MELONS AND PANICS.

The Whig does not often have to complain of improper treatment by its contemporaries. As a rule its position on any public question is fairly interpreted. The Toronto World has it, however, as saying that Mr. Maclean, on the C.P.R. stock question, is an iconoclast, and that the president of the United States made the recent panic and not the inflationists.

The Whig has not put as much study into the C.P.R. stock issue as the World or its publisher, but far from saying that Mr. Maclean is an iconoclast it thinks he has done a great deal of good on a very important subject. Every little while there is an increase of stock by many millions, and it is not sold to whoever will buy at the market price. It is, on the contrary, divided pro rata, or according to the demand or capacity of the purchasers, among the old stockholders.

There are some reasons why the company and its present stockholders should control the road or its destinies. It is a purely Canadian enterprise, and for commercial, military and strategic purposes, should not cease to be Canadian in its management. But the new stock should not be sold for less than its market value to any one, and if any other proceeding can be regarded as an untimely division of the melon it is to be regretted.

The United States panic was not due to the inflationists, but to a depression in trade in which every branch of it suffered. The president has been the sworn enemy of the trusts, but political writers have pointed out that the great parties are practically in the grip of the monied forces, and all the talk against them is merely sham.

LAWYERS GETTING BUSY.

One of the lawyers who had the favour—as only some have—of discussing the proposed law reform with the premier of Ontario and his attorney-general, removes an impression which certainly existed, and to the effect that the legal gentlemen were looking after their own interests. Most assuredly they were, but they have been doing nothing more audacious than any set or class of men, representing other divisions of labour, would do were legislation proposed affecting them. The lobbies of our parliament are filled session after session with those whose mission it is to influence the measures that are going through, and obviously of concern to some company or community.

The proposed law reform makes, it seems, for a limitation of the appeals which have been permissible in the past, and the cost of which has been simply ruinous upon some of the litigants. The experience has been such that one might well halt about resorting to use, under any circumstances, where there was the prospect of carrying the case from one court to another with rapidly increasing expenses. The lawyers are agreed, it seems, that there shall be but one appeal in the province, but that the court of appeals as it now exists shall be a part of the new system.

Then we are told that the lawyers pointed out how "much of the present procedure was unnecessary, creating unnecessary expense, and strongly advocated a simpler set of rules, which would enable speedier trials at less expense." They also asked for "the abolition of the present antiquated tariff, which was framed over fifty years ago, and is altogether unsuited to modern conditions, as well as being quite unintelligible to a layman." They suggested instead a block tariff, and alternative freedom of contract between lawyer and client, so that a man entering upon litigation could know in advance what it would cost him.

All this would indicate that if the lawyers have been busy they have been getting wiser and have been not only willing but anxious that some reform should take place in the accounting branch of their service. They have not been alone in the building up of bills which defied analysis from the layman. They had the companionship in the same scientific service of the plumbers, who have so far shown no qualms of conscience, no visible signs of repentance or reform.

Winston Churchill is credited with reporting that there will be an early election in the old land. It is rarely that any government lives out a parliamentary term. The Asquith ministry has been earning favour by its domestic policy, and again the war cloud comes to obscure the vision.

THE MASTER PASSION.

Upon some of the monuments in the public squares and parks of the larger cities there is engraved the occasion for their erection. And it is well this is the case, else succeeding generations may be unable to enlighten a common curiosity.

The Lincoln monuments, to which fitting references will be made to-day, call to mind the man who figured so prominently in the life of the American nation. One reads of him in the literature of the times, a literature that has become so profuse, but the monuments suggest the man as no pen-picture or illustration can possibly do. Washington was the father of the nation, and so his name is honoured above all others. Lincoln was the saviour of his country, the emancipator of a race that has since become a potent factor in the citizenship of a great commonwealth.

Lincoln's monuments stand pre-eminently for the service which has been dignified in some walks of life as "the master passion." Without it no man can achieve real or abiding distinction. It is, therefore, the theme of song and story, the thing which is exalting in its quality and worth the sacrifices it sometimes involves. Said the poet:

"Honour and fame from no condition rise,
Act well your part, there all the honour lies."

There was no straining for effect in the life of Lincoln, as there should not be in the life of any man who serves his race with the zeal and fidelity of the true patriot. All those who write of Lincoln, deriving their facts from authentic sources, present him as a patient servant of the people, doing every task well, and expressing always the simple, homely and honest truth which was part of his very nature.

There was no sham about him. Plain he was in private life, and plain in public life, in manner, and in tastes, but great, firm and heroic in his character. Much disciplining had fitted him for the burdens of a high office, and he carried them as perhaps no other, then known, could have done. He was often tired and weary and cast down, but he only ceased his service, surely with him the master passion, when the assassin mingled his blood with the blood of thousands in defence of a great cause.

If any man laid down his life for his fellows Lincoln did, and it is an amazing fact which will be preserved in history long after some of the monuments that now revive his memory have been impaired by the ravages of time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There will be no railway subsidies this year. There is a large class of the electors who would rejoice if the last had been heard of them.

The Ontario government will have its hands full if it provides for all the feeble-minded, and sees that they are usefully and healthfully employed.

An hundred years ago a great man was born into the world. Lincoln has been dead for many years, but his soul, like John Brown's, goes marching on.

The grafters are said to be in control of the civic government of Montreal. A royal commission is called for. Cannot Judge Cassels be invited to exercise his probe?

The Globe intimates plainly that the militia department, to meet public expectation, must cut down the expenses of the war office at Ottawa. Some of the gold lace must go.

What has become of the depreciation which was figured into the electric scheme when the people were asked to vote $85,000 for extensions? Has there been any deception with regard to it?

The Belleville Intelligencer is disturbed because the local water works surplus is not as great as Guelph's. Are the rates as high? A surplus is easily raised if the taxation is only made high enough.

A sinking fund a municipal electric or power plant may not have, but a depreciation account (in view of possible emergencies) it must have to be safely financed. Such is the record of the British system, which is older than any in Canada.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, ridiculed by the conservative press, and taunted for incapacity, has been thanked by the governor-general and the British ambassador for distinguished service on the fisheries question. Some critics will want to go into obscurity for a while. They need sundry repairs.

Hon. Mr. Templeman's election by acclamation, as the member for Comox-Atlin, gives general satisfaction. The anti-Asiatic craze has not been so conspicuous since the Borden telegram has been properly understood.

Commander Spain has not lately been sent out on any wrecking enquiries. It's just as well until he has invented some plan—or the marine department has devised one for him—whereby he can keep track of his expenses.

JEW WAS IN DANGER.

His Iceboat Ran Into Open Water.

Gannaque, Feb. 10.—A young Jew, named Elson, coming up by ice boat from Thousand Island Park, on Monday afternoon, had a very narrow escape, the boat running into open water near the government buoy at the foot of Hog Island, and being for some little time almost entirely submerged. Fortunately assistance was at hand and boat and occupant were rescued. The young Israelite, however, would not return with the boat that brought him up. One of the local ice boatmen took him home on Tuesday. It has since been learned that the place where the boat went in had just previously been cut by the ice harvesters and was not lashed to mark open water, and was the cause of the mishap to John Elson, the engine builder, who skated into the place while coming from Howe Island on Tuesday morning, having a narrow escape. Several others went through unmarked sections on Sunday. According to law any place rendered dangerous in that manner is to be marked by brush and there is some talk of prosecuting the negligent ones.

The local Salvation Army corps held their formal opening of their new barracks on Garden street last evening with a social, which was largely attended.

A very pleasant evening was spent by the quarterly official board of Grace church in the lecture room last evening. After the business of the session was over they were entertained at supper by the Ladies' Aid society.

The Board of Education held its inaugural session during the past week. The necessary committees for the year were struck. E. L. Atkinson was elected chairman and Town Clerk Samuel McAnnon re-elected as secretary-treasurer at a salary of $100 a year.

In the police court Robert Adon, a quarryman, in the employ of D. J. Gordon, was arraigned on a charge of being a public nuisance. After hearing evidence judgment was reserved.

It is rumored about town that the Bank of Toronto is negotiating for the purchase of the corner lot, owned by W. Y. Boyd, on which stood the block of stores destroyed Jan. 31st, and that if successful a new bank building will adorn King street at an early date.

A gang of men have been set to work to tear down the ruined walls of the Grand Opera House building, which have been causing considerable uneasiness for the past week. Quite a large amount has been already safely levelled.

You Must Cure Dyspepsia.

Brewer's Mills Budget.

Brewer's Mills, Feb. 9.—A few from here to (leave) the N. A. of No. 6 "At Home" on Wednesday evening. The funeral of Mrs. Herbert McArdle, Gannaque, took place at St. Barnaby's church on Sunday. Miss E. A. Berrigan has left to take charge of a school at Godfrey. Miss Vannie Roehfort is visiting friends in Kingston. Visitors: Mr. Gaven and sister, Lansdowne, at J. McKenna's; Miss M. Beaupre, at her uncle's, J. Roehfort's.

PARISIAN SAGE.

Puts Hair on Your Head and Keeps it There.

What's the use of being bald? What sense is there in deliberately allowing your hair to turn gray?

Do you want to look old before your time? Give up the thought; old age will come all too soon.

Look after your hair. Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germ, and is the only preparation, so far as we know, that is guaranteed to do so.

Man or woman, no matter how old you are, Parisian Sage will make you look younger.

Why not go to G. W. Mahood and get a large bottle to-day, it only costs 50 cents, and your money back if it does not cure dandruff, stop falling hair, or itching of the scalp. It will make your hair luxuriant, bright and beautiful, and it is the most refreshing, pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

WISE PARENTS.

Guard Children's Health by Giving Them Pink Pills.

The health of the growing boy, or girl, should be carefully guarded. During the growing time there is a danger of the blood becoming poisoned and the health seriously impaired. The blood should be kept pure and the child will grow strong, healthy and active. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic for the young. They never fail to bring color to the pale cheeks and strength to the growing body. To a reporter of L'Avvenir du Nord, Joseph Provost, of St. Canute, Que., tells how those pills saved his daughter, Marie, from the life of misery. He says: "A year ago my daughter, a girl of thirteen, was very weak. She was so ill that I feared she was going into consumption. Though I tried remedy after remedy she remained in this weak state for several months and to begin to think she never would get better. I read of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been in a case of anæmia, so got some for her. Soon she began to improve, her appetite returned; she grew strong; color came into her cheeks and, to-day, she is as healthy as any young girl could be. I firmly believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally as successful in bringing those of mature age back to health as they are in building up the young. They make pure, red blood—that is why they banish anæmia, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, heart palpitation, indigestion and the secret ills of girlhood and womanhood. But you must get the genuine bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. All other so-called pink pills are imitations. If your medicine dealer does not keep the genuine pills they will be sent at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Will It Be Soon?

Hamilton Herald.

A Kingston factory was burned down recently. Fifteen Ontario municipalities attempted to lure the factory owner away from Kingston by offering him inducements. He says he will stay if Kingston gives him $10,000. Some day, perhaps, an end will be put to this foolishness.

Now You're Talking.

Hamilton Spectator.

The Kingston Whig, referring to a recent statement in the Spectator, that most of the clean life stamps of Hon. Mr. Templeman are badly needed on the government side of the house, thinks that the suggestion should read, "badly needed on both sides of the house." The Spectator cheerfully accepts the amendment offered. Clean life men are needed, and needed badly.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Personal Statistics of Members of Parliament.

February, Delineator.

In the last parliament there were 200 native-born Canadians, in the new house the native-born number 204. There are six English-born, as compared with four in the last house. Ireland sent four sons to the old house, but there are only two members who were born in Ireland in the new house.

In each house the membership included three men who were born in the United States.

Scotland had three representatives in the last house; now it has only two.

The new house also includes one member who was born in South America.

By religion the figures are equally interesting.

The Roman Catholics are of exactly the same force as in the old house, the figures in each case being seventy.

The Presbyterians number forty-six in the new house; last year they had forty-seven.

The Methodist church is represented by fifty in the new house, as against forty in the last parliament.

The Church of England has forty-one against forty-two last time.

The Baptists numbered eight in the former house; in this they are six.

An addition to the religions is a universalist. The Congregationalists are two, the same as last year. And there is one Lutheran and one Episcopalian independent, just as there were in the last house.

The Man Who "Wants But Little"

S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

A steady job that pays me well.
A pleasant home in which to dwell.
A "necessity" when it's raining.
A liver that is always right.
And never failing appetite, that are bright.
And I will quit complaining.

A chance to travel now and then.
The friendship of my fellow men.
The luck to never stumble;
Hair that will not forsake my head,
A nose that never may turn red,
Sweet dreams when I crawl into bed,
And I will never grumble.

A manner that the ladies like.
The strength to knock out when I strike.
A bright sun o'er me shining;
A little richer every day;
Youth that will never wear away,
Three times a year a raise of pay,
And I will cease repining.

To have that which I want without
The sorrows of delay or doubt.
A tongue that's never fussy;
To be from worldly care on free;
That other men will envy me,
To wake each morning filled with glee,
And I will never weary.

Women over forty years of age, who cannot sleep or rest well at night, should take one teaspoonful of St. Regis Lumbago Cure.

STRACHAN'S

GIRLS WHO WORK

Girls who work for their living are especially exposed to the dangers of organic feminine disorders. Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions; walking to and from their places of employment in bad weather all tend to break down their delicate feminine organism.

No class of women are in need of greater assistance, and thousands of letters like the following demonstrate the fact that LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Miss Abby F. Barrows, of Nelsonville, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was very sick, had dull headaches, pain in my back, and a feminine weakness. I had been to several doctors and they did me no good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I can do most any kind of work. I am in better health than I ever was, and it is all due to your medicine."

Miss Lillian Ross, of 530 E. 84th St., New York, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I had a female trouble, nervous headaches, and was tired all the time, and could not sleep. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me feel so much better that I hope every woman who suffers as I did will try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, and has positively cured thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.
