Far-Seeing Investors Buy Real Estate

The broad-minded person sees the opportunities it offers. He sees the population ever increasing and with that increase a steady rise in values as the years pass.

As a city grows, city property enhances. As the farming country becomes more thickly populated, the soil becomes more and more in demand and prices go up.

You cannot make a mistake in buying either Kingston real estate or farming lands in this section, and no matter in which proposition you are interested, I can be of real service to you.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH ADVISES THE PEOPLE TO BE VACCINATED

As a Precaution Against Smallpox—City Council to Be Asked to Secure a Suitable Hospital—To Prepare For the Disease.

The Board of Health has decided to ask the city council to enforce the vaccination law as a precaution against an outbreak of smallpox here this coming winter, as Brockville had last winter. Since last spring there have been a number of smallpox cases of mild form here. No publicity was given as practically no danger existed. The cases were all taken care of by the Board of Health which used a frame building on the smaller site as a hospital. None of these cases was ever vaccinated. All of them, with one exception, were poor people who had to be treated and kept at the city's expense, the cost to date being about $1,500.

The Board of Health is now asking the city council for a suitable hospital building for all seasons of the year. Such a building or the money for one, the city must furnish. The cold weather is approaching, and if more cases develop, proper shelter must be had for patients and attendants. In connection with this, the board puts itself on record as advising everyone who has not been vaccinated within five years, to submit to vaccination as a precaution. No doubt a discussion of the value of vaccination will result from this action of the Board of Health, but the board has simply asked the city council to carry out the Ontario Health law.

Dr. Etherington introduced the matter at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the health board when he moved that a suitable building be requested to furnish a suitable building for contagious disease cases. The building being used in the cold weather, and a better building must be secured. The board must take this action in the interest of the people, the mover said. The motion was adopted unanimously.

On motion of Dr. Evans, Mr. King and Dr. Etherington were empowered to take up the matter of a suitable site and building, find out the probable cost, and appear before the council at its next meeting to urge immediate action. Dr. Etherington moved also that the city council be asked to take the necessary steps to carry out the terms of vaccination act and that the Board of Education be requested to carry out the clauses in the act respecting the schools. Dr. Etherington pointed out that the whole medical profession was in favor of vaccination as a safeguard against smallpox, and it behooved the Board of Health to insist upon the law being carried out here. He wasn't an alarmist, he said, but as a member of the health board he proposed to prepare for an emergency. It might be reasonably expected that there would be a number of smallpox cases here this winter.

Dr. Evans wanted the question of vaccination left over till the next meeting of the board to give the members time to consider it. He said as long as he was a member of the board, he would never vote for compulsory vaccination. Dr. Etherington insisted upon his motion being put. Dr. Evans asked for the yeas and nays and the vote resulted as follows: Yeas—Chairman Corbett, Mayor Ross, Dr. Etherington, Francis King, John Lennon—5. Nays—Dr. Evans—1. The other member of the board, Dr. Knight, was absent.

A communication was received from City Solicitor McIntyre regarding the liability of Dr. W. T. Connell, provincial bacteriologist at Queen's, to test samples of sewage. The solicitor advised a reference of the matter to the provincial board of health. This the board decided to do.

Regarding the North street sewer outlet which constitutes a nuisance, the solicitor advised that the city's duty was to abate the nuisance so as to prevent ratepayers taking action. The City Engineer has reported upon this sewer and advocated extending it from the basin, partially filled in by the K. & P. railway, into deeper water. The solicitor made mention of the fact that if the city continued to allow land along the harbor front to become vested in private corporations, the time would come when it would find much difficulty in securing an outlet for the city's sewage.

The medical health officer said that the nuisance was a bad one. The sewage was floating about in the basin. The matter had been brought to the attention of the city council over two years ago, and some logs which blocked the sewer had been ordered removed. This, however, did not abate the nuisance. The North street sewer is a trunk sewer, like the O'Kil street sewer. The health officer said that the K. & P. railway company was willing to allow the city to extend the sewer through its government leased land.

The mayor stated that last year the city council had taken the initiative to have the government grant it had required for the extension of a number of streets to the water—streets that are at present blocked.

On motion of Dr. Evans, the board appointed Mr. King to appear before the city council to urge it to take immediate steps to have all streets extended to the water's edge for the purpose of sewage outlet.

Complaints were received from several persons regarding the flushing of untrapped grates during the dry season. They claimed that the odor was most unhealthful. The medical health officer said that flushing of grates was certainly needed. Mr. King said he didn't see why it wasn't possible to have the grates regularly flushed. The first men could do it. He moved that the board recommend the city council to install some system of trapping the grates of the street drains and that until this is done, some system of flushing during the dry season be adopted. This motion was carried.

The health officer said that flushing should take place at once, accordingly it was decided that the chairman and the health officer should interview the Board of Work's chairman and try and arrange for the necessary flushing. Dr. Evans, at the request of a physician, brought up the question of attendance at the contagious disease hospital. The physician protested on behalf of himself and others against the procedure there in allowing a young doctor to attend a smallpox patient and then mingle with the people. The chairman reported that the doctor had during the past week or so been treating a patient a couple times a day. The sub-committee of the board consisting of himself, Dr. Etherington and Dr. Ross had notified him that he must either go into quarantine at the hospital or cease attendance upon any patient. They deemed it unsafe for a physician to attend a case there daily and then move about throughout the city.

A PLEASING CONCERT

Was Given in St. George's Hall on Tuesday.

The stereotyped phrase, "a large and fashionable audience," was quite true of the assemblage in St. George's hall, on Tuesday night, when Mrs. Carolina Molina, of New York, sang, and Miss Muriel King played. And better, the audience was a preponderant musical one, and, therefore, appreciative of the very high type of music given. Of Miss King's playing, so much has been said in praise in the past, that little remains. One of its chief charms is its cleanness—never a note of rump or chord is lost or blurred, but each receives its full value of tone and effect. Another praiseworthy thing is her skill use of the pedal, which never confuses a harmony, but only gives a singing richness to her music. Miss King received many encores, and at the last, for an insistent recall, played a dance of Norway, a most attractive number. Of Miss Molina's voice, one of its charms is that it grows on the hearer, developing new beauties. She is at her best in songs of gaiety, brightness and lightness being the inheritance of her nationality. Her registers are well balanced and her sweet and ringing notes are singularly sweet and ringing. A pleased audience called her back again and again, and she sang sweet, lilting little songs in reply.

FELL AT TORY HILL

A DRUMMER NEARLY ENDS HIS LIFE.

Traveller Had Narrow Escape—Nearly Fell Between Cars of Moving Train.

A Lindsay despatch says: "One of the travellers for Crothers' candy and biscuit firm, Kingston, had the narrowest possible escape from death at Tory Hill on Thursday. The 'drummer's' name is Hughes and his route extends throughout the north county where he is well known and popular. At Tory Hill he was boarding a train, when it was moving out of the depot and grabbed the hand rails of the passenger coach, which was second from the last. One hand slipped and Hughes swung in between the cars. Those who saw the mishap held their breath expecting to see the man fall beneath the wheels of the train. The traveller, lucky for himself, is a muscular man, and as the train gathered speed, he swung out again and dropped on the platform.

The feat was an extraordinary one, Hughes being stout man. For an instant he said afterwards, he could not get his breath, but he had sense enough to hang on firmly with the one hand. "The greatest muscular feat I ever saw," said Jack Anderson, of Tory Hill.

POLICE NOTIFY SCAVENGERS

When Calls Are Sent to Police Station.

In regard to the complaint made about one of the city scavengers not attending to business, it might be stated that when calls are received for the scavenger at the police station, an order is written out by the constable who receives the call, and the order is left for the scavenger. Some people have been under the impression that when the police are notified of such cases, that they themselves see that the work is done. This is not their work. The two city scavengers working under the board of health, have each a box, situated at the entrance to the police station. When a police constable receives a telephone call, or is notified otherwise, that a scavenger is wanted, he immediately writes out an order, and leaves it in one of the boxes.

The rules of the board of health say that the scavenger must call each morning for these orders, and it is then up to him. These orders have been allowed to remain in the box for days at a time, and that is what has been causing much trouble.

REPORT FINE CAMP.

Men Pleased With Stay at Petawawa.

Men who have been here for a few days, from the camp of the R.C.H.A., at Petawawa, speak in the highest terms of the camp. They have had fine weather, and nothing has occurred which in any way marred event. The men expect to return to Kingston about Sept. 25th., and although well pleased at the camp, will be glad to get back to barracks here once more. The men left here in the middle of July, to attend the big celebration at Quebec, and at its close, went into camp at Petawawa.

The smoke from bush fires caused some trouble at the camp a couple of days last week, when drilling had to be stopped. A thick haze, with the smoke, set all over the field, and it was found impossible to carry on the work.

Injured On Boat.

William Kellar, employed as cook on board the steamer Targona, met with a painful accident, while the vessel was at Swift's wharf, on her way west. He fell down the hold, and had a very narrow escape from receiving serious injuries. He suffered several severe cuts and bruises, but, luckily, no bones were broken. After receiving medical attendance, he was able to proceed on the trip.

Leaving For The West.

The homeseekers' excursion to the west over the C.P.R., yesterday, tried quite a number from this vicinity. All the excursions during the summer have been well patronized, and it is safe to say that Kingston has sent her share of workers to the golden west this year. A great number intend taking up homesteads, and will, no doubt, become useful citizens.

The London Advertiser insists that the Kingston Standard has given an exhibition of fine old crusted tourism when it endorses the doctrine of a superior class born to rule and govern. "This doctrine," says the Advertiser, "is pretty well discredited in this young, democratic country, even in the Tory party. The Standard spoils it with an argument that smacks either of snobbery or apocrypha."

Our local contemporary shows a curious compound of puerility and malice in a criticism of W. S. Calvert, M.P. It is the first time we have heard the theory advanced that a member of parliament loses his usefulness to his constituents when he accepts the office of party whip. It has always been considered a post of honor. In the mother of parliaments the position is a mark of special distinction. The seat of the great blackstone before he entered his cabinet was the chief liberal whip. In Canada the office has been held by some of our foremost public men. The chief conservative whip is George Taylor, of Leeds, a member of the commons for twenty-five years, and one of Mr. Borden's right-hand men. How would he relish being told that his post was a degradation and disqualified him for re-election?

Gave A Fine Concert. The Salvation Army barracks was filled to the doors, last night, for the concert given by Major and Mrs. Thomas Plant. The programme proved a most delightful one. The major also favored with a short address during the evening. Mrs. Plant rendered a couple of solos, and also gave some selections on the Canadian sleigh bells. The concert was the best ever given at the local barracks. Major Plant is master of several instruments, and the programme was one that was most pleasing.
