

Anty Drudge Tells How to Avoid Sunday Soaking.

Mrs. Hurryup—"I always put my clothes to soak on Sunday night. Then I get an early start on Monday and get through washing by noon. I don't consider it breaking the Sabbath, for cleanliness is next to godliness, you know."

Anty Drudge—"Yes, but godliness comes first, my dear. And you should keep the Commandments. Get a cake of Fels-Naptha and you won't have to soak your clothes over night, and your washing will be all done by noon; without boiling, without hard work and with more satisfaction than any other way."

Rough, red hands are the trial of most housewives. "I don't mind the work if I could only keep my hands nice," sighs the young woman.

You will have less work and nice hands at the same time if you use Fels-Naptha soap in washing clothes. Hot water chaps the hands; hard-rubbing on the washboard swells the knuckles. Using Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water, you have neither hot water, hard-rubbing nor nauseous steam. But Fels-Naptha must be used the Fels-Naptha way—no boiling.

ON OLD EDINBURGH

PROF. MORISON GIVES LECTURE AT QUEEN'S.

Second of Series to Be Given Before the Historical Society of the University—Edinburgh in Sir Walter Scott's Time.

The second of a series of lectures, arranged for a winter, by Queen's Historical Society, was given last night, in the physics building, by Prof. Morison, and proved a most delightful treat to all who were present. Prof. Morison lectured on "Old Edinburgh in Sir Walter Scott's Time," and it proved a most interesting subject for his hearers.

In dealing with his subject, Prof. Morison stated that Edinburgh in Scott's day stands out in history as literature, as the last efflorescence of old Scottish culture; later days have seen Scotland Anglicized. The union with England had brought property and culture, yet not sufficiently to destroy old Scottish ways; and from the combination between new wealth and old character, came the famous Edinburgh society and literature, which are reflected in the Waverley Novels.

There were, to begin with, the famous old Scottish studies, with their early restrained upbringing, and their natural eccentric riper age—a race, as Cockburn says, "strong-headed, warm-hearted, and high-spirited, entirely Scotch, but without any other vulgarity, than what perfect naturalness is sometimes mistaken for."

Altogether, it was a world full of personality, wit, genius; living its own life, and able to express that life in a literature, in a history, in a social history as variegated as living, as modern society is the opposite. It was fortunate too, in that it found some one able to write its doings down for posterity's benefit, for there can be no doubt that its greatest citizen, Sir Walter Scott, bases his finest work, not on private invention, but on studies directly taken from the men and women, whom he met every day; and the antiquaries, the beggars, and the entire social universe from titled lady to old serving men, who had their origins in Edinburgh and the surrounding country, in the days when George III, was king.

Petworth Items Petworth, Jan. 4.—The new bridge will be ready for travel by the 15th. There is good driving across the ice now. D. R. Garrison has purchased a team of heavy draft horses for the shanty. Many of the young folks attended the watch meeting at Verona. Frederick Clark and John Rush paid a flying visit to Harrowsmith last week. School has reopened with a new teacher, Mr. Skinner, of Yarker. He will board at Orval Carr's. G. Lakin and mother spent Sunday with friends at Harrowsmith. Ross Walker and wife and two sisters, Jennie and Lennie, are visiting at W. Cole's. John Hamilton and family at E. Lakin's. S. Smith at J. Kerr's. J. C. Wallace's horse ran away in Colebrook, Saturday, but did no damage.

PHYSICIAN GIVES ADVICE

Tells Why So Many Suffer from Catarrh and Rheumatism.

A distinguished physician, famous for his successful treatment of catarrh and rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, states as follows:—"Our climate being more or less damp and changeable, is bad for catarrh and rheumatism, and care must be taken not to let these troubles gain headway. In addition, he states that a great many Canadians are careless in their habits, and to this as much as climatic conditions is due a great deal of the trouble. Insufficient clothing and improper eating will cause rheumatic and catarrhal troubles in any climate.

This eminent authority gives the following as the simplest and best treatment known to science, and to it he gives credit largely for his success:— Fluid Extract Cascara..... 1/2 oz. Carriana Compound..... 1 oz. Syrup Sarsaparilla..... 6 oz.

Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. The ingredients are all vegetable, and have a direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys, and bowels, eliminating all poisonous matter from the system. A druggist can dispense this, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home by shaking in a bottle. Many of our readers should benefit by this article. Save the recipe.

THE SPORT REVIEW.

The Longboat Victory Still a Topic of Interest.

There will be no Seawanhaka cup races this year. "Tom" Phillips has played his last game of hockey and will live at Vancouver.

Toronto World: The late William Patterson holds a record probably unparalleled in Canada's national game, having actually taken no less than ten lacrosse teams to land as many championships. No greater defence player in several respects ever lived.

Longboat was guarded by a Buffalo detective all day Saturday. There were several ugly rumors afloat around the Bison city that the race was fixed for Dorando to win, and efforts were made, it is said, to get to Longboat. Flanagan coupled the Indian up with a good Irish detective, one O'Grady.

Detroit News-Tribune: Some of Alfred Shrubbs' friends seriously doubt his ability to go the Marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards. Everybody concedes that, up to fifteen miles, Shrubbs is one of the greatest runners in the world. Many believe, though, that fifteen miles is his limit and that Longboat will lose him in the last stages of the race at New York January 26th. The race should be one of the greatest struggles of modern times.

A Pittsburg despatch says: Pennsylvania Technical College will leave for Toronto through Canada. An ambitious schedule has been arranged with games in Montreal, Kingston and Toronto. During the itinerary McGill University, Queen's College and the University of Toronto hockey teams will be played. It is a strong team but the followers of the Tech. are certain the team will give a good account of itself. It is as strong a college or amateur seven as this city has ever turned out and will make the Canadian college boys go for all they are worth.

York World: Dorando, the Italian prize, has had an awful fall. Three of the four times he has competed in Marathon races he failed to qualify. This lets him out as far as twenty-six miles and 385 yards, the classic distance of the Marathon, is concerned. Dorando is without question a good twenty miles. It is a pathetic fact that the little Italian went out on the Buffalo track on Saturday night his heart oppressed with grief. The village he came from in Messina was wrecked by the awful earthquake, and his whole family, as far as he has been, has been wiped out of existence. It takes nerve to do an endurance stunt under such circumstances and Dorando showed he had plenty of it in trying to make good.

South Africa will be minus two famous Olympic heroes next summer if Walker, the sprinter, carries out his intention. The other man to take the rambling bee in his bonnet is Heffernon, the man who finished second in the Olympic Marathon in England last summer. Heffernon has grown tired of South Africa and has decided to return to his country, where he formerly lived, and settle in Hamilton. He has considerable property in the land where Paul Kruger was once the loud noise, and as soon as he can dispose of that he will shake the dust of Africa from his feet. Before the war broke out in South Africa Heffernon worked on a farm near Dunnville. He went to South Africa with one of the Canadian contingents and after the war settled there. He never did much running while in Canada, but has held the mile and four-mile championship of South Africa for the past four years. He is twenty-eight years of age and is married.

A Boston writer closely in touch with Alfred Shrubbs has something interesting to say of the meeting of the men this month to settle the Marston championship. He writes: "Alfred Shrubbs is saying little but working hard for his approaching race against Tom Longboat. The general belief seems to be that twenty-six miles 385 yards is too far for the little 118-pound Shrubbs to have been training steadily for the event for over three weeks and take it from me that he is a careful and scientific trainer and is as game as a pebble. Early last week he ran eighteen miles over the roads and finished in excellent condition, remaining to me a few hours after the test. It wasn't half as hard as I anticipated, and with the time I have left to train before January 26th I have no fear of the outcome of the Longboat race. The Indian won't be on the track the last part of the race for I'll go through the distance in a way that will surprise them."

"Dan" Kelly, holder of the accepted world's amateur sprinting record of 9 3/5 seconds for the 100-yard dash, has retired from the cinder path. He is now twenty-five years old and says he has devoted enough time to sport. No record was more disputed probably that that which Kelly made in competition out on the Pacific coast. The athletic powers in the east refused to be convinced of the performance until they had received reports of affidavits from all the officials, timers and surveyors, who measured the track. The mark is now on the Amateur Athletic Union table, and is generally accepted in the athletic world. R. E. Walker, a South African sprinter, has been credited with doing 9 2/5 seconds on two occasions since Kelly's feat, and B. A. Rector was reported to have done 9 3/5 seconds. The latter's mark was never officially believed, and Walker's performance has not yet found a place on the American record books.
