Every Big Fire
Should bring home to you the necessity of keeping your property insured.
By this we do not mean partially insured, but protected up to within a reasonable limit of its value.
Some persons are particularly careful to have their outer doors locked at night, yet neglect to protect the house itself with insurance. The jewel consistency is conspicuously absent in their makeup.
We are representing strong companies, some of which have been paying losses for 50 years and upwards. Fire, Life and Accident policies written.

MORE ARE TO RESIGN FROM THE FIRE BRIGADE NEXT WEEK

A Merchant Makes a Plea For Better Treatment of the Firemen—They Get Poor Pay and Too Much Abuse.

Kingston, April 3.—(To the Editor): A great deal of talk is heard regarding the reorganization and work of the fire department. There are many views held as to how the efficiency of the brigade may be improved. One suggests a new chief from outside the city. Another suggests the changing of positions held by the present chief and assistant, while others ask that all the men tender their resignation. As for the latter view, it bids fair to take effect without any action on the part of the committee.

First comes the resignation of the engineer, then Fireman McKee, and next week three more of the members will tender their resignation, having better positions awaiting them. The men are to be commended for the prompt action in endeavoring to better their condition, as certainly the knocks that have recently been handed out to the brigade have not been of a mild type. It's like a winning team—lots of rosters while the games are won, but if a loss comes, my how the scene changes!

Our brigade was O.K. so long as the ratio of fires was small and our insurance rates low (and they haven't advanced lately), but when we get hit once or twice, then there is an awful howl. Such words as "no good," "rotten," "poor chief," "men afraid to fight the fire," etc., etc., are heard, while not a word is said about the lack of appliances with which the men have to fight, or the small number of men on the brigade, or the weather conditions, or the size of the building on fire, and many other conditions over which the brigade have no control.

How about the wages of the men? They start in at $1.25 a day, and after serving faithfully for one year, and on recommendation of the chief, are advanced to $1.30 a day. After two years they advance to $1.37; after two years more to $1.45, and after one year more, to $1.50 a day. Here they finish. Think of it, after six years' service they get $1.50 a day, or $16.50 a week, for seven days' work, 168 hours, or about seven cents an hour. Remember, a fireman is practically always on duty. What mechanic in the city, after serving his time (six years) would like to work for $10.50 a week! Yes, I may ask, what laboring man wants to work every day in the week for $10.50? Very small wages paid the men, is it to be wondered at that five of them are getting away from such conditions?

What home life has the fireman? What time with his family? What opportunity to assist in training his children? What chance to attend church (once in three weeks)? I do not claim that all the men are perfect, but I do claim that they ought to be encouraged in a practical way. The civic budget contains an item of $465 for increases in salaries. How much of this is for our brave fire-fighters? The schedule of their pay was drawn up by the committee of 1902, and it asks how are living expenses now as compared with seven years ago? How about house rent? Is it the same to-day as in 1902? How about groceries, meats, clothing, fuel, furniture, footwear, coltons, woollens, etc.? All have advanced. In fact the only necessary article that has not advanced in price is your valuable paper.

Now, Mr. Editor, I think you will agree with me that the fire laddies deserve better at our hands. Let the committee make the minimum wage $1.50 and the maximum $2. Have the men carefully selected, especially the new men, and let them be drilled once each week, and if they do this I feel sure that Kingstonsians will have every reason to be proud of their fire brigade.—MERCHANT.

Interest in New York Marathon.
Local interest ran high, to-day, over the great Marathon race in New York. All day long the race was the main topic of conversation. The Italian is favorite here with good judges who have followed the careers of all the runners. If the ground in New York is as soggy as it is here, the redskin will win easily, as he is regular Turk for wet ground. Quit—new bets were placed during the last few days. All who backed the Italian had to give odds, and a number were giving odds against any of the other runners. The Englishmen are all out for their man, who is going to "bury 'ome loist," and the Italian has a small local following.

'Twas Only A Joke.
"Do you know," said the funny man at the Grand last night, "I was told for sure, that Mayor Couper would not run again."
"Why, how is that?" asked his running mate.
"Well, they say that next year, the board of health will be sure to enforce vaccination, and he can't run if he is scratched, can he?"

Bibby's $1 shirts are elegant.
Every morning at seven o'clock from twenty-five to fifty men gather around the city buildings looking for work. In a few weeks they will be given work on the streets, when the paving starts. Bibby's baby carriage tires renewed by H. Milne.

The senior cadets were at Queen's College, this morning, taking a class in the science building. They will attend numerous times before they leave for the summer vacation. Get your boy's suit for Easter at Livingston's. According to contract, the city buildings' dome, exclusive of the clock and bell, is to be completed four weeks from to-day. The work may possibly be finished in a fortnight. See Bibby's handsome $1 shirts.

THE PRIZES AWARDED

In the Amateur Contest at the Grand Last Night. The Transatlantic Amusement company closed a successful ten days' engagement at the Grand Opera House, last evening. The company was greeted by one of the largest audiences present at the Grand. After the conclusion of the lengthy programme presented, the amateur contest took place. The number of entries was large and consisted of musicians, acrobats, wire walkers, singers and dancers. The different contestants entered into the spirit of the contest and did their best to come out at the top. It was difficult for the audience to judge the merits of the different parties, as they all did well. The following were awarded the prizes: Anderson Bros., acrobats, first prize; Little Miss Banks, singer, second prize; Iver Wallace, singer, third prize. The contest was enjoyed and the "hook" was seldom employed. The company left for Toronto at midnight.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Ald. Frank Hoag, popular with Frontenac Ward.

New Feature At "Wonderland."
Mr. Staley, one of the proprietors of Wonderland theatre, has just returned from Toronto, where he has completed arrangements with the Griffin Vaudeville Circuit, to supply acts for Wonderland. He has been fortunate enough to secure Everett & Merrill, in their wonderful aerial suspension, entitled "The Conjuror's Dream," an entrancing, mystifying entertainment, capturing their own gorgeous stage setting.

On Tuesday at 1 p.m., Miss Merrill will be placed in a hypnotic state on the stage and left there until two o'clock. The door will be thrown open to the public for one hour. In addition, Little Prince, the comedy juggler, in his amusing and clever performance, along with the moving pictures, completes one of the most elaborate productions ever attempted in Kingston at such a small price of admission, 5c.

The Crown Jewel Mines.
R. L. Cowan & Co., stock brokers, 36 King street east, Toronto, are placing on the market the stock of The Crown Jewel Mines, Limited. The property comprises six locations, totaling 270 acres, and is located in James, Coleman and Nett Lake districts. Already six strong veins have been discovered on the Coleman property. Send to R. L. Cowan & Co. for prospectus.

PAID IT THREE TIMES

THE BOARD OF HEALTH WAS LIBERAL

But it Got the Money Back—The Health Officer Advises That Closets in the Business Section Be Closed.

The new Board of Health had its first meeting on Friday afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock, when Mayor Couper, J. D. Thompson, James B. McLeod, S. R. Bailey and A. Strachan answered the roll call. Medical Health Officer Bell and Sanitary Inspector Gordon were also present.

Mayor Couper moved that J. D. Thompson be chairman of the board, but the latter declined to accept. He moved that the mayor be chairman. His worship thought, however, that he had enough to do without extra civic duties. It was agreed that the mayor should preside until a chairman was elected at the next regular meeting.

A number of accounts were passed, and some were referred to a committee to be checked over. Mr. Thompson asked if it were so that an account had been paid three times within the past three months. The medical health officer said it had, but that the merchant had returned the two extra payments of $30. Mr. Thompson thought it singular that a board of health should pass the same account three times, and that three cheques should be issued for it. The health officer said that in one case the bill had been at the fort hospital. The other had gone direct to the board. He couldn't account for the third payment.

The health officer in reply to a question stated that the new patient "blew it" in that section of Pittsburg, where his family lives. He thought he had caught the disease outside the city. On motion of Mr. Thompson it was decided that when a township case enters the fort hospital, the reeve of the interested township, shall at once be notified to make arrangements with the city for care of the patient. Pittsburg will be asked to pay for the care of this new patient.

It was decided to ask the city solicitor for advice as to what charges the city could make against patients treated at the fort hospital. The proprietor of the Iroquois has notified the city council that he will pay nothing. Instead, he wants damages.

The health officer presented a report regarding the closet nuisance in the business section, and recommended that all pits in that section be ordered closed. The board decided to leave the matter over till its next meeting. In the meantime copies of the health officer's report will be distributed among the board members. It was felt it was high time something was done in the matter.
