

Second To None

McKay Furs are absolutely without equal in this market, quality for quality, style for style, and price for price.

The phenomenal business done already this season speaks volumes for what people think. The difference between buying poor Furs and good Furs is that when you put your money into poor Furs they may wear a season—perhaps look well for a season, but they can't be made over, and they have no value after the season is gone.

McKay Furs are Reliable, and as valuable years after as on the day you bought them, if properly cared for.

We'll help you with expert advice to satisfactory choosing, and guarantee all our Furs to be precisely as represented.

Sett, $30—Black Bear is fashionable this season. The above Stole at $15, the large Pillow Muff at $15, make a handsome and durable sett of wearing Furs.

THE 5 P.M. EDITION

WILL CHRIST RETURN

AND BE SEEN AGAIN BY HUMAN EYES?

Mr. Gaebelein Discusses the Question in Bethel Church—His Second Coming Will Be For Judgment.

"Will the Lord Jesus Christ ever return to this earth? Will heaven be seen here again by human eyes?" were the questions with which Mr. Gaebelein introduced his searching discourse last evening in Bethel church. "These," said he, "are questions of great importance to every child of God, and every Christian ought to be desirous of knowing what the scriptures say upon so great a theme. (1) Do the scriptures teach that Jesus will return in visible form to this earth? (2) If He is coming back, why is He coming? (3) When is He coming?"

Regarding the first question the speaker said that in the New Testament alone in almost four hundred verses the fact of Christ's second coming was plainly taught, while in the Old Testament the same prophets who predicted the sufferings of Christ predicted also His second coming in glory. In the gospel of St. Matthew, chapter vi, verse 27, Jesus speaks for the first time of His return, and in the same gospel in the twenty-fourth chapter He has given us an outline of the events that shall take place in this present age now rapidly drawing to a close. The common belief that the world will gradually get better and that eventually the church will convert the world has no foundation whatever in the Word of God.

"Peace on Earth"—how far away it is. It is the so-called Christian nations that have made the greatest preparation for war. How emphatic the teaching of Jesus is. He says: "As it was in the days of Noah so shall it be when the Son of man comes." The purpose of Christ's first coming was to make peace by the blood of His Cross. When He comes the second time it will be for judgment, but His visible manifestation upon the earth will not take place until He has called from the grave His sleeping saints and changed in a moment in the twinkling of an eye those who love His appearing—the living saints. When He comes to this earth, His redeemed ones will come with Him, and it is then that every eye shall see Him and all nations shall mourn because of Him.

Taking up the third division of his discourse—the time of Christ's coming—Mr. Gaebelein said that some had foolishly fixed a date and by so doing had brought discredit upon a doctrine that which there was none more important or practical in the Word of God. Jesus Himself has told us that no man or angel knows the day or hour of His second coming. While this is so, however, it must not be forgotten that Jesus has promised the Pharisees and Sadducees—the ritualists and higher critics of that day—for not being able to discern the signs of the times in which they were living (Mat. xvi, 3). The Holy Spirit has given us "signs of the times" by which we may know that Christ's coming is not far off. Some of these "signs" are given in II Timothy 3rd chapter. (read them for your own edification.) Mr. Gaebelein will in his address this evening give details that were not possible for him to give in taking up so broad a subject in its broadest outlines.

DESPICABLE WORK.

The Malice of Conservative Newspaper Offices.

The British Whig Publishing company has instructed its solicitor to take action against the Montreal Gazette, and a member of the staff of the Kingston Standard, for a telegram, which appeared this morning in the Gazette, stating that smallpox had developed within these establishments—the Whig office and the Jockey-motive works—and that the board of health were considering to close them. The animus of the telegram consists in the fact that these two establishments have at their head prominent liberals, and therefore are chosen for attack, even at a time like this, when the common sympathies of mankind are extended to one another, and when the asperities of political battles are set aside. In neither establishment had a case of smallpox developed. In one case merely the brother of an affected one was an employee; in the other the one affected had been absent almost a week before the disease appeared.

This very week several other establishments (conservative in politics) persons showing the disease have been actually laboring, even two at one of them, and have been discussed at the board, but no mention was made of them and they are merely included in this telegram of to-day as "smaller establishments." The intention to injure is very plain. Is there another newspaper worker in Canada who would have sent such a telegram, and on the very day that a kindly notice of a Standard editor appeared in the Whig?
