ACTION FOR LIBEL

RESULT OF THE FRONTENAC NOMINATIONS.

Dr. Edwards Says He Will Sue Mr. Avery For a Statement He Made—There Was a Warm Time at the Meeting.

The nomination meeting in Cataragui village hall, on Monday afternoon, resulted in an action for slander being threatened by Dr. J. W. Edwards against Melzar Avery, M.P., who made a statement to the effect that it was rumored Dr. Edwards had received money from liberals to keep quiet in the campaign of 1904, and that he believed this to be so. Dr. Edwards denied the charge, and declared he would give Mr. Avery a chance to prove it in court. This chance, Mr. Avery said, he would gladly accept.

The meeting was a big one, 500 persons being in attendance. In such a contest, when two of one party are opposing one another, the speeches were very much saturated with personalities. Mr. Avery briefly reviewed some of the matters he had spoken upon in parliament, but occupied most of his allotted time in reviewing Dr. Edwards' county council and political career. He made a number of charges, most of which Dr. Edwards denied. Dr. Edwards, in his address, reviewed federal politics at some length, but also occupied some time in holding Mr. Avery in the limelight, dealing with his actions as county councillor and politician. There was quite an excited crowd present, the larger part of which was for Dr. Edwards, Cataragui being the latter's stronghold. Mr. Avery had a large following, however, a number having come in from the back of the county. John Ryder, of Cataragui, was chosen chairman, and the speaking began shortly after two o'clock.

Mr. Avery, as sitting member, was first to speak, and was well received. He stated that there were a great many questions asked why Avery was in the field against Edwards, when the latter carried the conservative convention. He claimed that the convention had been called unfairly, that he had not fair notice, and that when Dr. Edwards was nominated, he (the speaker), sat in the House of Commons for eight months as a discarded member. It was well understood that a convention would not be called until an election was in sight, when he, as sitting member, would give due notice. As sitting member, he was chosen to consider the matter, and would do so as soon as he could get to a legal office to do it.

Mr. Avery—"If you want to bring it into court, bring it, and there'll be enough evidence shown that will cause you a little surprise."

Dr. Edwards—"I assure you I'll give Mr. Avery the opportunity of proving the matter in the courts."

Mr. Avery—"Did you or did you not get paid for working for Mr. Gallagher, or Mr. Bell or Mr. Calvin?"

Dr. Edwards—"I assure you I'll give Mr. Avery the opportunity of proving the matter in the courts."

Mr. Avery—"Well, it is my business, and if you did, you are not as worthy to get a high position as those who would for their party do nothing."

Mr. Avery—"I assure you I'll give Mr. Avery the opportunity of proving the matter in the courts."

Mr. Avery—"Well, it is my business, and if you did, you are not as worthy to get a high position as those who would for their party do nothing."

Dr. Edwards arose and denied that he had made this statement in a letter to the press, as Mr. Avery had said. Mr. Avery produced the letter of Dr. Edwards' and showed that his statement was correct.

Mr. Avery further said that if a liberal had been in the field he would never have run. His decision to oppose Dr. Edwards was made only three weeks ago. At the convention before the last, when Mr. Avery was chosen, Dr. Edwards' friends had tried to manipulate the ballots so he would win, but a scrutineer of his (Mr. Avery's) discovered the trick and the game was killed. The speaker denied the statement of Dr. Edwards that he had made only one speech, and that on the $2,500 salary grant. He never spoke on the indemnity question. He spoke on the cattle-guard question, and did something to improve the dangers that farmers were up against. He also spoke upon the question of improving the railway crossings. He spoke upon the matter of better postal service in the north county, and had secured what he sought, and also better railway service for the people of Findlay Station, in Pittsburg township. He had always been willing to get what he could for the people.

Mr. Avery—"I'm the man who's going to be elected as member for the county of Frontenac." (Applause.) Mr. Avery further said he had voted and talked in the house against the timber deals.

Mr. Avery charged ingratitude on the part of Dr. Edwards, who, he said, had forced Dr. Sands out of the jail surgeons'hip after that gentleman had helped him to get the county clerkship, and secured both positions for himself. He was taking the people's money for everything he did, and yet he told the people of Frontenac that he was "of the people and for the people."

Mr. Avery—"I'm the man who's going to be elected as member for the county of Frontenac." (Applause.) Mr. Avery further said he had voted and talked in the house against the timber deals.
