Held in Princess Street Methodist Church.

Addresses By Rev. W. H. Sparling, T. F. Harrison and Rev. Mr. Nelles—A Fine Programme of Music Was Given.

Despite the storm last evening the Princess street Methodist Sunday school anniversary was a decided success. Those who braved the elements and attended this popular function were amply repaid.

All that could be desired by the most confirmed epicure and the intellectual feast was equally good. T. F. Harrison filled the chair in his usual happy manner, and after a vocal octave, composed of Princess street and Bethel male quartettes, he gave a short address, filled with advice to Sunday school workers after an experience of thirty-five years in this work.

Rev. Mr. Sparling followed with a practical and eloquent address, in which he admonished the parents regarding their duty to Sunday school work. Miss Gertrude Laidley sang a solo in her usual charming manner, and Mrs. Sproule followed with one of her popular recitations which elicited a hearty encore to which she responded later in the programme, at the request of the chairman. A fine duet was given by Messrs. Mack and Armstrong and a mixed quartette by Misses Laidley, Sherbino, and Messrs. Mack and Armstrong.

Messrs. Mack and Armstrong, Nelles was then called upon and, despite the lateness of the hour, held the audience's closest attention by his mixture of humor and pathos.

The closing number was a vocal march by the octet, which could scarcely be excelled. Two numbers, by the Bethel male quartette were also much enjoyed during the evening. This delightful entertainment was then brought to a close by the audience joining in the national anthem.
