

KING'S VISIT TO GERMANY

Indications of Possible Disharmony Received From Berlin.

London, Jan. 23.—Cables from Berlin indicate that there is much interest in the approaching visit in February of the king and queen of England to the German royal family. It is declared that the king will be received with the respect due to him as the representative of a great nation. Unfortunately this cannot be stated with great certainty. On the contrary, there are already visible indications of possible disharmony in connection with the approaching visit of the royal party, and for this reason official efforts should be made to keep any unfriendly demonstrations within the smallest possible limit. First there are irreconcilable Anglophobes, whose belief that King Edward is an arch conspirator, bent on isolating and humiliating Germany has become an obsession. They will consider it their duty to warn the German people against extending the alleged national enemy a too cordial welcome. Apart from these extreme Chauvinists there is some danger that King Edward's person may be dragged into the German domestic political controversies.

Will the emperor follow up his appearance in the arena by also emerging from the political reserve in which he has closed himself since his retirement to Potsdam seven weeks ago? This question monopolizes public interest here, and every sign and indication from court circles is eagerly watched and discussed. Amid all these speculations regarding political developments some sudden turn of events may at any moment give rise to heated political controversies. It would be doubly unfortunate if the success of King Edward's visit to Berlin should be marred by the indiscretion of those who may be tempted to introduce his name into the political polemics of a foreign country.

There are abundant signs that feeling still runs high. The democratic element of the country is profoundly dissatisfied with the slow progress made towards constitutional government. A despatch from Carlsruhe states that a number of prominent democrats in the city have declared that they will not participate in the public festivities to be held in honor of the emperor's birthday on January 27th, to demonstrate their dissatisfaction with the existing political conditions and their demand for a further measure of constitutional government.

Some of the papers have been publishing all kinds of fiction about the king's health and movements. The latest story put forward by an imaginative journal, was that his majesty's physicians have ordered him off to Cannes at once, which is a pure invention. As a matter of fact, the king intends to make Buckingham palace his headquarters for between five and six weeks from Monday, 25th, after which he is going to Biarritz, with the intention of being absent from England until the beginning of May.

The report of the postponement of the state visit of the king and queen to Berlin is incorrect. According to the present arrangements the king and queen will leave London for Berlin, on February 1st, but the visit may possibly be put off for one week. Their majesties will most likely cross from Dover to Calais, France, and proceed thence direct to Berlin, by way of Brussels, Cologne and Hanover. Their visit will extend over three days, and on leaving Berlin, the king and queen are to return direct to London. An extensive programme of ceremonies and entertainments will be gone through during the three days in accordance with the usual arrangements at the court of Berlin, on the occasion of what is known as a "sovereign visit."

LANSLOWNE LOCALS.

Regiopolis College Hockey Team Welcome Visitor.
Lansdowne, Jan. 22.—The Regiopolis College hockey team played the Ramblers here Monday night. The game was fast, clean and very interesting, resulting in a tie, four goals each. After the game the visitors were entertained at supper. The college boys will always be welcome here. A regrettable accident occurred at the end of the first half when Arthur Burns, Ramblers' clever point, sustained a bad fall, dislocating his shoulder. He will be out of the game for the rest of the season and his loss weakens the team greatly.

Miss Emily Montford entertained a few friends Monday evening. B. W. Leverette, Norwood, is visiting here a few days. He is suffering from a very sore hand. The remains of the late Alexander Richardson, Bethel, were placed in the vault here Monday. The funeral of the late Miss Ida Phillips was held on Wednesday from St. Paul's church, Escott, to Union vault. The family has been rarely afflicted as their steward, John Phillips, passed away on Christmas day. Mrs. (Dr.) Shaw entertained the mission band of the Presbyterian church last night. C. M. Quinn and bride, formerly Miss L. Cook, arrived home a few days ago. Miss Laid, Caintown, has been secured as junior teacher and started her duties yesterday.

A missionary meeting was held in St. John's church Tuesday night. The delegates were Dr. Preston and Rural Dean Dobbs. A sparring exhibition was given in Stewart's hall last night, the principals being Harry Sharp, local man, and W. Cliffe, Gananoque. Several bouts between other local boys were also given. Altogether the exhibition was clever and instructive.

IN LIVELY ATHENS.

Bachelors Play Broom Hockey With Benedicts.
Athens, Jan. 21.—The ice harvest is now on, the blocks ranging in thickness from fourteen to seventeen inches in thickness. Floyd Howe, of Rosser, Man., who has been a guest of B. S. Cornell, has returned to his home in Aokland, of Calgary, was a guest of his brother last week. Miss Ethel Arnold is visiting in Toronto. Brock De Wolfe is seriously ill. Miss Addison is able to resume her place in her grocery after an attack of grippe.

The broom ball game on the rink Monday drew a large crowd. The Benedicts of the town were arrayed against the Bachelors, the game being a species of hockey, played with a rugby football and broom. The players were masked, the Benedicts wearing crowns of straw hats, the Bachelors wearing the rims. The game resulted in a score of 1 to 0 in favor of the Benedicts.

The Shamrock Medicine company finished their week's engagement here last night. Every night the hall was crowded, showing the popularity of the performers. Ross Miller, of Greenbush, got the $10 prize for bringing the largest crowd with one team of horses—his crowd numbering 109. Mr. Howard, of Soperton, came in for second prize with a crowd of 91. Prize for the handsomest lady was awarded to Collins Miller; for handsomest lady to Miss Mamie Roman; for amateur performers a prize of $5 was offered and was won by little Miss Edna Eaton, five years old, who impersonated "Little Grand-ma," and with black gown, white ruffled cap and apron, neckerchief, knitting and cane she did her part most cleverly.

Land Of Heart's Desire.

By Channing Pollock.
Where is the land of the heart's desire?
The land where a hope fulfilled?
Does it rest in the west where suns expire,
Or east where the suns are born?
Is it hidden deep where gold rivers flow?
Is it high aloft where the sleep winds blow?
Or is it between, where the laurels grow—
This land of the heart's desire?

Where is the land of the heart's desire?
The land of a hope fulfilled?
Goes one forth to the north where the hills are higher,
Or south where the fields are tilled?
Is it vastness the stretch of two singing arms?
Are its peaks of achievements above alarms?
Or are vales of oblivion the chiefest charms?
Of the land of the heart's desire?

Where is the land of the heart's desire?
Of what use that the sage should say?
So near that the eye and soul aspire,
Yet a lifetime's reaching of earth and sky?
A little beyond where the march lights die,
Where the desert's mirage waters lie
Is the land of the heart's desire?

Kaladar Movements.

Kaladar, Jan. 21.—The oyster supper held at the King Edward house, on Wednesday night, was a decided success. Mrs. O. H. Dunn and her aunt, Mrs. McHugh, are spending this week in Toronto. Dr. Mather, Tweed, gave the town a professional call today. Master L. J. Dunn is confined to the house, this week, as a result of a dog bite on Saturday last. Mrs. Rathgate and Mrs. Pickering spent Wednesday in Tweed. Mr. Allan, of Mississippi, is in town, this week, buying lumber. A. Johnson, night operator, has resumed his work, after spending his holidays with his parents at Cavanville. Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Dunn and family were guests at the Algonquin, on Sunday. Mr. Godwin, who was confined to the house for some time, with a cold, is able to be around again. Mr. McDonald, who has spent a week here on business, left for his home in Hamilton, to-day. W. Both, of Northbrook, spent to-day here.

Life And Love.

By Mrs. Browning.
"I had this life of mine was dying,
Blind already and calm as death;
Snowflakes on her bosom lying,
Scarcely heaving with the breath.

Love came by and having known her
In a dream of faded lands,
Gently stooped and laid upon her
Mystic charm of holy hands.

Drew his smile across her folded
Eyelids, as the swallow dips
Breathed as finely as the cold did
Through the locking of her lips.

So, when life looked upward, being
Warmed and breathed from above,
What sight could she have for seeing
Eternmore—but only love!"

A SLICK YOUNG MAN AFTER FOOLING THREE PICTON CLERGYMEN

Got Caught By a Fourth—Further Details of the Ameliasburg Drowning Case—"Indians" in Trouble.

Pictou, Jan. 23.—Three town ministers "bit" at the plausible tale of a slick young man, named Graham, and claiming to come from Trenton. Graham, it is said, came to town with the Trenton hockey special on Tuesday night, and has been around here ever since. He told the most of those he met that he did an acrobatic stunt in a show put on by the Royal Alexandria Amusement company, but he told the preachers when he visited them that he had driven here and had an accident to the cutter. He needed the money to pay the damages. This was believed, and he secured $3 from three preachers, but when he went to Rev. W. L. Armitage, the story was questioned, and upon telephoning the livery, it was found the story was untrue. The young fellow, who is about twenty-three and well dressed, was sorry for his misdeeds and was let go on promising to be good.

Twice an offender against the liquor license law, "Jim" Brown, on the "Indian" list, made his third appearance before Magistrate Currie in police court, on Thursday afternoon. He admitted the charge, and sentence was deferred. Evidently believing that an open confession is good for the soul, Brown declared that all along he has been giving money to a certain man in town, who has been buying him the desired liquor on condition that Brown would not "squeal" on him. Then this man, according to Brown's story, has been helping him drink the prohibited liquid. This is the reason that Inspector Sexsmith will prosecute Wesley McKibbin, harness maker, on Monday.

"Tankard" Kelly, who is also among those "listed," was served to appear in court on October 13th, but instead he shook the dust of Pictou from his feet and "skidded." A warrant, out for him ever since, caught him, Thursday, and he was immediately taken to court. He was in an intoxicated state and grew very insolent and threatening. He said he was not guilty in answer to the charge on October, but the case was proven and a $10 fine levied, which being defaulted, he was sent to jail for a month.

Further particulars are to hand about the double drowning of the Ameliasburg shore on Thursday night told of in a despatch to yesterday's Whig. It seems the two men, Brodie and Frederick, were under the influence of drink. In the cutter with them were their two wives. The night was very dark and doubtless they were driving recklessly. They drove into a crack. The two women managed to escape from the waters with the help of Brooks, who had jumped to firm-

WOMEN ATTEMPT INNOVATION They Wear Their Hair Loosely About Shoulders.

Paris, Jan. 23.—Women in evening costume with hair flowing loosely down their backs and free to every wind, is the latest attempt at introducing novelty into feminine toilet in Paris. The three ladies who attracted this daring innovation by appearing in the first tier of boxes of a boulevard theatre were young and handsome. They wore hair brushed straight back from the forehead and falling loosely over the shoulders and down to the waist without ornament or ribbon of any kind. Their appearance was striking but it attracted general criticism from most of the other women in the audience. The promoters of the attempted new fashion assert that hair worn in this natural manner sets off a pretty or handsome face to the best advantage but the leading Paris papers assert that the new fashion is an impossible one.

Rules For Aerial Warfare.

London, Jan. 23.—Major Baden-Powell, interviewed by a press representative with regard to the announcement that the French government has decided to call an international conference to consider the introduction of a code of laws on aerial navigation, said that while such rules were hardly necessary yet, they would be badly wanted in two or three years. "There must be something in the way of international agreement," he proceeded, "as to how these things are to be worked. It is a very difficult and complicated question, and there is a good deal to be discussed as to the rules of the road. Collisions in the air will be always most dangerous, and there are other difficult questions as to 155 miles. Mr. Wright said that may pass over private ground and foreign countries."

Plain Facts About the Hair

It is the duty of every one who is interested in hair preservation to learn enough about the subject to tell whether an advertisement for a hair remedy is reasonable or unreasonable. In this connection, the United States Post Office department has begun a much needed campaign against false and misleading statements in advertisements in general. While this work is highly commendable and should be greatly extended, still at the same time it tends to paternalism rather than to personal self-reliance. If YOU know that the claims for a hair remedy are unreasonable and untrue, that knowledge will save you money and prevent disappointment.

The trouble lies in the fact that certain over ambitious Proprietors employ advertising writers who do not know the composition of the remedies they write about, and even if they did, they are not expected to know the familiar and oft repeated statements are, that the hair color of the hair, once destroyed, can be restored, by natural process. While both these statements are false in every particular, it requires some little knowledge of the hair follicle to understand why the statements are false. The hair follicle is a pear shaped sack in the scalp which holds the hair root. At the bottom of the hair follicle and extending up into it for a short distance, is a nipple shaped projection that remains in the scalp when a hair root is forcibly pulled out. This projection is the hair papilla from which the hair "root" grows. The continuous addition to the bottom of the hair root, forces the hair proper out through the scalp.

The hair papilla is surrounded by the hair root, which thus takes a bulbous form. Above the hair root or bulb, which occupies about three-fourths of the entire follicle, is the neck of the hair follicle, below which the most penetrating fluids known to Medical Science cannot penetrate. Therefore, the story of feeding the starved and impoverished hair roots with an external application is all a myth.

The short portion of the hair follicle above its neck opens somewhat like a funnel and is filled with the outer scalp skin. Opening into this outer portion are the highly important oil of sebaceous glands, which, from their location, are most exposed to disease. When these oil glands become infected with a certain microbe growth (the cause of dandruff), there is hair disease and finally hair death. Fortunately this outer portion of the hair follicle can be treated by carefully rubbing into the scalp a suitable remedy. What remedy should be used? Manifestly one that will destroy the growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is the first remedy that was prepared for the particular purpose of destroying this invisible vegetable growth. In fact, it is called the "ORIGINAL" remedy that kills the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide was not made until after Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, (ask your doctor about him), discovered that dandruff is a highly contagious disease caused by a microbe. The almost marvelous success of Newbro's Herpicide has caused advertising writers to claim germicidal properties for other hair remedies, many of which were on the market years before Prof. Unna's discovery.

Do you think that this new claim for old remedies is a reasonable one? Remember, that the hair gets its life, color and strength direct from the blood, and that good blood, deep breathing and sunlight favor hair development. Out-door exercise, to insure free circulation in the scalp, also scalp massaging for the same purpose, are very helpful. Worry, indigestion and sedentary habits oppose hair growth, while the dandruff germ will actually destroy the hair, unless it is eradicated and kept out of the scalp with Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide is delightfully cooling and refreshing to the scalp and almost marvelous results sometimes follow its continued use. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

YOUR MONEY will be refunded if Herpicide is not as represented.
