Particularly in New York and state, Maryland and German exnibits is the extent of the ravages of consumption shown by charts, diagrams and models. Other exhibits show the effects of tuberculosis on the race in the reduction of earning ca pacity, in the crippling of children by tubercular diseases of the bones, and in making the consumptive patient and milk dangerous as less pamphlets of statistics and in formation, specimens of sanitary wall paper, napkins, drinking cups, etc. are at the disposal of the visitor. In structors follow each other at intervals, going to every exhibit in turn explaining, and answering questions. One section is devoted to showing how the registration and sanitary super vision of tubercular cases are con ducted. Charts, mottoes, largements are lavishly displayed Every inch of available space indeed throughout the length and breadth o the entire exhibit is utilized for thi purpose. It becomes almost impossible to do justice to the exhibition a brief description. A complete tuberculosis clinic such as is conduct ed by the municipal board of health and the larger hospitals is to be seen in operation. Nothing is omitted A model of Otisville and other sanitoria and a view of the diagnosis laboratory of the Riverside hospital are most in teresting while the Klondyke outfits as adopted for consumptives, recall our own Canada. The municipal sup ply of milk is illustrated on a very practical basis, a model dairy and its occupant even being on view. In th exhibit from the Henry Phipps' Institute of Philadelphia, one could spend profitable hours. The portable school exhibit and the model of a servant home wherein the waste heat from the kitchen warms the home and where all the corners of the rooms and the junctions of the walls with floors and coilings are rounded to prevent the accumulation of dirt, dust, and germs, prove of special interest to the lousewife. The most modern ideas the way of tents, hygienic clothing drinking fountains, etc., are shown The dismal scone of a crowded room in an east side tenement district is sharply contrasted with the same quarters nade cheerful and bright under the guidance of the visiting district nurse. The precautions to be observed against communication of the disease from man to man are forcibly brought before the visitor. Then there is a section devoted to orthopedics and another to the display of useful articles made by cipient patients; while last, but no means least, the destruction the tubercle bacilli in the milk supply must not be forgotten. This is practically illustrated in the working model of the Nathan Straus laboratory for the pasteurization of milk and for the making of butter from pasteurized cream.

Never before has such an exhibition been granted the public, though, course, it must be remembered that never before has there been united and as successful an effort' combat the great white plague the world is now witnessing. problem to be faced is not medical alone. The social side is interwoven and sympathetic alliance the physician, the district nurse, the charitable organization, the gislator, and the sufferer himself most imperative. The largest community is overrun with victims - of tuberculosis, the smallest community is scarcely free from the ravages of the disease. In New York city alone over 14,027 people are carried off by Jerica every 3 minutes some one ing from it. Our own Kingston is not free. And yet in a city of its size the work of stamping out tu-berculosis should be comparatively easy. The means for so doing, the prevention, and the cure (for tuber-culosis is a preventable and cureable disease) could all be enforced.

Being particularly interested in this work it was with pleasure that I read accounts in your paper of the at the International Congress course of lectures recently delivered by members of the medical profession to the citizens, on the subject of tu-berculosis. Had Small Blaze. What might have turned out to be a serious fire, occurred at the home of D. Campbell, Elm street, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Campbell was lighting his pipe, when a spark alighted on a chair, setting it on fire. The chair was all ablaze before Mr. Campbell noticed, and before he could extinguish it, the chair had been ruined, also a little cover, and a large hole was also burned in the carpet. The damage will amount to about $50.
