THAT LOOKS LIKE THE JOKE OF A FOOL.

Cases in the Police Court—A Young Married Man Ran Amuck in His House, Crazed With Alcohol.

Gananoque, Oct. 24.—Yesterday afternoon, while fishing near what is known as Fullerton's Island, about a mile and a half west of the town, Frank Amyot and Waldmar Baker found a small glass bottle corked and with a crumpled piece of paper inside. Within they found the following written with pencil: "John Jenkins and Philip McGraw are drowning off Grindstone Island, Sept. 1st, 1908. My wife inherits my savings.—John Jenkins."

Three cases came up in the police court Friday afternoon. Frederick Jackson, charged by Constable Thomson, with being drunk and disorderly on Wednesday, pleaded guilty and was taxed two dollars and costs. William Bishop, charged with same, also pleaded guilty and was taxed a like amount. The third case was that of David Greenizen, a well-known farmer a few miles west of the town, over sixty years of age, on the town's list of prescribed ones charged by Constable Thomson with being drunk in town on Tuesday last. He was defended by J. C. Ross, who asked the court to give the unfortunate man another chance as he had been twice fined of late, and if he came up again to give him the utmost penalty of the law. His worship consented and no fine was imposed.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Meggs, who passed away on Tuesday last, took place Friday afternoon to Gananoque vault. Rev. J. Taffman Pitcher conducted the obsequies. The floral tributes were numerous, among which were ones from Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, from the Ladies' Aid, Tuesday Ladies' class and Women's Missionary society of Grace church, of which deceased was a member.

The coal schooner Briton arrived here from Charlotte Friday morning, laden with soft coal for the Gananoque pumping station.

The Chief, M. Beatty's speedy launch is being used on the Gananoque-Clayton trips since Tuesday, when the Whereabow made her final trip for the season.

During the past few days, William Oviatt has disposed of a quarter acre of land on Stone street north to John Fisher, who purposes erecting a residence thereon.

A well-known young resident who was married quite recently and who is on the town's list of "prescribed" ones, not being able to get liquor in the regular way, in company with others, procured alcohol at one of the local drug stores, diluted it and imbibed pretty freely. Crazed by the stuff he went home and ran amuck through the house, breaking and tearing things up in fine style until overcome by the effects of the drug. Medical aid had to be brought in and restoratives administered to bring him around.

Mrs. Alceta Stevenson, an aged resident of the town, is seriously ill at the home of her son, Norman H. Stevenson, Hickory street, and slight hopes are entertained for her recovery.

Visiting in town: R. Lipman, Kingston, with relatives here; Alfred Abernethy, Kingston, on business.

The following, who have been visiting out of town, have returned: Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Richardson, of the local Salvation Army Corps, from attending the officers' council in Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McDonald, Tanner street, from an auto trip to Smith's Falls, Forfar and Portland; W. F. Donnelly, of the Lowville Democrat, and Mrs. Donnelly, who have been spending a short time with Mr. and Mrs. H. McKanday, Princess street, have left for home.

GROCERS' COMBINE CASE.

Likens Guild to the Beast in Revelation.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—"And the beast caused all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and in bond, to receive a mark on their right hand or in their foreheads, and that no man might buy or sell save he that had the mark or the name of the beast or the number of his name."

Quoting this passage from Revelation, Benjamin W. Robertson, Kingston, a witness in the grocers' combine case before Chief Justice Falconbridge, applied it to the operations of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and declared that it represented what the grocery trade was coming to as the result of combination. In support of his statement he informed the court that the effect of the policy of the guild had been to prevent him from buying direct from the manufacturers, to increase the number of wholesalers, and to make it difficult for beginners to get into the market. Several other witnesses also testified to having been cut off the manufacturers' selling lists, and assigned the guild's operations as the cause. It was admitted, however, that the wholesale trade was entitled to a fair margin of profit and that retailers could not reasonably expect to be treated on the same footing by manufacturers.

Who Will Be The Premier ?

The uppermost question in the minds of the people is, whether Sir Wilfrid Laurier or R. L. Borden will be the premier of Canada for the next five years, and that question will be answered by the people at the polls on Monday, the 26th of October. But the question which has been answered by lovers of art is that the Nordheimer Piano of Toronto is the Premier Piano of Canada, and is recognized as such from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Pianos on view at Kirkpatrick's Art Rooms, 159 Princess street, Kingston.

Wanted To Fight.

A drunk, taken in charge, this morning, by Constable Filson, wanted to clean out the whole police office, when he landed at the police station, but he went up against the wrong man when he tackled Constable Filson, who rushed him off to the cells in great shape. The constable had to stand for a heap of abuse from the prisoner.

Some Plain Talk.

Montreal Witness.

We know that Alexander Mackenzie sought to give the country honest enlightened government, and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has sought to do the same no serious authority attempts to deny. That some of Sir Wilfrid's followers have made mistakes or worse can undoubtedly be proved, but not the most rabid conservative to-day even attempts to show a liberal corruption ,widespread and in the very warp and woof of conservative politics such as there was in the 'good old times' so highly lauded by Mr. Borden, of Sir John Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin, Thomas McGreevy and others. A good deal in the way of political decency has been accomplished since then, and more, much more, must be accomplished. But the latter is hardly likely to come about through the efforts of such men as Messrs. Bennet, Lefurgey, Fowler and Foster, or the high protection advocacy of Messrs. Ekers and Ames. Whatever else may be said for or against it, protection has proved itself everywhere an inevitable and prolific mother of corruption.

The report of attempted bribery at Burk's Falls, Ont., appearing in a Toronto paper, is declared to be absolutely false in affidavits by Albert A. Agar and William J. Unger, who deny the charge.

The Religion Of Life.

Whatever separates religion from life, or makes it only a part of life, is distinctly an evil. All of life is religious, just as all of one's body is alive. There is no distinctively religious realm, as apart from other realms. A man is just as religious in his office or his factory as he is in his church. Religion is like a sea that inundates all of life. It finds no higher level in a man's worship than it does in his work. Reality is to be gauged by the lowest level. It cannot rise higher elsewhere, except in waves of feeling. I do not ask concerning your religion. Your life reveals it.
