GETTING AT THE FACTS.

The World takes up the comment of the Whig, that expert fire service cannot be expected from men who are paid less than the current wage of labourers. The more one reflects upon the findings of the fire committee, which enquired into the recent piano factory conflagration, the more he feels persuaded that they are of no account. It is not at all clear what the judgment of the committee is. The fire chief wants more men and better apparatus.

The committee is careful not to commit itself very much along this line, but it is quite certain that there should be some limit as to the age of the men who constitute the fire brigade. That is the main point. An investigation by the judge, with power to summon as witnesses the men who did not tender their evidence, would have determined whether the department was lax or faulty in its methods of attacking a fire, but the question of discipline and equipment would remain an open question.

What does the department want? Reorganization, or better apparatus, or both? Who can settle this issue? If the firemen are inefficient the city should know it. If the fire equipment is incomplete and deficient the fact should be made known. Will the new fire committee, to whom the previous legacy of a forlorn report has been left, with the unanimous consent of a dying council, be any wiser than the committee that preceded it? Are our firemen drilled daily, and made fit for active service? Are they paid as well as they should, and as athletes and men of nerve desire? There should be some way of getting at the truth, and the expert advice of a recognized authority, from some neighboring city, might be of great assistance.

THE PEOPLE WILL RULE.

The Hamilton conservative party is suffering from what some consider remorse, in consequence of what happened on election day. The nominee of the machine had the resources of the party behind him, or rather the prestige of the organization, and yet he lost. There is only the one reflection, and it is that no party in Canada has a complete command or control of the people. There are politicians, and in political elections they divide, but they will not be dragged into a compromising position when the situation is non-political.

There is always a professed desire for no politics in the municipal councils, yet politics will somehow influence the men who want to manage things. It is a wholesome sign when the people, as in Hamilton, refuse to be dictated to, and, by their independence, make a wreck of things political. "All honour," says the Hamilton Herald, "to the broad-minded conservatives of Hamilton who, by their quiet defiance of the party machine, virtually served notice on it that the time for mixing up party politics in civic affairs has passed, and, like many another old and discredited practice, this one ought to be abandoned. It is to be hoped that the warning will be heeded."

In Kingston there was a satisfactory experience. Here there was the revolt against a personal dictation of the most decided kind. It is the prerogative of men to set themselves up for public positions, but it is the prerogative of the people to make their choice. In other words the people will have what they want, and the majority will rule.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Montreal has now over a thousand cases of typhoid fever. What is the health department of the city doing? Has it gone out of business?

It is time the schools were opened to all the scholars who have been closed out for non-vaccination. Those especially should be admitted who cannot be vaccinated.

When may the people expect the publication of last year's financial exhibits from the water and electric departments? They should be published for the general information.

London and St. Thomas shall have Sunday cars. London may need them as a great convenience, but St. Thomas wants them for the additional revenue they will afford.

The 14th's veterans are again looming up with a desire to demand recognition from the government. They appear to derive it as much as some who have received it.

So the man or woman who mails a picture of Montreal's ice palace to a friend will be prosecuted. Can the act of 1905 be made to serve the end? It is very doubtful.

Things must have reached a pretty pass in Guelph when "grafter" would be called after an alderman when he took up the collection in a church. Time for enquiry or a change.

All the public contracts made in Guelph for the last ten years will be examined by the county judge. His will be the biggest contract of them all. Grafting is seriously suspected.

The moral departments in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches are calling the local government's attention to some things, and this notice cannot be ignored. Drs. Chown and Shearer are men of action.

The young man Ross, who reached the penitentiary to-day for a life sentence, is not deserving of much pity. He had entered upon a criminal career which, in the interest of society and safety, could not be ended while he was at large.

Monopoly in New York got a knock-out blow by the supreme court on the gas question. It does not matter what a company may do with its stock. It may be watered until the dividends appear to be very small, but the fact is that gas can be made at 80c. per thousand feet, and at that price it must be sold.

BALLOT A FAC-SIMILE.

Of the Form Given in the Ontario Statutes.

At the Board of Trade meeting last evening, H. W. Richardson, president, stated that the "slovenly" manner in which the Wormwith ballot had been prepared was one cause of the by-law's defeat. Many people were unable to distinguish one by-law ballot from the other.

City Clerk Sands, when seen this morning, stated that the ballot was a fac-simile of the one shown in the Ontario statutes. He followed the statutes carefully in the preparation of the various ballots, and had no authority to add extra words to them. The Wormwith ballot was on yellow paper, and quite distinguishable from the roads' by-law paper which was white. He didn't see that there was any ground for complaint.

At Wild Rose, Sask.

Wild Rose, Sask., Jan. 7.—This place is twenty miles west of Prince Albert in the Shellbrook district. It is a new place but is getting settled very rapidly, having a school, a post-office and a small store. A stage goes to town twice a week. The land is heavy and will grow any kind of crops. There is plenty of wood although it is only poplar. It makes fine fuel. There is lots of prairie as well as woods, and plenty of game, such as moose, deer, partridge, prairie chickens and ducks. The new railroad will come within a few miles of here, which will be a great benefit to the settlers. They will have a chance to sell their wood as well as their farm produce. Hay sells, at from $6 to $8 a ton; oats 35c. to 45c. a bushel. Potatoes are scarce; they are as high as $1.30 a bushel in the city.

Would Like Him in Public Life. Toronto Globe. The Kingston Whig is celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary, while its editor, E. J. B. Pense, concludes the thirty-seventh year of his connection with the paper. There is a rumor that Mr. Pense proposes to retire from the more active duties of the editorship. It may be hoped that the rumor is not well founded. The Whig, under Mr. Pense's editorship has been a steady, safe, and moderate-toned defender of liberal principles, and his retirement would be unfortunate from every point of view. If it could be arranged for him to give more attention to public life there would be a compensation, however. No result in the provincial elections was more regrettable than Mr. Pense's defeat.

Stung.

The rich bachelor sighed and looked at the beautiful girl fixedly. "Things are at sixes and sevens with me. I feel the great need of a woman in my home, one who could straighten out my tangled affairs and make life worth living again." Her glance spoke an interest which approximated expectation. "Do you know of any good, able-bodied woman whom I could get to clean house?"

GANANOQUE MARRIAGE

CLARENCE C. SKINNER TOOK AS BRIDE

Miss Ethel Graham Birmingham—Death of Mrs. William McKenzie—Installation of Royal Arch Masons.

Gananoque, Jan. 7.—An interesting social event took place at nine o'clock last evening in Christ church, when Miss Ethel Graham Birmingham, daughter of Mrs. Birmingham, First street, was united in marriage to Clarence Case Skinner, of the manufacturing firm of The Skinner Co., Ltd. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Serson, rector of Christ church, the officiating being packed to the doors. The bride was attended by Miss Forde McMurchy, daughter of Warden and Mrs. John B. McMurchy, while the groom's interests were looked after by Herbert W. Britton, of the staff of the Merchants' Bank. The bride's presents were handsome and costly, attesting to her popularity. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, where a delightful repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner left at midnight to spend their honeymoon in Toronto and New York city.

Mrs. William McKenzie, wife of Lieut.-Col. William McKenzie, passed away at the family residence, King street, about six o'clock last evening, after an illness extending over several months. She was well known and highly respected and leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, one son, Maj. S. A. McKenzie, and five daughters, Mrs. David Bain and Mrs. William Cozier, and the Misses Georgina and Maud, of Gananoque, and Mrs. Audrey, of Hamilton.

Right, Ex-Companion W. S. R. Murch, of Kingston, installed the following officers for Leeds Chapter, No. 132, Royal Arch Masons, last evening: Z., A. P. Munro; J.P.Z., Charles A. Watt; H., Joseph E. Mills; J., William Linnoy; P.S., William Bradley; S.E., W. S. Bowden; S.M., Herbert W. Britton; treasurer, John B. McMurchy. After the ceremony a banquet was tendered the visiting installing officer.

A special session of the town council was held on Tuesday for closing up the business of the old council. On motion of Councillor W. Y. Boyd, seconded by Councillor W. J. Gibson, a committee, comprising Mayor James A. McCann, M.P., and Mayor-elect James Donovan, was appointed to interview W. H. Wormwith of Kingston, to, if possible, get him to locate in the factory lately occupied by the Canada Cabinet company. The committee went to Kingston yesterday, to wait upon Mr. Wormwith and, if possible, to arrange details of what Gananoque can offer as an inducement for his locating here.

The following have arrived after holidaying out of town: George A. Whitmarsh, from a visit in Merriekville, with his daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Beckwith; Mrs. J. J. Moore and Stanley Moore, from Montreal.

The following who have been spending the holiday season here, have gone home: Charles Macdonald, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Macdonald and family, to New York, after a ten-days' visit at their home, "Blinkhonnig." The Misses Hazel Noble and Edith Jackson to their duties in Sealey's Day public school; Mr. and Mrs. James Root, from work with the farmer's parents; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Root, Brock street, to their home in Montreal; Miss Hoe and Mrs. Seymour to their home in Holloway, after a pleasant holiday season with their sister, Mrs. Charles Bryant, South street.

OUR RESPECTED JUDICIARY.

Chief Justice Osgoode's Debut in Old Kingston.

The first of our judges was in some ways the most distinguished. William Osgoode's name has justly perpetuated in the Ontario law courts at Toronto. His origin is wrapped in mystery, beyond that he was born in England in 1751, in the reign of George II. He was called to the bar of Lincoln's Inn, 1779. He seems to have taken naturally to his profession and to have early distinguished himself. Already in 1779 he published a work, "Remarks on the Laws of Descent," which was well thought of, and procured him his position afterwards in Canada. At the time the king had much to say in colonial appointments, and in his case George III made a wise appointment, as he did in that of Simcoe, whom Osgoode accompanied, as chief legal adviser of the crown. It was a crucial period when the new province was being founded and laws inaugurated, and it was necessary that the first chief justice should be a profound and careful lawyer. In 1792, Chief Justice Osgoode presided at the court of Osgoode and Terminer and General Jail Delivery at Kingston. He had as associates Richard Cartwright and Hector McLeod, justices of the common pleas of the district. The most important case tried was that for the murder of an Indian named Snake. Osgoode presided for the last time at a criminal court in Upper Canada at Cornwall in 1794. A prisoner was tried for murder, but was found guilty of manslaughter and condemned "to be burnt in the hand," which sentence was then carried out in the court. Branding, whipping and banishment were then common forms of punishment. Not only did Justice Osgoode formulate several wise laws, but he also suggested the abolition of slavery in the colony of Canada. Though his term was short in the upper province there is no doubt that he and Simcoe worked together for the establishment of British law. He came with Simcoe and stayed with him until transferred to Lower Canada. In 1801 Osgoode left Canada, having retired and returned to London, where he died in 1824, aged eighty. After his return to London he lived in Chambers at the Albany Club, his neighbor being Lord Byron. His portrait at Osgoode Hall is a copy of the original, in the possession of the grandsons of General Simcoe, in Devon, England. It shows a fine, handsome and intellectual face of a reserved gentleman of the period of George III.
