POLITICAL LOVE FEAST.

The Quebec legislature has adjourned, and the political air of the ancient capital has perceptibly calmed. Not in many years has there been a session so lively, so exciting, and so personal, as that which has just closed. This is accounted for by the fact that two disgruntled liberals—Messrs. Bourassa and Lavergne—had joined and practically led the conservatives, and these had gone far as they could, with the aid of a discredited minister, in provoking attacks upon the government which it had to meet a kind. There was usually a Roland for an Oliver, and it is not remarkable that the spirit of the house should be contagious and that the pressmen in the gallery should catch it. Hence the assault of Mr. Asselin upon Mr. Taschereau and his assignment to jail for fifteen days. The marvel of it all was that at the end—during the hour in which the veil was peacefully dropped upon the riotous scene—the premier, the leader of the opposition, and the leader of the nationalists, metaphorically passed bouquets to each other, and there were evidences of the love feast which must afterwards have occurred.

EARL GREY IN ACTION.

Earl Grey is credited with being the most democratic as well as efficient governor-general that Canada has ever had. He is primarily a worker. He has, by inclination, been a busy man ever since he gave his mind to public affairs. He is not like the late Earl Derby, who spent his early days in studying and writing on public questions from a sense of duty, for Earl Grey has all along been one of the nobility in more than in name. He was active in the service of the imperial government at home. He had a clear insight into the colonial movement when he served with Cecil Rhodes in South Africa. He showed his liberal mindedness, his love for industry, in the name and behalf of the people, when he grappled courageously with social issues before he came to Canada.

He has been an ideal representative of the king in this country. He not only carries himself with the dignity which becomes his office when it is necessary, but he has identified himself to a rare degree with the life, the ambitions, the accomplishments of the masses. He has made the best use of his time, and when not required at Ottawa, has travelled over the dominion and demonstrated his interest in all that concerns the peace and prosperity of the people. He was only a few hours in Kingston, yesterday, but he looked over it as much as he could, viewed again some of the public institutions he had visited on former occasions, and finally inspected the Royal Military College, which is to-day moulding and shaping the young men who will be heard of and from in the future development of the nation.

Some of the graduates of this college have distinguished themselves in the British service. One name stands out conspicuously above them all—Sir Percy Girouard, the greatest military engineer of the day. The visits of the governor may be brief, but they are the visits of a busy man, and they are not likely to be forgotten by him. Earl Grey remains in Canada for another year, and it is bound to be a year of useful service.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Quebec legislators have increased their own salaries or indemnities from $800 a year to $1,500. Some of them earned the larger money by calling each other bad names.

According to Dr. Third, some of the young men that are out as Marathoners are "turning the first sods of their graves," and "unlocking the gates to nervous ruin," but the young men don't or won't believe it all the same.

Sherring, of Hamilton, did not know enough to retire from racing as the champion of the Grecian Marathon. He had to try his speed with Shrubb, and now he will retire from racing as a defeated champion. He won't feel half so happy.

The federal government is restocking some of the lakes with pickerel. If it would mob, impound, or suppress some of the men that go fishing with steam yachts and drag nets, killing and wasting the fish they do not want, they would be doing something here.

Sir James Gouin demands the appointment of additional judges for Quebec. If Sir James Whitney, of Ontario, had made a similar demand there would, of course, be an immediate order over. Why shouldn't Sir Wilfrid throw up his hands when Sir Lomer speaks?

The Canadian government may hypnotize some British ship building firm and induce it to begin building great gunboats of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000. One Dreadnaught would keep the critics busy for several years, and meanwhile the navy would be defending Canada—in their minds.

Patten, the wheat king, made a million dollars out of his buying. He might have made five millions, but let the shorts out of the corner which they occupied without hurting them badly. This is due to the amazing generosity and kindness of his wife. Here's a woman of influence, and an influence she knows how to use.

Last week it was announced that W. T. R. Preston had won his suit against a Japanese paper for libel, and got $5,000 from it for damages. Now it is given out that he is having a glorious farewell, on departing for Holland, and the tory papers are not happy. Nothing short of the life of the man would gratify some of them.

The railway companies have the "pull," and they know how to use it. Mr. Lavergne, M.P., carried through the lower house at Quebec his bill for printing of public announcements in French and English, but under the inspiration of some one the bill was so mutilated that Mr. Lavergne could not identify it. Oh, that lobby!

GIRL GOES TO JAIL

Rather Than Give Up Cavalier Lover.

York, Pa., May 31.—Rather than give up her lover, who, Romeo-like, climbed nightly through a pear tree to her window for clandestine meetings, Estelle Slough, eighteen years old, a pretty little Dallastown girl, went to jail yesterday.

"I won't give him up; I won't!" she declared to all the pleadings of her father and grandfather, "not if I have to go to jail for six years."

The girl is charged with incorrigibility; her sweetheart, Scott Lentz, with entering the house by a window, which was Alexander Knaub, a Dallastown cigarmaker, to whom the girl was bound out "on age."

Knaub testified before Alderman Keech that he had found letters among the girl's possessions which first gave him the intimation that she was secretly stealing away to meet Lentz.

Then it was only a few weeks ago that a neighbor horrified Knaub with the information that the dashing cavalier was nightly clambering up a great pear tree in his yard to a window of Estelle's room, and through which feminine arms extended and drew him in. He then caused the arrest of both.

It Pays To Advertise.

Delhi, Ont., May 31.—Natural gas has been struck here at a depth of 1,220 feet on land at the rear of H. Darby's hotel, near the Grand Trunk station. A fine quantity and quality of oil had been located, as well as a salt bed, before the drillers bored through to gas. One gas well is now in operation and has 1,000 pounds of oil daily. The finding of gas and oil in this vicinity has created a stir and oil and gas experts and magnates have been arriving daily from Pennsylvania and Ohio. Standard Oil agents are on the ground and are keeping track of oil discoveries.

Darby made the discovery in a unique way. There was no surface indication of oil or gas, but the hotel man thought it would create excitement to bore and attract customers to the hotel. The hotel experiment cost $2,500, but the hotel receipts were $5,000, in addition to the immensely valuable discoveries made.

The Aid Required.

If you tire easily, if you never rest thoroughly, if there is a constant sense of weariness or exhaustion, what you need is new, rich tissue-building and nerve strengthening blood. Wade's Iron Tonic Pills (Laxative) supply just the aid required every time. They give quick and thorough benefit. They are a great nerve strengthener and blood maker. In boxes, 25c., at Wade's Drug Store. Money back if not satisfactory.

Weed-Cutting Motorboat.

In Egypt an enormous amount of trouble and expense has been caused by weeds and other vegetable growths which spread so rapidly as to choke canals and other waterways in a few days. Clearing by hand has been found impossible in one district so a motorboat has been equipped with a unique weed-cutter and placed in service. The cutting attachment consists of a pair of V-shaped knives, with sharp and powerful blades, worked by belt from the propeller shaft. They trail along the bottom of the waterway, cutting the growth off at the roots. The little boat will clear as much as five acres an hour.

When woman goes visiting nothing hurts her so much as her inability to impress upon her hostess the idea that she is used to something better at home.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opiates, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

Many a woman says her prayers because the minister says she should, and does other things because he says she shouldn't.

BROUGHT IT OUT.

A Work Has Been Edited and Given Out.

Prof. J. L. Morrison, of Queen's University, has introduced and edited "Reginald Peacock's Book of Faith," never before printed, the manuscript being in Trinity College, Cambridge. Peacock was an English bishop of the fifteenth century, deprived of his see in 1459. Prof. Morrison regards him as second only to Wycliffe in the history of the English Renaissance, and claims for him both the spirit of reformation and of the modern higher criticism.

Reginald Peacock was a Welshman, educated at Ortel, a court favorite and protégé of Humphrey, of Gloucester. From his first arrival in London, about 1431, he was one of the most prolific writers in England. He played a part in the Lollard Controversy. He was a "keen thinker" to whom Christianity was purely an intellectual matter. Says a reviewer: "His genius had neither character nor spiritual conviction behind it." But this intellectual attitude of his was a great force in the English Renaissance. Says his editor: "He is the one man of the country who may be classed with the Italians."

For four and a half centuries Peacock's "Book of Faith" has lain in one single manuscript without so much as a copy. And now it is copyrighted! It is an exceedingly valuable book as discovering the "history of pre-Reformation opinion," and its trend towards the great movement. A good idea of its contents can be formed from the following: "Its repudiation of the doctrine of infallibility, its argument of the 'lay papal language,' its definition of faith and its reference to a subjective ground for such faith; its confirming of faith by rationalistic proof; its discussion of the relationship of faith and evidence, of faith, and the church, of error and the church; its proclamation that the church should be open to conviction of error; its definition of the universal church." This book must be a great "find" for students of church history. Prof. Morrison proposes to follow his present introduction with a history of the earlier English Renaissance.

Catarrah Causes Ear Ringings.

This is the beginning of Chronic Catarrah. If not checked, the result is deafness. A simple remedy that many physicians advise is to slowly inhale "Catarrhazone" a few times each day. The soothing vapor of Catarrhazone cures the Catarrah condition and hearing improves at once. Head noises, buzzing ears are cured. For Catarrah deafness, throat, nose and lung catarrah there is probably no remedy so efficient.

LOSS ENTAILLED. Considerable damage has been done to the cottages of some of our townspeople up at Fort Williams, Patawawa and High View. The steamer Victoria does not land at the wharfs above Pembroke, as they are submerged almost completely. The wharf at Desjardinsville, on Allumette Island, opposite Pembroke, is under water and the ferry boat goes right up to the shore. Another foot of a rise and the town dock will be covered, for as it is now, when there is the slightest wind, the waves sweep across it. There are over six hundred cords of cord wood belonging to the Pembroke Navigation company, and the Ottawa Improvement company, afloat in the river. The wood was piled up along the shore and on the wharfs for use on the different companies' boats, but the exceedingly high water has dislodged and set it floating down the river.
