BULGARIA'S ULTIMATUM

But So Far, Servia Has Ignored It.

Sofia, Oct. 27.—Bulgaria, to-day, sent an ultimatum to Servia that the latter's ultimatum, expelling Bulgarians from Servia, must be rescinded at once and that these Bulgarians, already expelled, must be allowed to return and be indemnified for the treatment accorded them. Servia has so far ignored the ultimatum.

LIVINGSTON'S

THE ELECTRIC WIRES

SECOND NARROW ESCAPE ON CENTRE STREET.

What Has the Light Department Done to Protect Life?—A Serious Indictment—The Danger is Near to Passers-By.

Kingston, Oct. 27.—(To the Editor): The people of Kingston were horrified at the tragic death of John Bostidge, a promising youth of fifteen, who had fallen a victim to contact with a live wire. Most of us have been under the impression that the catastrophe resulted from an accidental derangement of wires charged with the deadly current, a wire which had become severed and was in near proximity to the ground. But after the startling demonstration of danger, which I and my son experienced last night, I cannot resist the fearful suspicion that the extraordinary and culpable negligence of the city's electric light company has spread broadcast over our city a veritable death trap.

My son, a lad of thirteen, and I, on our way down town last night passed the fatal corner where young Bostidge lost his life. We naturally passed to look at the wires, and in the process the henpen rope formerly used for lowering the electric lamp had been replaced by a wire pulley ending in a bulb from which hung a loose semi-detached wire used apparently for fastening the pulley. When we turned to pass on when the sudden fall of my companion arrested my footsteps—I thinking that a slip had occasioned his fall, I began to rally him upon his carelessness, when to my consternation he told me that his fall was caused by his having thoughtlessly, with the curiosity natural to a boy, touched with the tip of his umbrella the wire pulley just above the bulb, and an angry flash instantly flew forth from the point of contact, the umbrella was hurled from his hand, and he was dashed to the ground, a badly frightened boy.

Upon examining more closely the lamp-post, I discovered that by merely tip-toeing I could easily grasp what appeared to be instant death, and upon going further down-town, we found that most of the lamp posts along Union street were in the same perilous case. Fortunately my son held his umbrella loosely by the outer cloth covering. Had his hand grasped the metal centre, I tremble to think what might have been the possible consequence.

It is almost incredible that any corporation having in its hands the public service could exercise so little care for public safety. To place so deadly a danger easily within the reach of an active boy, leaping up from the sidewalk, actually almost in contact with the head of a tall man, standing along side, one would have thought impossible, yet the facts are as I have stated. In the name of poor young Bostidge now lying dead, in the name of my young son, who I cannot but think narrowly escaped a similar fate, in the name of our common humanity, I demand an immediate investigation of things be at once investigated and so deadly a menace to life immediately removed from our midst.

—AN ALARMED FATHER.

FROM SCIENCE HALL.

Number of Students Registered in Science Faculty.

The final year in science held a meeting, Friday afternoon, and the following officers were elected: Honorary president, Prof. Gill; president, C. L. Flays; vice-president, C. W. Peeling; secretary, O. M. Perry; treasurer, C. W. Drury; poet, A. C. Young; orator, E. L. Bruce; historian, S. Mcintosh; prophet, B. Williams; martyr, S. King. All the officers were very closely contested, the president having to cast the deciding vote several times.

So far this year 278 students have registered in science, the freshmen numbering 104. This is only an increase of nine over last year, but more are expected yet. The 174 registered in second, third and fourth years are divided as follows: Mining, 65; chemistry and mineralogy, 6; mineralogy and geology, 6; chemical engineering, 3; civil engineering, 35; electrical, 33; sanitary engineering, 3; power development, 4; undecided, 13.

About fifty students in mineralogy and geology, in charge of Profs. Nicol and Baker, and Messrs. Hore and McKay, took an interesting field excursion, last Saturday, on the steamer Stranger. The first place of interest was in the cutting of the G.T.R. at Kingston Mills. Here the students saw a fine cutting of the Chazy formation with the underlying gneiss, and also procured some fine specimens of the fossil orthoceras. The party then sailed to Blake's quarry, four miles further, where several curious cylindrical concretions occur which resemble the trunks of fossil trees, and at one time were regarded as such. They stand upright in the face of the quarry. The two principal ones are about three or four feet in diameter, with an outer zone of three or four inches in concentric layers corresponding to what would have been the bark if the structure had been organic. At the top of the cliff the upper ends of these concretions are slightly hollowed out, readily distinguished from the surrounding rock. Prof. Baker discussed their formation and proved that they were original not holes which have become filled. The party then visited the brick yard at Washburn, where a new process is used for drying the brick, and it was through the kindness of Mr. Chisholm that they were able to visit the plant.

Had A Great Sale.

The sale of the extra issue of the Whig, containing the election news, issued early this morning, exceeded all records. It was the most successful evidence that could be given of the confidence with which the public regards the new features of the paper. It has emerged from a very warm campaign with a reputation.

Not Likely To Meet.

The city council is called to meet this evening, but on account of no committee meetings having been held, last week, as the mayor is away, it is not likely there'll be a quorum.

Frank Treadway died Sunday, in the township of Thurlow, from senility. He was ninety-seven years of age.

Mrs. Richard Hodgson, widow of the late Richard Hodgson for many years, freight cashier at the Grand Trunk, Belleville, died in Morrisburg.

It was really a Harty rain on Monday.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Newspapers Picked Up By Reporters On Their Rounds.

Everybody looked happy this morning.

The streets were practically free of drunken men all day Monday. In the evening a few became lit up, but only a very few.

H. Cunningham, piano tuner from Chickering's. Leave orders at McAuley's Book Store.

Dr. A. R. B. Williamson left, this morning, for Parry Sound to attend the marriage of his brother-in-law, Dr. Tandy, on Wednesday.

The work of clearing away the debris at the Portsmouth fire has commenced. New stables at Short's hotel will be erected at once.

The roof of the small-pox quarters at Fort Henry is requiring much repair. The rain of Sunday night entered the quarters pretty freely.

John Shillington, Verona, who was removed to the general hospital, on Monday, is slightly improved to-day. He is suffering from appendicitis.

Fresh vaccine points at Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store, Phone 230.

William Seal was removed from the general hospital to his home, Bagot street, on Monday afternoon. Mr. Seal underwent an operation at the hospital.

Freeman: The Whig last week said that the nomination in the city hall was all one-sided for Harty. The returns on Monday last looked very much one-sided also.

A large number of Queen's students went to their homes for the elections, but all returned, to-day, to resume their studies. The result of the election made many students happy.

"Liquid veneer" is sold in Kingston at Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store.

Ald. John Cars declared, this morning, that the Tories couldn't defeat the Laurier government. "They'll have to get dynamite and blow it out before they'll get in power at Ottawa," he said.

The strong kind of horehound candy is sold at Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store. It pays to go there.

It is declared on good authority that several young ladies on meeting Hon. Mr. Harty proceeding up Princess street, Monday evening, at 8:15 o'clock, threw their arms around him, to express their joy at his re-election.

B. W. Folger, when asked, this morning, for an opinion on the result in Kingston, said: "Kingston is just as pleased to have Mr. Harty's arms around its neck as a young man is to have his sweetheart's arms around his."

Queen's first team held its first practice at the athletic grounds, this afternoon, since its game in Montreal, on Saturday. One or two of the players are still sore, but will be around for Saturday, when they will meet McGill again.

Children's dresses, all kinds, at bargain prices. New York Dress Reform.

Simmons, deputy returning officer at Victoria ward, No. 25, still holds the record for handling his returns. Last division election he had his returns in first, and this year he was again away ahead of all the rest in getting his returns into the Whig office.

The Davis company state that their gasoline yacht has not been running for a whole week, and, therefore, cannot be annoying the citizens. The complaint made hits the wrong quarter, they say, and must have been made by a tory sour on the election results.

COAT THIEF SENTENCED.

Roy Gillies Given Three Months in Jail.

Roy Gillies, remanded a week ago, on a charge of stealing a raincoat, belonging to Christopher Cochrane, was on Tuesday morning, sentenced by Magistrate Farrell to three months in the common jail. Gillies hails from the American side, and is a stranger in Kingston. Cochrane left his coat in the office of a local hotel, one Saturday evening, while he looked after some business, and when he returned for it later on he found that it was missing. While sitting in the hotel he was surprised to see the prisoner, Gillies, walk into the hotel, wearing his coat. Gillies claimed that he bought the coat from a man on the street. It was arrested by Constable Filson, and it was shown that the coat was the property of Cochrane.

At Ontario Hall.

The attendance was small at the V.M.C.A. election bulletin in the Ontario hall, but those who were there enjoyed a rare artistic treat. Dean Farthing declared, at the close, that he had never seen such a beautiful display of pictures as Dr. Evans gave last night. The bulletins came on fast, beginning at seven o'clock and continuing until eleven o'clock. There were a number of ladies in the audience who expressed themselves as being delighted with the enjoyable programme of the evening. The association will lose money by the venture but it is said they can get it all back and more if they will give the general public a chance at another time to see the fine display of pictures they offered last night.

Kingston's Duty Ahead.

The swing of the great missionary campaign has reached Kingston. The great tour in the west, lasting three weeks, has ended, the large Toronto party returning thither this afternoon. Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Halifax, St. John, Brantford, Hamilton, London, have spoken, enthusiastically. It is up to Kingston. The meeting of Wednesday evening will be the first gun of the local campaign.

CHILD DESERTION

YOUNG WOMAN WAS GIVEN MONTH IN JAIL.

"My Father and Mother Could Not Support the Baby," Said the Accused on Pleading Guilty.

Elizabeth Rogers, the young woman arrested in Toronto, on a charge of deserting her month's old child, in this city, on the evening of October 21st, pleaded guilty, in the police court, Tuesday morning, and was sentenced by Magistrate Farrell to one month in the common jail. The accused formerly resided in this city, being employed as a servant in a prominent household. For several months she had been living in Toronto, and in the evening mentioned, she came to Kingston, and left her baby near the William street entrance to the Frontenac Club. Hiding in the dark, about a block away, she waited until she noticed a young man pick the baby up, and then she decamped. The Kingston police traced her to Toronto, and there she was placed under arrest, and brought back to the city by Constable Craig.

"I'm guilty," said the accused, her eyes filling up with tears.

"And have you no explanation to give?" asked the magistrate.

"My father and mother had no way of supporting the baby," was the reply.

The accused told the magistrate that after she had left the baby on a block away, until she noticed a man, whom she supposed was a policeman, pick up the child. Then she went away.

"Why did you not get the father to support the child," asked the court.

"He is in Toronto. I only know his name." At this stage the unfortunate young woman cried bitterly.

The magistrate pointed out that the offence was a most serious one, for which the guilty party was liable to a maximum penalty of three years in the penitentiary.

"The offence is a serious one," added the magistrate, "and one which has been treated in too light a way by some persons in the past. Cases of this kind are very frequent, and little thought has been given to the little one whose life is endangered."

The magistrate stated further, that he was ready to credit the story of the accused, that she had watched to see that her baby was taken in charge, but he could not, notwithstanding this, allow the accused to go unpunished, and there must also be given a lesson for others. He would therefore impose a sentence of one month in jail.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Quarantine A Farce.

Kingston, Oct. 27.—(To the Editor): I have been annoyed by a number of citizens, this morning, for allowing the quarantine in the case of a West street citizen to be violated, and the citizen allowed out on nine days, when the law distinctly states it shall, in all cases, be ten. Even at the expiration of ten days every care must be taken against promiscuous mixing at the polls.

This is another exhibition of the laxity of our quarantine during the present small-pox scare, and I want to set myself right before the people by saying that I knew nothing of the fact that the citizen was given the extraordinary privilege he enjoyed by being liberated on nine days instead of ten and then being allowed to mix generally with the people on a day like election day.

This is just the way to spread small-pox and strengthen me more than ever in the conviction that the people will never stand for compulsory vaccination as long as such methods are practiced. I do not blame any member or official, and I sympathize with the citizen or any other man who is so tied up for a number of days, and no man would feel it on election day more than I would, but the law should be enforced regardless of the man, circumstances or conditions. I want to say to the who blamed me that I knew nothing about it until this morning. Compulsory vaccination in the face of such a fact is an impudent imposition.—J. G. EVANS, member local board of health.
