WIVES WITH HIM

A LANDED PROPRIETOR IN CHINA.

Bosman a Wealthy Resident of China, Held Up By the San Francisco Immigration Officials.

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—Although he is worth $3,000,000 and is the largest landed proprietor in Hong Kong, Robert H. Bosman, who arrived on the steamer Korea, is detained on board the vessel and denied permit to land because he has five wives.

Two of his wives are with him and three more are awaiting his return in the Orient.

Bosman made no attempt to conceal the facts and freely admitted to the immigration inspectors that he is a polygamist. His case will be made the subject of consideration by a special board of inquiry.

Bosman was born in China, his father being a British subject, while his mother is a Chinese. He is forty-four years old. Twenty-seven years ago he married a half Chinese woman. No children resulted from the union and following the Chinese custom Bosman took another wife. By this wife he had seven children, three of whom accompanied him on the present trip.

When an immigration inspector asked Bosman who the women were who accompanied him he said: "I have three more in Hong Kong." The inspector then told him that the law is very strict against the admission of polygamists and that he must remain on the steamer pending action by the government.

Bosman says he is a friend of Mr. Taft and entertained him in Hong Kong. He is also a close friend of Wu Ting Fang. He says he will bring powerful pressure to bear on the government to get a permit to land. He has half a score of servants.

POLYGAMY NOT DEAD.

Anti-Church Party in Utah Charges the Mormons.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 1.—The American party, the anti-church organization, last night nominated a state ticket and adopted a platform which declares that polygamy is still actively practiced in Utah by prominent Mormon church officers and members without pretence to conformity with President Woodruff's manifesto in 1890, and that there is no intention of discontinuing the practice.

Another plank charges that the church authorities monopolize many lines of business within the state and demand the complete separation of church and state.

The state ticket is headed by John A. Street, of Salt Lake City, for governor.

HIDE DRINKS IN BREAD.

Thirsty Ones Have Will and Find the Way.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 1.—The sale and distribution of the whiskey sandwich is the latest method of evading the liquor laws in the state of Alabama. Loaves of bread, cut and arranged like crumpets and sandwiches, are sold over the counters in lunchrooms presumably operated for that very purpose, a bottle of whiskey being cleverly arranged between the layers of the bread.

It is said that questionable lunch-rooms have sprung up all over the state in which these contraband goods constitute practically the total bill of fare.

The discovery of the whiskey sandwich was made by the warden at the Birmingham jail, who took it into his head to examine an apparently innocent sandwich which was brought to the jail for one of the prisoners by a relative. Upon opening the loaf a bottle of whiskey was discovered. A rigid investigation was then put on foot, which resulted in the discovery that the whiskey sandwich is already an important article of commerce in Alabama.

COST OF ATLANTIC TRADE.

Proposition By Which It Could Be Greatly Reduced.

Berlin, Oct. 1.—The Tageblatt publishes an interview with Herr Ballin, director of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, in which he states that two months ago he submitted to the North German Lloyd, the Hamburg-American, the Cunard, the White Star and American lines a proposal that they arrange a common shipping programme, which would enable the companies to lay up or break up a number of old ships in the Atlantic service with a view to economy. The present extreme costliness of the Atlantic trade could be reduced by common agreement more than $12,000,000 annually. An agreement might be made by which one of the largest and most modern steamships would sail daily eastward and westward if they could agree upon terms. Herr Ballin does not say what became of the proposal.

HOLE CUT IN CHEEK.

Little Girl of Watertown Painfully Injured.

Watertown, N.Y., Oct. 1.—With a hole cut through her cheek from a fall upon a large hook Helen Duncan, a five-year-old girl who resides with Mr. and Mrs. David C. Haskin, at No. 720 Franklin street, was the victim of a painful accident yesterday. Dr. Monroe Smith was called to dress the child's injuries, finding the wound a bad one, which may require her life-long treatment.

Mr. Haskin had just reached the barn from a drive when the child ran out to greet him. Whether or not she fell upon the hook, used in the barn, cannot be ascertained. Mr. Haskin carried her in his arms and the barn and was summoned as quickly as possible.

HUNTING FATALITY.

Youth Picking Gum Accidentally Shot Dead.

Woodstock, N.B., Oct. 1.—A fatal shooting accident occurred at South New Bridge, yesterday. Stanley Turner, aged seventeen years, son of John Turner, of Campbell Settlement, York county, had been visiting his sister, Mrs. Stephen Clarke, and, in company with Harold McCarthy, he was hunting. Young McCarthy went up a tree to pick gum and left Turner standing below. The gun was resting on a log, and, in some manner, slipped off, causing the discharge of the weapon. The charge entered Turner's stomach and came out at his shoulder. His father was summoned, and after the boy told him how the accident happened, he succumbed to the wound.

CUT TO NEARLY HALF.

Almost 100,000 Reduction—Influx From U.S. Unchanged.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—The total immigration into Canada, from January, 1907, to August, was 77,833, as compared with 216,772 for the same period last year, a decrease of forty-six per cent. Immigration at ocean ports was 74,569, as compared with 175,816, showing a decrease of 59,247 for the eight months. From the United States immigration was 49,964, as compared with 49,956 for the same period last year, an increase of eight persons. From April of this year until August, 342 immigrants were refused admission to Canada at ocean ports and 1,366 were refused admission from United States for the same period.

Triumph Of Cheap Postage.

London, Oct. 1.—An unprecedented flood of letters addressed to points in the United States poured into the post offices throughout Great Britain and Ireland to-day, as the result of the inauguration of penny postage between King Edward's dominion and the land of Uncle Sam. Post office officials in London declare that never before have they been called upon to handle so much American mail, and it seems that every Englishman or Irishman who has relatives across the seas has taken advantage of the first day of cheap postage to post one or more letters. A banquet will be held to-night, at which officials of the British post office department and other prominent men, including distinguished Americans, will celebrate the first great step toward the realization of Rowland Hill's dream of penny postage for the whole wide world.

Cigarette Shut Out.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 1.—Judges of the supreme court of the state of Washington have decided that the cigarette tax must go, having agreed that the anti-cigarette law, enacted by the legislature of 1907, is constitutional. This reverses a ruling by Judge E. H. Sullivan, of the Spokane county superior court, who declared it unconstitutional, from the fact that the title of the law is in conflict with its provisions. The decision by the upper court means it is unlawful to manufacture, sell or give away the paper rolls or "the makings" in any other part of the commonwealth.

MONTE CARLO BANK.

Sir Hiram Maxim's Claim That It Can't Be Broken.

London, Oct. 1.—The unique gambling contest between Sir Hiram Maxim and Lord Rosslyn came to an end yesterday and shows defeat for the system advanced by the latter. Lord Rosslyn claimed that by his system of play it was possible to win at roulette against the Monte Carlo bank. Sir Hiram said this was impossible and in order to settle the controversy the two men began playing roulette in a Monte Carlo club ten days ago. Sir Hiram conducted the game in the same way it is played at Monte Carlo. Lord Rosslyn started to play with $50,000 in dummy money and the bank had an equal amount.

Lord Rosslyn's system has been proved to be utterly fallacious. At one period of the contest he was about $16,000 in the good, but for the past three days the bank has been a steady winner and his lordship's capital in "dummy" money became exhausted.

AWFUL DEATH

Of Henry Thomas Smith, Near Collins Bay.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

BLEW OFF THE TOP OF HIS HEAD.

His Brother Alfred Was Terribly Wounded, and Loses An Arm—The Brothers Were Blasting a Boulder—A Neighbor Made the Awful Discovery.

By the premature explosion of a charge of dynamite, Henry Thomas Smith, who lived near Collins Bay, met instant death on Wednesday afternoon. All that was mortal of him lay in a mangled heap beside a huge boulder on his farm. On the other side of the boulder lay his brother, Alfred P. Smith, terribly wounded.

The terrible accident occurred in a field just back of the residence of the man who lost his life, one mile this side of Collins Bay. The two brothers left shortly after dinner to go to a pasture field and blast out a huge granite boulder, which was in the centre of the field. They went immediately to work, drilling a hole in the centre of the rock in which to place the dynamite. Just how the accident occurred cannot yet be ascertained, but it is thought that in putting in the charge it must have been jarred against the rock, causing it to explode.

One can imagine the two brothers leaning over the boulder putting in the dynamite, when, without warning, the powerful explosive went off, rending the rock in half, and casting fragments for many feet around. The elder brother was hit above the eyes by a huge piece of rock and the whole top of his head was carried off. He fell back to the ground, dead, never knowing what hit him.

The other man had his left hand smashed to a pulp, his face badly burned and other injuries on different parts of his body.

Edward Arnold was walking from the house to the field when he heard the explosion but did not think anything was wrong until he did not see the two men in starting back for the rock. He hurried to the scene and found them, one lying dead on one side of the broken boulder, and the other on the ground, with his right hand up to his face as if trying to take something from his eyes.

Alfred was conscious when Arnold arrived and in reply to a question said: "Yes, I am badly hurt, and Henry is killed." The wounded man succeeded in walking to the house, a distance of about three hundred yards when he arrived the pain became too great and he lost consciousness. George Smith, a neighbor, drove him at once to the Kingston general hospital, where he was treated.

Another girl was secured and men started back to the field to remove the remains of Henry Smith to his home. It was a very sad sight as the men reached the house and carried the mangled body in among those that the dead man loved most on earth, and laid it carefully down. The men went back to the field and succeeded in securing his brains and pieces of his skull, which were scattered over the field for a distance of a hundred feet or more. These pieces of his body were gathered together in a bag at one end, the head remains awaiting the coming of the coroner. Dr. Ross was summoned and took the evidence of one man, Edward Arnold. It was a clear case of accident and no inquest was necessary. Shortly after the coroner concluded his work James Reid of Co's ambulance arrived to take the remains.

Alfred Smith was in a serious condition when he arrived at the general hospital and upon examination it was found necessary to amputate his left forearm. Dr. Mylks performed the operation. The wounded man's face was badly injured and it was thought for some time that his eyes were affected but later it was found that they were all right. In the evening the man was in a very weak condition but hopes were held out for his recovery.

Deep sympathy is felt for the sorrowing relatives, who have been through great trouble in the past six months. Only about six weeks ago the men's mother was laid at rest, and about two weeks ago Henry Smith's wife took seriously ill and was removed to the Kingston general hospital where she underwent an operation, and was only taken away from the institution three days ago. She was not well enough to be taken home, and was staying with friends in the city. On Wednesday evening she did not know of the terrible accident that had left her a widow.

The late Henry Smith was born in Collins Bay about thirty-five years ago, and his life had known no other home. He married Miss George Quittell, who survives him. He was a well-known and well-esteemed man; a man of kindly disposition and a hard worker. He was a Forester and a Methodist in religion. Besides his brother and his wife one sister, Mrs. Daniel Macdonald, Collins Bay, died to mourn his loss. Alfred Smith resides in Cleveland, Ohio, and with his wife was here on a visit to his old home. He is twenty-eight years old. The terrible accident has cast a gloom over the entire community.

The undertakers stated that if the blow in the head had not killed the unfortunate man he received internal injuries that would have caused his death. His right hand was mangled, his arms and ribs broken and one side badly crushed. People from miles around came to the house during the evening to express their sorrow upon hearing of the terrible fatality. The funeral of the deceased will take place from his late residence at ten o'clock Friday morning.
