

Told in Twilight

One of the most enjoyable entertainments for the delegates of the Women's National Council was Lady Laurier's reception on Saturday afternoon. Lady Laurier wore a beautiful gown of black chiffon embroidered in a floral design in pink, over black tulle. Lady Edgar, who received with Lady Laurier, was in black crepe de chine trimmed with lace. The table was decorated with American Beauties and pink carnations. Miss Jean Fielding and Miss Marjorie Edgar, of Toronto, poured the tea and coffee, assisted by Miss Coutts, Mrs. W. W. Edgar and Miss Beatrice Edgar. Among those present were Mrs. Adam Shortt, Mrs. Henry Skinner, Mrs. Oberndorfer, Miss Machar and Miss Mollie Cartwright.

There was a delightful Halloween dinner at the Country Club, on Saturday evening. Jack o' lanterns and other of the day's distinguishing marks were to the fore, and the evening was one of great jollity. Captain and Mrs. De M. Bell chaperoned the affair, at which thirteen sat down owing to the absence of one of the party indisposed as to his arm. However, all danger was obliterated by two of the party taking dinner at a side table. Those present were Miss Nora Gordon, Miss Grace Hemming, Miss Dorothy Brownfield, Miss Jessie Smith, Miss Phyllis Shortt, Miss Marie Carruthers, Mr. P. G. C. Campbell, Mr. W. Kingsford, Mr. H. Coblitt, Mr. P. Russell, and Mr. Van Lesslie.

On Halloween, a quaint medieval-looking group might have been seen going from door to door, one a tall, slim witch in a red cloak and sugar-loaf hat, a wee fairy in yellow, and others garbed in Robin Hood vesture. And fortunate were the people who opened their doors to admit the merry company, for once within the members noted a little play, their sweet, well-modulated voices making their recitation of their lines doubly pleasant. Indeed those who met the maskers of the street were struck by the silvery tones as they spoke to one another. And now who were they? Well, that is for you to guess.

Mrs. Henry Merrick, Bagot street, gave a little thimble tea, yesterday, for some of Miss Margery's friends. The girls brought their work, having an eye on Christmas. Those present were Miss Nora Gordon, Miss Elsie Euse, Miss Lenore Hamilton, Miss Mildred Cooke, Miss Mildred Jones, Miss Jessie Smith, Miss Gwendoline Hall, Miss Christine Cochrane, Miss Irene Swift, Miss Mamie Garrett, Miss Phyllis Shortt, Miss Vera Carson and Miss Hilda Kent.

A little tea, yesterday, for Mrs. Russell Hale. It was very informal, Miss Frances Hora superintending the tea things. Among the guests were: Mrs. W. D. Gordon, Mrs. T. D. B. Brumby, Mrs. H. R. V. de Bury, Mrs. Norman Stuart Leslie, Mrs. F. Strange, Mrs. Arthur Flower March, Mrs. Francis Macnee, Mrs. D. Norton-Taylor, Miss Lily Norton-Taylor, Mrs. Iva Martin, Mrs. J. B. Carruthers and Miss Lois Saunders.

The surprise party which waited on Miss Mamie Garrett, Johnson street, on Halloween, had the jolliest time conceivable. There were twelve boys and girls, half a dozen of each, and the surprises all took with them something detectably edible. There was the usual ducking for apples, roasting of chestnuts, consulting of various weird mysticisms, not to mention a run round the block, and it was all as merry as possible.
