an interesting one, involving as it does questions of Indian title, custom and tradition, and it is taxing the legal minds of the department to the fullest extent. All the papers in the case have been referred to ex-Ald. J. G. Ramsden, of Toronto, one of the Indian inspectors, for a full report. It is likely that he will have to hold a special court at Deseronto for the purpose of taking evidence of the chiefs of the band. Interviewed by the Mail and Empire, last night, Mr. Ramsden said it was impossible for him to discuss the matter at the present juncture. Owing to the absence of the chief parties concerned, he had not been able to prosecute the necessary enquiries.

W. F. NICKLE INJURED.

In Collision With Handcar Near Mississippi. W. F. Nickle, M.P.P., was the victim of a rather serious accident, on Monday night, on the Kingston and Pembroke railway, near Mississippi. With Engineer Hare and Roadmaster Irwin, they were running along the line on a gasoline driven lorry, when they ran into a standing handcar and with force enough to throw the man high into the air and then sprawling upon the ground. The lorry was considerably damaged by the impact. All the men were hurt, but luckily not seriously. The member for Kingston has a badly damaged shoulder. He was held that she alone is entitled to her late husband's interest in "The Pines" property. The problem is an interesting one, involving as it does questions of Indian title, custom and tradition, and it is taxing the legal minds of the department to the fullest extent.

Nothing Serious Happily. Mrs. Allaire Shortt, of "Otterburn," met with what might have been a serious accident, on Tuesday afternoon, while driving to Kingston Mills. Meeting three bulls being driven along the road her broncho took fright, quite forgetting, apparently, old friends of the plains, and overturned the cart. Mrs. Shortt and her two visitors were thrown out, but beyond a few bruises, and scratches there was no harm done.

CLOSED HIS MOUTH

JILTED MAN HASN'T SPOKE IN THIRTY YEARS.

Brooding Over Love Affair, Landis Lives Silently Near Home of His Former Sweetheart.

Middleton, N.Y., Sept. 2.—For thirty years, Benjamin Landis, who lives in a modest little home with his mother, two miles outside of this town has not conversed with friends or relatives because, it is reported, he was jilted by a girl whom he loved when a youth. More than thirty years ago "Ben" Landis wooed Miss Fannie Gingerich, who was then the belle of the countryside, and who married Harry Snavely. Landis, who was eighteen years old, tried to forget, and went west to seek the excitement of a mining camp or life on a ranch. For several years he lived near Kansas City, but finally returned to his mother, near Middletown. The name had not died, but he was a far different "Ben" Landis from the one who went away a few years before. Relatives declare that he "became queer while in the west," but the neighbors and friends say, "it was the girl." It was at this time in his life that he took a vow never again to speak to anyone, and he had lived up to his resolution unflinchingly for thirty years. To-day, the girl whom Landis wooed is a widow, her husband having been killed on a railroad sixteen years ago. She lives with her parents very near the Landis home, but "Ben" Landis never talks to her.

MAN SHOT BY A BOY.

G. T. R. Section Hand Was the Victim.

James Ferguson, employed as a section hand on the Grand Trunk railroad, was accidentally shot in the left arm, about 6.40 o'clock this morning, by a boy named Harry Knox. The man was working on the track and young Knox was taking the rifle into the city to have some repairs made to it. He was carrying it with the barrel towards the track, when it accidentally exploded, hitting Ferguson in the arm. The bullet entered the left arm just above the elbow, passing through the muscle and entering his side. Fortunately the force of the bullet was spent when it entered the man's side or fatal results might have followed. The man, after a brief rest, when a handkerchief was tied around his arm, was able to walk to his residence on Stephen street, where medical aid was summoned and the bullet removed. The wound in the arm is a clean one, and no serious results are anticipated. Another accidental shooting affair occurred in the city the other day, when a man was fooling with a revolver. It went off in the hands of one, and put a bullet in the leg of his companion, a fortunate thing, for it might have well been more serious. The bullet has not been removed as yet; it is hoped it will become encysted. He is at present in bed.

For A Delightful Sail. Take the steamer America's tour of the Thousand Islands, Thursday, 2.30 p.m. Supper on board. 50c.

The Nurses' Alumnae Association, of Kingston General Hospital, met at the nurses' home on Tuesday afternoon.
