

PERSIAN LAMB COATS

There is a vast difference in the quality of Persian Lamb, and those who buy at random are apt to be disappointed.

Unless you get "Leipzig Dye" your Furs will look "dead" instead of being glossy and bright.

The demand for Persian Lamb Coats is growing with the season, and we're showing some of the handsomest garments ever seen. One of the most popular combinations is No. 6308, trimmed with Royal Ermine.

PRICE $175.00

Faultlessly made from carefully selected skins, suitably lined with rich satin Brocade, and to the smallest detail, honorably perfect.

We have, as you know, stylish Furs of all sorts, with every bit of extravagance taken out of prices.

THE 5 P.M. EDITION ARE VERY HARD UP

A PARALLEL CASE SHOWN IN KINGSTON.

Was the Council to Blame For the Bad Gas Tank Constructed?—Then Why Blame the Government in a Similar Case.

Kingston, Oct. 21.—(To the Editor): As I sat in the city hall, on Monday afternoon, and heard Mayor Ross assail the government for the failure of the Quebec bridge, and the loss of seventy-five lives, I wondered whether he was doing enough to honestly believe his attack was just, or whether he thought we, voters, were too simple to see how absurd it was. The government could not design the bridge, or build it. They had to procure an engineer to do the one and a bridge building company to do the other. Were they careless in their choice? No; they selected the acknowledged, most famous, and believed to be the most able bridge construction engineer in America, to design it, and one of the largest and most experienced bridge building concerns in America to erect it. How could any government do otherwise? Why did the bridge fall? Because the great engineer who designed it did not allow a sufficient margin of safety in calculating the strain in what was a greater span than that of any bridge previously built. The mistake was solely his.

To illustrate, the city council, of which Dr. Ross and Mr. Nickle, were, and are, prominent members, have just built a gas holder, a considerable loss to the city. It leaks hopelessly, is faulty in design, is practically useless and their latest expert says might as well be blown up and built over. Does the city council think it is to blame for the defective tank? Did Mayor Ross and Alderman Nickle hand in their resignation as faithful trustees of the city's affairs? Certainly not, and no one suggests that they should. Why? They could not build the tank with their own hands, or their own skill—they had to employ an engineer, Mr. Campbell, to design it, and a contractor, Mr. Tait, to build it. On them the council loudly, and fairly, places the blame. If the council is blameless why is not the government who followed, and had to follow, precisely the same course with respect to the Quebec bridge, equally blameless?

If this is a sample of the reasons given for asking us to vote against the Laurier government the opposition must be desperately hard up for grounds of attack.—A VOTER.

"$25 A Soul."

Kingston, Oct. 21.—(To the Editor): Does the editor of the Standard sorrow or rejoice in the prosperity of the locomotive works, and the prospect of continued work for its employees, and additional money flowing into the city's life? Some days ago he declared that if the election of Dr. Ross, or the return to power of Mr. Borden, would injure the works, he would cease to advocate their cause. A little later he broke out into lamentation because he thought the Grand Trunk railway had placed an order for ten locomotives in the United States. Now, because Mr. Hartly announces that the Grand Trunk Pacific has given an order for twenty-five Moguls, and thinks the news will gladden the heart of every Kingstonian, the gentleman who edits the Standard, and who is willing to be an American or Canadian as his own pocket dictates, and who, while a resident of the United States, did not hesitate to throw mud at the Canada which gave him birth, grows positively hysterical.

It looks as if he would have leaped for joy had the telegram read that an order for twenty-five locomotives had been cancelled instead of given.

"Twenty-five dollars a soul," forsooth, if the independent elector, who can cast his ballot as he pleases, in the free exercise of his own judgment, believes that his own interests and the advancement of his own city are promoted by a vote for Hartly, and acts on the prompting of his own reason, and votes accordingly. What booh. Let me ask the editor when he calms down and reason again has sway, whether the "self" himself, when he votes for the party which he believes will best promote the prosperity of the country. And if the Kingston voter believes, after the facts are placed before him, as I presume Mr. Hartly may even dare to do, that not only the country, but also this little part of it, that is particularly dear to most of us at any rate, will bask in greater prosperity if Hartly is elected and Laurier is returned to power, and, therefore, votes for Hartly, is "selling himself, his wife, his sister, his sweetheart, his sons, his daughters," his babies, and, I suppose, the family cradle. Oh, fudge! Isn't it funny?

And this same hysterical editor only a few days ago calmly announced that if he thought the prosperity of the locomotive works would be impaired or destroyed by the election of Ross and the return of Borden, he would himself right about face and throw his influence the other way, or, as he would now try to make us believe, would sell his own "soul, himself, his wife, his daughters, etc."

Is the editorial chair occupied by Siamese twins, and now it is the voice of Chang and again the voice of Eng.

Is not this "held-by-the-neck" business a little overworked, too? Mr. Hartly has lived in Kingston for nearly Travellers, Miners Read. When away from home and your doctor, always provide yourself with a bottle of Nerviline to break up a cold, to relieve neuralgia, muscular soreness. Nothing compares with Nerviline for instant relief and sure, lasting cure. Bruises, cramps, rheumatism—call the pain any name you please—it has an antidote in Nerviline which is an assured protection against all sickness. Good to rub in—excellent for internal use, the best all-round household remedy on earth—that's "Nerviline." Sold everywhere in 25c. bottles, and used by nine out of every ten families in Canada.

Stronger Denial. A message, to-day, was received by Hon. Mr. Hartly from Gerald Brown, Ottawa, which read: "Hon. Charles Murphy declared, to-day, that there is not one word of truth in the Kingston Standard's story about the superannuation of Warden Platt. Report is an invention, no doubt, for political purposes. Please give his denial to Whig." Archdeacon Macmorine's condition shows no improvement.

ARE THE LOCOMOTIVE WORKS A BENEFIT TO KINGSTON?

That they are of very great benefit is universally admitted even Dr. Ross saying, "If my election would cost the City the Locomotive Works I would resign my candidacy to-morrow." And yet few perhaps realize to what extent the life and prosperity of the City depend on them. Think! Last year the Locomotive Works paid in wages $342,065.00, and expended in extensions and improvements the additional sum of $284,000. This pay roll of $342,065.00 exceeds that of all the other industrial establishments in the City combined with the total sums paid out annually by the government in connection with "A" and "B" Batteries, the Penitentiary, the Rockwood Asylum, and the Royal Military College, added. Since the Locomotive Works were started by the present company, about the 1st January, 1901, the company has paid out in hard cash, for wages and improvements, the immense sum of $2,424,732.00. Do you realize the magnitude of this amount of money? The total assessment of the City of Kingston, being the value of all the lands, houses, stores, factories, buildings, incomes and business assessments in the City, is about eight millions, only a little over three times this sum. And where do all these wages go? Set in circulation in the City they find their way to the landlord for rent, to the merchant for food and drink and clothing, to the churches and charities of the City, &c. Like the blood that gives life to and builds up the human body, they flow through every vein and artery of the City's life; every member of the body corporate is directly, or indirectly benefited. Who in the City is not advantaged in some way? Prosperity smiles on all.

half a century. Who can say that he ever coerced or squeezed or oppressed a man in the city? His record is known of all. He has always done the warm-hearted, generous, helpful act. He has never taken the city or the individual "by the neck," except when down, and then only to lift up. In this election he does not even canvass personally the elector; he merely places his record and his acts before the elector that he may know the facts and then in the light of them vote as his own judgment guides. What maddens the editor of the Standard evidently is that these facts speak so loudly and convincingly on Mr. Hartly's behalf.

As the editor is so dazed and blinded by this telegram that the twenty-five Moguls fill his whole horizon, I would kindly remind him in closing that these twenty-five are only one of the many good things we have to be thankful for. The pay roll of the locomotive works for the last year was, I see, $340,000, and all but he wish it may continue to grow from year to year. If it does, he may not have much longer to despise our city as too small and limited a field for his great capacity.—ELECTOR.

A Forward Swing.

With a good forward swing and increased membership and interest the Girls' Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. George's has begun this season's work. On Monday the members studied early Christianity in North Africa and some bright short papers and answers to leading questions were brought out. Miss Gladys Burton read a very interesting account of the annual meeting in Picton, in May, and Canon Starr gave a resume of mission work since the formation of the Missionary Society of the Canadian church, in 1903, and the wonderful results of the venture of faith. He also spoke of the great Layman's movement, and said that it would be one of the greatest factors in bringing about, quickly, that unity of Christians which all must hope for, though it is hardly to be expected that uniformity will come till the church militant becomes the church triumphant.

Fitzgerald-Arnie Wedding.

In St. James' church on Tuesday evening at 8.30 o'clock, Miss Susie Arnie, 212 Earl street, was married to William Fitzgerald, of the locomotive works. The groomsmen was W. Arnie, brother of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Katie Arnie. After the ceremony a supper was partaken of at the home of the bride.

Did Not Hear It.

W. F. Nickle writes the Whig in regard to the editorial "An Artful Dodger," that he did not hear Mr. Bermingham's question at the nomination meeting. "I regret," he writes, "that my not hearing him made it appear to you that I had, through lack of courage, ignored him, and assure you that if my attention had been called to the fact I should have answered his question. It is difficult when two or three are speaking at once to catch every remark."

Stronger Denial.

A message, to-day, was received by Hon. Mr. Hartly from Gerald Brown, Ottawa, which read: "Hon. Charles Murphy declared, to-day, that there is not one word of truth in the Kingston Standard's story about the superannuation of Warden Platt. GIVEN HER LAST CHANCE.

Was Before Court on Charge of Vagrancy.

A most pitiable sight was that witnessed in the police court, this morning, when Ann Green, about seventy years of age, and an old offender in police circles, was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. Every little while Ann comes before the court for drunkenness or vagrancy, and this morning the magistrate announced that he would give her another chance, but that this one would be her last. "Will your honor pardon me this time," said the accused. "If you do I will go to the House of Providence."

Constable Mullinger said that on Tuesday night at 9.45 o'clock, a complaint was received by the accused. He investigated, and found her sitting on the steps at the House of Providence. The constable said that she was very drunk, and that several complaints had been received about her begging on the street. "Now this is your last chance," said the magistrate, "if you come before me again, I will send you to jail for a long term."
