MEDICAL FRESHMEN

For some days the freshmen in medicine at Queen's have been quaking in their shoes, waiting for the "rush" of the second year men, and this morning they got "it" and got it well. The main scrap took place on the upper campus, and for quite a few moments things were fierce. The scrap would have made the Mad Mullah's raids look like a cheap melodrama. The freshies held the second year men fairly well for a short time, but were finally overpowered and bound hand and foot. When they were all safely secured, they were put in a line and had their boots and headgear taken and thrown into a pile in the centre of the field, where the freshmen later had a busy time picking out their own. When they had been stripped, the man with the paint came along. and every freshman was branded with a big red "F" on his forehead and black streaks down his face. Two carter's waggons were waiting, and the defeated first year men were piled into these, and, headed by the happy "sophs," were driven around the city. The "cortege" went from Barrie to Princess, to King, to Barrie, and back to the college, where the tamed first year men were turned loose, to go and hunt for their shoes and hats. The scrap was one of the fiercest in some time, and the indignities heaped upon very bad, almost as bad as that exthe youthful "bone pickers" were very perienced some few weeks ago.
