AN AFFRONT TO LABOUR.

The opposition has two objections to the organization of a department of labour by the federal government.

First, there was no need of the increase of ministers. No? The government represents a great business, which is divided into departments and guided and directed by competent heads.

Labour is an important department, generally, and time has demonstrated the necessity for such action on the part of the government as the welfare of the working classes demands.

A conservative government squandered many many thousands of dollars in a labour commission, to no purpose, and a liberal government had experimented with a deputy of the post office department and shown how great an influence a wise and discreet man can exert in labour issues.

The postmaster-general gave to Canada a labour law which has been the means of settling many labour disputes, with a saving of immense sums in business earnings and wages, and the one who has interpreted the Lemieux Act so successfully is the one who will become the first minister of labour.

There is need of a department of labour, and the premier gave evidence of his discernment in promising it, and now in redeeming his promise.

Then as to the salary. It is an affront to the man who is called to the office, and to the people he serves, to say that he is not worth as much as the other ministers. Mackenzie King will earn every dollar that is paid him, and the labour men of the country, union and non-union, have the assurance in him that their cause will be intelligently and righteously espoused.

THE WEALTH IS HERE.

Publicity, publicity! That is the talismanic term which charms and electrifies. It is long since the value of the printers' ink became established, and it was made doubly attractive when the artist, the photographer, the etcher and engraver brought their genius to bear upon the wonderful productions of the age.

One of the thousands that are entering Canada—not invading it, for that is not the correct word and with the knowledge that enables them to seek certain districts, and to settle down in them with a purpose of heart born of mature consideration.

The newcomers are well posted with regard to Canada, its climate, its resources, its requirements. Where did they get the information? The governments, federal and provincial, are sending out a profusion of literature which is eagerly sought and read.

The work is captivating. It must be this, or it fails of its mission, for the railway companies and the steamboat companies are putting into the hands of the people, in Europe, Asia and America, the most artistic prints that men can make.

The C.P.R. is issuing from its Montreal office alone, pamphlets and posters and circulars and books which will cost this year half a million dollars, and this does not include the expenditure of the publicity bureau of London, Chicago, New York, Boston, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Yokohama, (Japan), and Hong Kong (China.)

What the G.T.R. and G.T.P. companies are putting into the literature of their roads is not stated, but the total must be hundreds of thousands of dollars also. Adding the combined products of all the agencies—governmental and commercial—this land of ours must be about the best advertised in the world.

Realizing this fact, and keeping it in view, one can understand the movement which carries the people this way, in groups, in companies, in multitudes, and with the capital and energy which will surely develop and increase enormously the wealth of the nation.

NOT SO DAZZLING NOW.

From the London Advertiser one learns of the difficulties that have already been encountered with regard to the power question. London voted on a by-law which committed it to take the power of the Hydro-Electric Commission before it was ascertained just what the cost of the power would be.

mission now finds itself considerably embarrassed in locally financing the scheme. The sinking fund and interest on the cost of the transmission line and distribution station, estimated at $1,000,000, involves an annual tax of $45,000. It may be more. The Advertiser adds:

"This money, as for ordinary debentures, must be provided out of the taxes every year. In other words, the tax rate will be increased by at least two mills on the dollar, unless the scheme pays its way.

"At the present time the sinking fund is being provided out of the tax rate.

"Over against this will be set the profits of Niagara power, if any. If the enterprise shows a loss the sinking fund will not be paid, but will be charged to capital expenditure. That will relieve the council of a considerable obligation for the time being, although it will increase the indebtedness of the city for Niagara power a very great deal eventually.

"If the scheme does not pay for a few years the city will probably find itself burdened with a great debt, growing greater every year. Every day adds something to the difficulties of the scheme."

It was expected that London would be served by the Hydro-Election Commission by the end of this year, but that is not now possible. Meanwhile the expenses are piling up rapidly and some people are beginning to realize that the provincial power policy is not quite so dazzling as it appeared to be a while ago.

CLASH OF GOVERNMENTS.

The Ontario government is going to contest in law the power of the federal government to charter the Ontario and Michigan power company which aims to develop electrical energy on the Pigeon and Nipigon rivers.

The original bill, chartering the company, was objectionable, and liberal members of parliament and liberal newspapers counselled against the passage of it. Then it was recast, and went through both houses of parliament without much criticism. Indeed the bill, as revised, was as fair and reasonable as any measure could be, and as free from fault.

The Ontario government could only, on two grounds, be expected to protest against it: (1) That it interfered with the power policy of the Hydro-Electric commission, and (2) that it expropriated the lands of the province. But it seems that the company has not been given a monopolistic position on the rivers, that it can develop only one power on each and there are ten others. Then the land is not expropriated, even for transmission purposes. The company is simply undertaking to make use of some of the waters now going to waste. It will have to expend $5,000,000 in the fulfilment of its plans. When it generates power it will have to submit its rates to the regulation or control of the railway commission.

Incidentally the Ontario government received a knock in the senate for its wonderful assumptions. It feared that the Ontario and Michigan company would become monopolistic in its tendencies, and yet its commission had been given power to expropriate and take possession of any water power in Ontario. The minister of mines, too, had gone so far on one occasion as to object to a boat manning on Lake Nipigon until it had been given the permission of the Ontario government, though navigation is a matter under federal control.

It is just as well that the provincial government shall have it out with the federal government on the rights each possess with regard to legislation. The Council bill (as it is sometimes called) is not meant to warrant any usurpation of provincial rights, and it is not in the nature of the acts which the Mowat government resented many years ago, and successfully, when the Macdonald government seized and presumed to give away, to faithful supporters in the commons, the territory now known as New Ontario. The federal ministers protest against the allegation that they are trespassing upon the preserves of the Ontario government, and if Sir James Whitney has any doubt upon the subject Mr. Blake will accept his commission and appeal to the courts.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The big effect of the postal strike in France is to strike hundreds out of their jobs. The telephone girls banked too much on their chic.

The Whig is not in accord with those who would drive the small laundries out of business by a big municipal tax. There is no sense in that proceeding.

Seeding in the western provinces is over. In some places the wheat is blowing through the ground, and with a strength and growth that delights the farmers.

American Consul VanSant estimates that the tourists and visitors in the Kingston and Cobourg districts during the summer spend at least $5,000,000. It is a large estimate, and probably correct.

The coal combine in Watertown, under a lively attack from the press, broke, and as a result the price of fuel went suddenly down from $6.50 per ton to $6.15. What will be the effect in Kingston?

An Edmonton paper says the farmers of Alberta are ploughing with steam and gasoline power. Last fall the machinery was worked, breaking up the soil, until winter set in. Now here are thousands and thousands of acres under crop for the first time.

If the Herald pictures the situation correctly—and it is generally a very reliable paper—Montreal people are going to wreck in scores through the use of cocaine. The legislature will have to prohibit the use of the drug as it prohibits the sale of poison.

The Edmonton Bulletin says that some of the well-to-do farmers of Alberta are only now selling their last year's crop of wheat, and they are getting $1.06 per bushel for it at the railway station. The crop was forty bushels to the acre. Talk about your wealth!

MONTH OF AGONY.

Severe Case of Rheumatism Cured by Pink Pills.

"For many many months I suffered untold agony. I could not walk. I could scarcely raise myself to a sitting posture. I was under medical care, but in vain. Finally I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they have restored me to my former healthy condition."

This statement was made to a reporter recently by Charles S. Keddy, formerly of Kingston, N.S., but now living at Port Maitland. Mr. Keddy is a carpenter by-trade, and is now able to work every day. He adds: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they cured me after other medicine failed. While I was living at Kingston, N.S., I was seized with rheumatism in its most violent form. I was compelled to take to my bed and for months was unable to get up. I was so weak that it was difficult for me to raise myself to a sitting posture. It is impossible to tell how much I suffered day and night, and week out. The pains were like piercing swords. I had medical attendance, but it failed. Then I tried medicines advertised to cure rheumatism, but with the same result—none wasted. One day when hope had almost gone a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I told him my experience with other medicines, but he assured me that these pills would cure rheumatism, so I sent for a supply. After using a few boxes I was able to leave my bed and from that on my restoration to health was rapid. I am now as well as ever I was, and have not had the slightest touch of rheumatism since. The change they have wrought in my case is simply miraculous, and I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering from any form of rheumatism."

Rheumatism is rooted in the blood. Rubbing the aching limbs with liniments and outward remedies cannot possibly cure it. You must get the rheumatic acid out of the blood and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the one sure medicine to do this, because they actually make new blood. That is why these pills cure anaemia, headaches, and backaches, neuralgia, indigestion and the secret ailments that make miserable the lives of so many women and growing girls. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POLICE COURT BREVITIES.

Three Tipplers in the Line-Up Today.

John Short was in Canada but a short time, when he made the acquaintance of the Kingston police force. In the police court, this morning, when he was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness, he told the magistrate that he only arrived from the old country on Saturday last. He was fined $1 and costs, with the option of ten days. John Macdonald, who celebrated with him, was taxed a similar amount.

Charles Root, an "also drunk," was given the same penalty.

Settled Out Of Court.

The interesting suit of Thomas A. Low, M.P., against five of his prominent constituents about Eggarville, for $10,000 commission on the title of a mining property, did not come up at the Pembroke assizes. The case was settled amicably. Mr. Low receiving $6,300.
