

February Special

Our Big FEBRUARY Furniture Sale is full of bargains. Here is a Special Dining Room Sample.

SIDEBOARD.
Large oak, very handsome, $70, reduced to $50.

DINING CHAIRS.
$45, reduced to $37, upholstered leather, very good.

EXTENSION TABLE.
Large, handsomely carved, square, regular $45, reduced to $34. Add these together and see what is saved on the Dining Room alone, by buying during the sale month.

BRUSSEL CARPET.
Several lines reduced from $1.35 to 50c. and $1.00.

RUGS.
All sizes, colors and quality, reduced in sympathy with our furniture sale. CASH SALE PRICES.

Yours, Phone 90.
T. F. Harrison Co.

Alaska Down Cushions

White Cambric Covered, in all sizes.
TEA COSIES, in all sizes.

R. McFaul,
Carpet Warehouse.

MONUMENTS

Inspect our stock and work before placing your order.

INSCRIPTION WORK SOLICITED.

The Kingston Granite and Marble Works
WELCH'S OLD STAND.
Cor. Princess and Clergy Sts.

J. McAULEY,
Undertaker,
Cor. Princess and Sydenham Sts.
Ambulance Phone, 861a.

CONTENTMENT IS A PRIZE

Secure it by buying

A Home

We have them in any locality or at any price. If you want a new 6-room Dwelling with a lot 60 x 135 and a barn, look at 154 York St., west of Division.

No trouble to show you what we have.

McCann,
51 Brock St.

CARRIED THE BY-LAW PICTON THE VICTORS HE REMEMBERED IT

GRANTING $10,000 TO THE WORMWITH WORKS.

The Piano Factory Will Remain in Kingston—The Vote Was Overwhelmingly in Favor of Granting the Bonus.

The Wormwith Piano works will remain in Kingston. By an overwhelming vote at the polls on Thursday the property owners decided to retain this industry by giving it a bonus of $10,000. The vote was 2,119 for the bonus, and 206 against.

On January 4th the same bonus by-law was before the people but owing to there being so many ballot papers to mark, and an account of the Wormwith by-law being confused with the road improvement by-law, the measure was defeated, inasmuch as it came within sixty-four votes of the number required, although the vote stood 1,424 for and 422 against.

There are 2,481 voters on the property holders' list. As there has been one vote of these voted against the by-law, only a three-fifths affirmative vote, instead of a two-thirds, was required. Hence the number of votes required to carry the Wormwith measure was 1,485. It received 2,119, so that it passed by 631.

The total vote polled yesterday was 2,325, or just 156 less than the total number of voters. This shows the energetic work of the Board of Trade members who manured the polls and worked for the bonus from the drop of the hat at nine o'clock in the morning till five in the afternoon. The board had a perfect organization, including the politicians of both sides, and the votes simply had to be registered. Those who had the franchise were forced to come out and cast their ballots.

Quite a little money passed from one pocket to another on the game, most of the bets being 2 to 1 on Picton. Picton has a good team, a fast, husky seven, who can take care of themselves at all stages of the game, and if they play as they did on Thursday they will be up pretty near the top. The Picton bunch are hockey players from goal to centre. Every man plays a good, stiff game. The soldiers were just as fast as the home team, but the great difference in the weight of the two teams, and the slick condition of the ice, told on the light 14th players early in the game. Picton played a practically clean game.

Both forward lines played good combination and the individual rushes of the players were about evenly divided. On the forward line the soldiers would have the advantage on hard ice, but on soft ice they can not get started when the heavier is a pretty even call, but the winners had a little the better of it. Bedborough is the star of Picton's defence, and he is certainly making a fine finish for his last year in junior hockey. The teams lined up as follows:

Picton (5)—Croft, goal; Williamson, point; Bedborough, cover; Reid, rover; Hart, centre; Hicks, right wing; Burns, left wing.

14th (2)—Marchand, goal; Sparks, point; Hyland, cover; Brouse, rover; Gratian, centre; Moran, left wing; Nicholson, right wing.

Referee—C. Livingston, Toronto.
The summary was as follows:
1. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
2. Picton, Reid, 12 minutes.
3. 14th, Nicholson, 3 minutes.
4. 14th, Gratian, 2 minutes.
Second half:
5. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
6. Picton, Bedborough, 2 minutes.
7. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
Penalties—First half, Picton, Hart, 2; 2, 2; Hicks, 2; Bedborough, 2; Burns, 10; Moran, 2. Second half, Picton, Reid, 2; Hart, 2; Croft, 2; 14th, Brouse, 2; Hyland, 2; Gratian, 2; Moran, 2. Total, Picton, 28 minutes; 14th, 24 minutes.

In the first half the play opened very well on both sides. The former game and were on to each other's play. This made it very close. The checking was stiff and close from the go in but Bedborough kept the play well in hand. Inside of twenty-two minutes Picton had secured two goals and the soldiers none. Then came that great change over the little 14th fellows and inside of five minutes they had the score tied. Shortly after half-time was called.

In the second half both teams came out determined to win, but luck went with the home team. Reid secured the first goal in ten minutes; Bedborough followed on a long shot from centre, securing the second, and ten minutes later Reid secured the last tally, making it 5 to 2 for the home team.

Nearly all the penalties were for minor offences. Brouse and Burns were given the only long sentences for endeavoring to show the Picton lasses how well they could use their hands.

For the winners Bedborough, Reid and Croft were the stars. Marchand, Hyland, Nicholson and Gratian played a strong game for the visitors. The heavy ice fooled Moran and Brouse to quite an extent.

The best of good feeling prevailed after the game and the Kingston team pulled out, followed by the cheer of the Picton people. The soldiers would like to see Picton land the silverware.

Making Cough Curing Easy.
It is not a good plan to trifle with coughs or to use a trailing remedy. You can have a pleasant remedy and be sure of prompt and satisfactory results every time by using the Diamond Cough Remedy. In bottles, 25c. and 50c., at Wade's drug store.

Blue And Black Lynx.
Neck pieces and muffs, all to be sold at slaughter prices, at Campbell Bros., big clearing fur sale.

An additional order for 10,000 tons of ice has been received by the New York Central R.R. from the Merchants Dispatch Transportation company, for shipment to its storage house at East Buffalo. The ice is secured at Cape Vincent, N.Y.
A wife who fails to appreciate the great wrong done her sex by withholding the ballot can often make over her husband's frayed-out neckties, so they look as good as new.
Miss Minnie Hunter, Kingston, is spending the week visiting relatives in and around Tweed.
The council of Stratford has agreed to pay City Engineer Mellis Ferguson $1,500 till July 1st, and $1,500 from thenceforth.

DEFEATED THE 14TH JUNIORS BY FIVE TO TWO

And Won the Round By a Margin of Four Goals—The Heavy Ice Told on the Light Kingston Team.

Picton juniors won the second round of the junior O.H.A. series on Thursday night, when they defeated the 14th seven, five goals to two, in one of the fastest, hardest-fought battles ever seen in Picton. The canners had a lead of one goal from the previous game in Belleville, thus winning the round by four goals. Here's hoping they win the cup.

The locals left here at 3:10 o'clock. Thursday afternoon and after a long, tedious railroad journey, arrived in Picton at 7:50 o'clock and were forced to go direct to the rink and dress. They had a bite of supper at Trenton junction. When the teams arrived at the rink they found it packed, between 1,200 and 1,300 people being present. The ice was in good condition towards the end, and this was hard on the soldier forwards, who want clear hard ice as they are light.

The game was a battle from bell to bell. Picton won and fair and square, but they had the hardest battle of the season to do it. At half time the score stood 2 to 2, and the supporters of both sides did some tall thinking. Quite a little money passed from one pocket to another on the game, most of the bets being 2 to 1 on Picton.

Picton has a good team, a fast, husky seven, who can take care of themselves at all stages of the game, and if they play as they did on Thursday they will be up pretty near the top. The Picton bunch are hockey players from goal to centre. Every man plays a good, stiff game. The soldiers were just as fast as the home team, but the great difference in the weight of the two teams, and the slick condition of the ice, told on the light 14th players early in the game. Picton played a practically clean game.

Both forward lines played good combination and the individual rushes of the players were about evenly divided. On the forward line the soldiers would have the advantage on hard ice, but on soft ice they can not get started when the heavier is a pretty even call, but the winners had a little the better of it. Bedborough is the star of Picton's defence, and he is certainly making a fine finish for his last year in junior hockey. The teams lined up as follows:

Picton (5)—Croft, goal; Williamson, point; Bedborough, cover; Reid, rover; Hart, centre; Hicks, right wing; Burns, left wing.

14th (2)—Marchand, goal; Sparks, point; Hyland, cover; Brouse, rover; Gratian, centre; Moran, left wing; Nicholson, right wing.

Referee—C. Livingston, Toronto.
The summary was as follows:
1. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
2. Picton, Reid, 12 minutes.
3. 14th, Nicholson, 3 minutes.
4. 14th, Gratian, 2 minutes.
Second half:
5. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
6. Picton, Bedborough, 2 minutes.
7. Picton, Reid, 10 minutes.
Penalties—First half, Picton, Hart, 2; 2, 2; Hicks, 2; Bedborough, 2; Burns, 10; Moran, 2. Second half, Picton, Reid, 2; Hart, 2; Croft, 2; 14th, Brouse, 2; Hyland, 2; Gratian, 2; Moran, 2. Total, Picton, 28 minutes; 14th, 24 minutes.

In the first half the play opened very well on both sides. The former game and were on to each other's play. This made it very close. The checking was stiff and close from the go in but Bedborough kept the play well in hand. Inside of twenty-two minutes Picton had secured two goals and the soldiers none. Then came that great change over the little 14th fellows and inside of five minutes they had the score tied. Shortly after half-time was called.

In the second half both teams came out determined to win, but luck went with the home team. Reid secured the first goal in ten minutes; Bedborough followed on a long shot from centre, securing the second, and ten minutes later Reid secured the last tally, making it 5 to 2 for the home team.

Nearly all the penalties were for minor offences. Brouse and Burns were given the only long sentences for endeavoring to show the Picton lasses how well they could use their hands.

For the winners Bedborough, Reid and Croft were the stars. Marchand, Hyland, Nicholson and Gratian played a strong game for the visitors. The heavy ice fooled Moran and Brouse to quite an extent.

The best of good feeling prevailed after the game and the Kingston team pulled out, followed by the cheer of the Picton people. The soldiers would like to see Picton land the silverware.

Making Cough Curing Easy.
It is not a good plan to trifle with coughs or to use a trailing remedy. You can have a pleasant remedy and be sure of prompt and satisfactory results every time by using the Diamond Cough Remedy. In bottles, 25c. and 50c., at Wade's drug store.

Blue And Black Lynx.
Neck pieces and muffs, all to be sold at slaughter prices, at Campbell Bros., big clearing fur sale.

An additional order for 10,000 tons of ice has been received by the New York Central R.R. from the Merchants Dispatch Transportation company, for shipment to its storage house at East Buffalo. The ice is secured at Cape Vincent, N.Y.
A wife who fails to appreciate the great wrong done her sex by withholding the ballot can often make over her husband's frayed-out neckties, so they look as good as new.
Miss Minnie Hunter, Kingston, is spending the week visiting relatives in and around Tweed.
The council of Stratford has agreed to pay City Engineer Mellis Ferguson $1,500 till July 1st, and $1,500 from thenceforth.

LIEUT. JOHNSON NOT HANGED AS ALLEGED

For He Was a Loyal Britisher—His Remains Were Buried in the Plot Now Known As Frontenac Park With Military Honors.

John D. Davison, an old Kingstonian, now residing at Parrot's Bay, called at the Whig office a few days ago to correct what he claims to be an erroneous statement made in a letter written by Mr. Grass, of Collins Bay, and published recently in the Whig. In Mr. Grass' letter it was stated that Lieutenant Johnson and fourteen others were captured at the battle of the Windmill, at Prescott, and brought back to Kingston and hanged. Mr. Davison wishes to remove this blot from the memory of such a valiant soldier as Lieutenant Johnson. In place of being brought back and hanged, he was brought to Kingston and buried in the old cemetery (now known as Frontenac Park) his last obsequies being attended with full military honors as befitting a faithful soldier who died in defence of his flag and country.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

Mr. Davison, who was born on the site lately occupied by the Wormwith and McLeish, remembers the incident well. He was seventeen years old at the time, and though now nearing the century mark, his memory regarding past events is most wonderfully clear. He states that Lieutenant Johnson, instead of being a rebel, was a member of the 88th Regiment of British regulars, then stationed at Kingston under command of Colonel Dundas. A small detachment of this corps was sent to Prescott, and it was during the first attack at the Windmill, before the artillery went into action, that Lieutenant Johnson was killed.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!

150 Pairs Corsets at 25c pair.

50 Dozen Men's Linen Collars, 7 1/2c.
25 Dozen Boys' Fleece-Lined Underwear, 25c.
4,000 Yards Striped Shaker Flannel at 5c Yard.
35 Pieces Black Sateen, worth 20c yard, for 12 1/2c.
75c Unbleached Table Linen for 25c.
1,800 Yards Pink Shaker at 6c yard.
300 Hem-Stitched Pillow Slips at 12 1/2c.
75 Children's White Bear Tams, worth 75c and $1, for 25c.
Lots of Ladies' Collars at 15c.

NEW FRILLINGS RECEIVED THIS WEEK.

CORRIGAN'S.

THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

DINNER IN HONOR OF PROF. PALACHE.

Of Harvard University—Annual Meeting of Y.M.C.A.—The Theologues Separate From the Arts Society.

The annual meeting of Queen's University Y.M.C.A. was held, yesterday afternoon, at four o'clock, in the old arts' building. There was a fairly good attendance and encouraging reports were given by the retiring officers. The following officers were elected to pilot this important organization throughout the coming year: President, J. V. Dobson; vice-president, G. E. Kidd, B.A.; secretary, G. B. Keadrick; financial secretary, J. A. McLeish; convener of religious work committee, W. Dobson.

"Alcoholism" was the subject of a very interesting address delivered to the members of the engineering society by Dr. Goodwin. It seems too bad to have two important gatherings going on at the same hour. The attendance at both the Y.M.C.A. meeting and at Dr. Goodwin's address would have been greatly increased had they not been held at the same hour.

Prof. W. L. Nicol gave a dinner to his senior mineralogy class in honor of Prof. Palache, of Harvard University. Prof. Palache holds a position at Harvard similar to Prof. Nicol, of Queen's, being head of the mineralogy department there. During his stay in Kingston he will be the guest of Prof. Nicol and on Monday, February 8th at 4 p.m., will deliver an address in the engineering building. Prof. Palache is the most distinguished mineralogist of the United States, and should have a large audience next Monday afternoon.

The Western Association, which has just been organized meets on Monday afternoon for the purpose of arranging a constitution. The "westerners" have a strong organization and will, no doubt, spread the fame of Queen's abundantly in the land of the great west.

The Political Science and Debating Clubs had the pleasure of listening this afternoon to a very keen debate: "Resolved, that the adoption of the Canadian banking system by the United States would be an improvement on the present national banking system." The affirmative was taken by Messrs. G. W. Skene and W. Scott, and the negative by Messrs. M. S. Colquhoun and H. A. Chisholm. It is little wonder that Queen's takes such a high rank in intercollegiate debating circles, when she has such a manufactory of debaters as the Political Science and Debating Club.

The final inter-year debate "10 vs. 11, takes place before the Alma Mater Society tomorrow night. Messrs. Urie and Mills are your 10 standard-bearers, while Messrs. Telford and Sealey oppose them on behalf of year '11. This will prove a good debate also.

The curators of the arts' reading room propose to dispose of this year's magazines and periodicals at an early date. These will be sold, as last year, by auction at the regular meeting of the Alma Mater Society.

The students in divinity having of late organized themselves into a theological society, practically bid farewell to the Arts' Society, at its annual meeting on Tuesday night. It is understood the Arts' Society gave them leave to sever their connections and paid the "theologues" handsomely for their favor.

B. A. Hotel Arrivals.
J. B. Crane, Boston; Charles R. Woodburn, J. Michlen, Montreal; E. O. Eldridge, S. J. Lower, New York; F. J. Konmand, Miss A. Kinmond, Gananoque; S. Cleaves McGowan, W. Toronto; G. N. Johnson, Alfred H. Gilham, Brockville; W. Jackson, St. George; George A. Sleeman, Guelph; Capt. W. E. Vanlack, Picton; J. W. Allison, Picton; W. J. Elliott, Montreal; T. L. Armstrong, Waterloo; A. Forsythe, Harrowsmith; N. R. Turner, Prescott; William G. Davidson, E. Bremner, Montreal; S. B. Brush, Toronto; W. D. Gillett, Buffalo, N.Y.; F. F. McArthur, Guelph.

What Can You Eat?
If you have to be constantly mindful of what you eat, your stomach needs the kind of help that Day's Dyspepsia Cure always gives. This remedy helps to digest food and so increases the muscular power and the digestive fluids of the stomach that normal digestion returns. Each bottle contains sixteen days' treatment. For sale only at Wade's drug store.

Anxious About Result.
A few minutes after the result of yesterday's voting on the by-law was known, the Whig was called by a prominent Gananoque resident, who was very anxious to know the result.

Little Lady Oranges.
2 doz. 25c. Edwards & Jenkin.

CRIPP'S Asthma Cure WILL CURE

great many of those afflicted with Asthma, honestly believe that there is no remedy that will arrest the spasms that have so often nearly deprived them of life. We ask them to try Cripp's Cure and after the first bottle if they do not see that they are being benefited, we will return the money.

We have recommendations from many who were compelled to sleep sitting up, but who now enjoy their refreshing night's sleep. Contains no harmful drugs.

50c. Large Bottle.

Mahood's Drug Store

SOLE AGENTS.

SALE OF FURS.

Kingston's Famous Fur Store. "The Surprise Fur Sale continues. So let everyone know. They save money by buying. From George Mills & Co."

Surprise Fur Sale During February.

To buy "George Mills & Co.'s Furs" at any time is a splendid investment, but to buy them at discounts of 15 to 50 per cent. off the regular selling prices you are doing something away out of the ordinary. That's the way the discounts range during our Surprise Fur Sale.

Long Stoles, Satin Lined, With Tails.
Black Opposum, $6.75.
Black Sable Walkaby, $7.25.
Greenland Seal, $7.75.
Muskrat, $9.50.
Japanese Mink, $16.
Muffs to match.

George Mills & Co.
Makers of Fine Furs
Princess Street.

NEWMAN & SHAW
The Always Busy Store

Thermometers
Outside and House Thermometer, from 25c. to $1.25.
Bath Thermometers, incased in wood, 25c. to 75c.
Dairy Thermometers, 20c.
Self-registering registers the earliest degree during any period, $2.

Dr. A. P. Chown
Druggist and Optician.

HAZELINE TOILET SOAP
Contains Witch Hazel, Glycerine and Vaseline
Soothing and Cleansing
IN BOXES
3 Cakes for 10c.

McLeod's Drug Store

A DOLLAR
Looks as big as a wagon wheel to us at this time of the year.

Do Not Wait Till Spring to Make Your Selections.
Prices are lower now and our assortment greater.
All kinds of Household Goods bought and sold.
Try me for a square deal.

L. Lesses,
Cor. Princess and Chatham Sts., Kingston, Ont.

Beans!
Lima Beans
California Beans
Small White Beans
Large " "
FRESH OYSTERS
D. Couper,
Dealer in Pure Food Groceries.
Phone, 76. 841-3 Princess St.

You will want some Home-Made Mince Meat and here is the place to get the good old fashioned kind that mother used to make. Also, our Pork Sausage Meat is just the dressing you need.
Phone, 570. H. T. MYERS.