

THE 5 P.M. EDITION

LOCAL RUGBY CIRCLES.

All the Teams Are Busy Practising. Queen's players are out every evening, kicking the football. All the players have not yet returned, but some are here. Elliott, Macdonnell, Turner, Moran, Gibson and others are already getting in trim. The men that have been out are in fine condition. Williams will soon be back from the states, and the other players are coming in every day. Manager Donald Cameron is in the city and will have everything in readiness when the season opens.

Junior Rugby Teams. Many junior teams are at practice every afternoon. The cricket field is filled with youthful followers of the rugby game, and some of them seem to be made of the right stuff for good players. It would be a fine thing if a league were formed embracing the school teams, as it would make them take a better interest in the game and would also fit them for junior league company, in a year or so.

Collegiate Rugby Teams. The Kingston Collegiate team is also working out every afternoon after school. The team lost a number of good players, but has yet some fine material to pick from. It is not decided yet whether the team will enter the junior intercollegiate league or not, but, in all probability, it will give it a try. Last season the collegiate would have made a fine showing as it defeated some of the best junior teams in the series.

Cadets Hard At Work. The cadets are out in earnest now, and are showing fine form. Many of the best of the team graduated, but some good ones came in to take their places. The two Kingstons, Muddell and Stewart, are showing up well, and should find no trouble in catching places. They are both good men, and understand the game thoroughly.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE. Summers' Stock Company Still on the Boards. Notwithstanding additional attractions there was a fairly good attendance at the Grand Opera House, last evening, to witness George H. Summers and his stock company in "The Almighty Dollar." The company is growing in popular favor nightly by the creditable manner in which the various members carry out their allotted parts.

In the specialties Rowley and Gay, in their comedy sketches and singing, carried the audience with them and were repeatedly recalled. Master Louis Atwell, the boy soprano, sang two pretty songs, "Alice Where Art Thou Going," and "Any Old Time At All." The three Hylands, the musical comedy artists, were the recipients of much praise, while their selections on the trombone and cornet well deserved the applause they received.

PUSH CART ON WALK. Owner Summoned to the Police Court. Pleading ignorance of the law, Peter Edwards, escaped a fine, when arraigned before the magistrate, this morning, on a charge of having his push cart on the sidewalk. Edwards is out early every morning, after business, and the noise of his cart on the sidewalk has been the means of keeping some good citizens from their sleep. A complaint registered to the police, led up to the charge against Edwards, of violating one of the city by-laws.

"I did not know that I had not the right to go on the sidewalk," said the accused to the court. The magistrate said that he would take this excuse, but that in the future, Edwards must keep his push cart on the road, and then there would be no trouble.

Where Is The Bluff? Toronto Globe. There is but little heroism or devotion to electoral party in a promise to resign if connections are proved while employing an array of legal talent to suppress evidence and prevent proof. The leaders must take the responsibility for it rests with them to disclose or conceal, to punish or condone. And it rests with the rank and file of the party, whose chief interest is the purifying of Canada's public life, to express their disapproval in a way that will have a reformatory effect.

THE MILITARY TATTOO

ON BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS LAST EVENING.

Seven Thousand People Witnessed the Performance—The Sight Was Grand to Behold—Fireworks the Best Ever Seen Here. Fully seven thousand people were assembled on Barrie-field Heights, on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the annual military tattoo of the 11th-Regiment of Kingston. The tattoo certainly merited the large crowd, and the annual military tattoo of the 11th-Regiment of Kingston. The tattoo certainly merited the large crowd, and the annual military tattoo of the 11th-Regiment of Kingston. The tattoo certainly merited the large crowd, and the annual military tattoo of the 11th-Regiment of Kingston.

The plot of ground chosen for the tattoo was quite a distance from the heights, and a line of soldiers kept the people outside the ropes. At eight o'clock the hill was black with people. There was no light up to the time, other than the pale rays of the moon, and as one, coming down the road, passing through the tented cities, on both sides of the road, heard the pawing of horses, the flapping of tents, once in a while a bugle call, and then was suddenly brought in sight of the great mass of people drawn up in a square, without a light to distinguish one another by, it made one think what the soldiers were really for, and wonder for a moment if they had been engaged in a pitched battle. About 8.15 o'clock, the multitude began to wonder why the tattoo did not begin, when suddenly the strains of the 11th Regimental march were heard, and into the enclosure marched the King's Rifle Bandsmen, under the command of Walker. After the 11th the other bands came in, each playing its own regimental air, until they arrived at their post, then one band's regimental march was taken up and played by the band that preceded it into the enclosure, so that the eight bands were in the enclosure, they were all playing the regimental march of the last regiment to enter. The bands entered in the following order: 14th, 16th, 40th, 45th, 46th, 47th, 49th and 57th. The following program was rendered by the bands of music and was greatly enjoyed: "British Grenadiers," "United Empire" (Waldmire), "In Old Quebec," "Dominion Grand March," "Rud Britannia," "Nearer My God To Thee," and "God Save the King."

During the intermission between the musical numbers, the large enclosure was turned into a veritable elves play ground, by one of the finest exhibits of fireworks ever seen in this section. The display was simply magnificent. Giant rockets would send hundreds of feet up into the dark night to shower hundreds of many colored stars down upon the ground; large fountains would make the complete square bright by its many colored lights, making a very pretty scene. Hundreds of other devices, such as man candles, wheels, and many others, were used. Two large fire balloons were filled and sent up near the first of the performance, and they could be seen for a long time, until they finally became so small they could not be told from one of the many stars that gazed peacefully down on the night's gathering.

The tattoo of 1908 will certainly linger in the minds of all as the best one yet, and every citizen, last evening, expressed the same feeling. Everything that could be done was done by Col. Gordon and his staff for the comfort of the public, and they succeeded, even beyond the hopes of the citizens, who are not always easy to please. The affair was over by 9.15 o'clock, but it was quite late before the thousands were all home.

The arrangements for the tattoo were in charge of Maj. Canon Starr and Capt. Hughes. These two energetic officers deserve great credit for the success of the affair.

CITY BUILDINGS' DOME. Property Committee to Decide This Afternoon. This afternoon, the city property committee was called to meet to receive the last plan and estimate of a new city buildings dome from Joseph Packer. The three plans submitted a week ago were considered too costly, and the architect was instructed to prepare a plan for the restoration of the burned dome on the same lines. Whatever the estimate for this work may be, it is not likely that the committee can replace the dome, clock and bell, at a cost less than the amount of the insurance received for the damage. So that to remodel the existing of the buildings and put in hot water heating with the drained-off surplus is out of question, if the dome is properly constructed. It is to be hoped the committee will agree, this afternoon, on a scheme, and not have any more delays. It has been suggested that if the mayor and a couple other decisive old-headed aldermen had been added to the property committee to take up the dome question, the work of construction would have been started by this time.

STOLE A SWEATER. A Yankee Caught Wearing the Stolen Garment. About 1:30 o'clock, on Thursday afternoon, a daring theft was committed on King street. Some United States visitors entered the men's furnishing store of J. P. Forrest, to purchase some sweaters. When they entered a white sweater was hanging outside the door, and ten minutes later it was gone. A call was sent to the police station that the sweater had been taken, and a man was put on the case. Before the policeman arrived Mr. Forrest saw a Yankee across the street wearing a white sweater on that looked very much like the one he had lost. He called the fellow across the road, examined the sweater and finally claimed it. The thief denied it at first, saying that he purchased it at Ogdenburg for one dollar, but later Ogdenburg for one dollar. He was glad to return it and escape prosecution. Mr. Forrest did not care to have the man arrested so gave him a chance. P. C. Filson, later arrested a man named John Johnson, for stealing the sweater. He will appear before the magistrate to-morrow morning.
