Thompson Buchanan is to occupy the whole of his summer in figuring out a play for "Tim" Murphy called "The Doctor Fellow." It will be a satire on various cults, founded on the theory of mental suggestion.

A PLOT THAT FAILED.

To Blow Up Napoleon III. With Gunpowder.

St. James' Gazette. An interesting story is that of a frustrated plot against Napoleon III, which has never got into the history books, but which is one of the favorite stories of M. Victorien Sardou.

In 1900, when the frontage of the Theatre Francais was rebuilt after the disastrous fire in which one of the most charming actresses of the Maison de Moliere lost her life, several shops disappeared, among them being that of the famous restaurant Chevet. It was not, properly speaking, a restaurant. Chevet used to sell liquors, groceries, smoked meats, etc., and in a couple of low-ceilinged rooms on the first floor he would serve a meal or two to connoisseurs. One day in 1865 or 1866 two young men of fashion, Russians both of them, came in and called for dinner in one of the little rooms which were above the shop. They asked for caviare, but when they got it they protested loudly that the caviare was of inferior quality and called for the owner of the shop. He came, apologized, and was met with the remark, uttered laughingly by one of the diners, that, next time they came they would bring their own caviare. They came again and brought it in a little white wooden barrel, and when they left they had it put on one side for them. From time to time the two Russians came and dined chez Chevet, dined invariably in the same room, and always brought their own caviare. One day they finished the barrel, and a few days later, in the afternoon, one of them brought another one. "Put it in the little cupboard in the room we always dine in," he said to the waiter, and do not let anybody touch it until we come to dine." The waiter took it, but on his way upstairs something peculiar struck him.

Sick Twenty Years, Had Given Up All Hope.

Peruna Relieved After All Else Had Failed.

Chronic Internal Catarrh.

Many an invalid is dragging out a miserable existence with catarrh of the internal organs. There is no disease equal to this in producing complete wretchedness, absolute despair, haggard misery, and stubborn weakness.

An army of this sort of victims have one by one discovered that Peruna could be relied upon to relieve such cases.

One man tells another man, and in this way the news spreads until in all parts of the country are to be found men who have been permanently liberated from the thrall of internal troubles.

Many cases of catarrh of the stomach, kidneys and other abdominal organs have reported themselves as permanently relieved.

We give below testimonials which illustrate the benefit of Peruna in such cases.

MR. ABNER N. KEEP

Grown Young Again.

Mr. Abner N. Keep, Vineland, Ontario, Can., writes: "For over twenty years I was a sufferer from catarrh and had tried almost everything I could hear of. I doctored with physicians in Philadelphia and Buffalo, besides with specialists in Nebraska, but did not get relief.

"Finally, after being exhausted in health and funds, I decided to try Peruna. This was after moving to this country two years ago.

"One bottle of Peruna gave relief. After taking five bottles I was sound and well.

"I am eighty-two years old and feel as good to-day as when I was in my thirties.

"I give this for the benefit of the afflicted in general, as I am but one of many in this country who know what it is to contend with sickness and pay out the last dollar in doctor bills."

MR. SIDNEY WESSELLS

Appetite Returned, Enjoys Meals.

Mr. Sidney Wesells, Meriton Ontario, Can., writes:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for twenty years, during which time I tried different doctors, but did not get the desired results.

"I have been compelled for weeks at a time to give up work, being completely prostrated. I had to confine myself to a milk diet, as nothing would remain on my stomach.

"I had about given up, thinking my case incurable, when I heard of Peruna and decided to try it.

"One bottle made a great change, and after using another bottle of this wonderful medicine, I had complete freedom from pain, my appetite had returned and I could again enjoy my meals. I believe Peruna is the grandest medicine under the sun."

Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, Treas. Knights of Industrial Fraternity, also a well-known writer and lecturer, writes from 118 Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing with severe twitches and slow, exhaustive aches. Urine was highly colored and passed with great irregularity.

"I knew this must be inflammation of the urinary organs.

"Having read of Peruna I decided to try it.

"I found relief from the pain within ten days. The aches gradually diminished, and it was a blessed relief to me to assure you.

"Within three months I was well once more. My appetite had returned, nervousness and irritability were things of the past, and for over two years now I have been a healthy man."

Mr. H. L. Emory, Vice Chancellor and Master of Arms, K. P.'s, of Omaha, Neb., writes from 206 North Sixteenth St., the following words of praise for Peruna as a tonic. He says:

"It is with pleasure I recommend Peruna as a tonic of unusual merit. A large number of prominent members of the different orders with which I have been connected have been cured by the use of Peruna in cases of catarrh of the stomach and head; also in kidney complaint and weakness of the pelvic organs.

"Peruna tones up the system, aids digestion, induces sleep, and is well worthy the confidence of sufferers of the above complaints."

"Peruna has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service when they were not able to bear their own burdens."

DOINGS IN STAGELAND

EARLY HISTORY OF STAGE IN AMERICA.

The First Theatrical Performance in America was in 1732—Lulu Glaser May Retire From the Stage.

The first theatrical performance ever given in America was in New York, on the top floor of a building at the junction of Pearl street and Maiden Lane. This was in September, 1732. The play was the tragedy "Cato." The first theatre in New York was located on the east side of Nassau street, between John street and Maiden Lane, and was a wooden building which had belonged to the estate of Rip Van Dam. It was a two-story house with a high gable, and the stage was raised five feet from the floor. Six wax lights in front of the stage served as footlights. The orchestra was composed of a German flute, horn and drum player. What served as a chandelier to light the auditorium was a barrel hoop through which half-a-dozen bottles were driven and into which were stuck as many candles. The scenery consisted of two drop scenes representing a castle and a wood. The first performance at this theatre was "Richard III," and was given on the 5th of March, 1750. Thomas Keen played Richard. The second season at this theatre opened on the 13th of September, 1750. It was noted on the programme of one of the performances that, as an additional attraction, a Harlequin dance, a down dance, and a drunken peasant dance, all by a gentleman recently from London, would be done between the acts. The capacity of this theatre was 278 people.

The first building ever erected in America for the special purpose of giving plays was erected in New York also on Nassau street. It opened September 17th, 1753, with the comedy of "The Conscious Lovers."

At this same theatre, on January 28th, 1754, the first performance in America of "Romeo and Juliet" was given. It is noted that Romeo was played by Mr. Rigny, while Mrs. Hallam was cast for Juliet.

The second theatre built in New York was erected on Cruizer's Wharf, which at that time extended from Pearl street into the East River, between Old and Coenties Slips, on a line with which is now known as Front street. This theatre was erected by David Douglas, who had married Hallam's widow. It was opened on the 28th of September, 1758, with the tragedy, "Jane Shore." This same Douglas erected another theatre in New York on the southwest corner of Nassau and Beekman streets. It was ninety feet long by forty feet wide, and cost $1,625 to build, and held, if all the seats were sold, $450. This house was opened on November 19th, 1761, with "The Fair Penitent," as the bill. It was at this theatre, on November 26th, that "Hamlet" was produced for the first time in New York city. This theatre was nearly demolished in 1764 by a mob which attacked the building during the Stamp Act riots.

Plays And Players.

Paul Caseneuve and a company from the Theatre National Francais, Montreal, recently concluded a successful tour of the New England states, playing in French. The French-Canadian population in many of these cities is very large.

Louisa Charlton, Mme. Sembrich's manager, has received word from the prima donna that her illness, reported by cable a fortnight ago, proved nothing more serious than a slight indisposition, and that she is now enjoying her vacation in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Mme. Sembrich will sing her operative farewell in Berlin early in the fall, her only engagement before that date being a private appearance in London at the home of William Waldorf Astor.

Frank Worthing, who, for the past few years, has been Grace George's leading man, has been engaged by David Belasco for the principal role in "The Open Door," which Mr. Belasco will produce next fall at the Belasco Theatre, New York.

Frederic Thompson announces that he has signed contracts by which William Courtleigh will remain under his management next season in "A Fool There Was."

A movement is on foot to erect a statue to Victorien Sardou in front of the Madeleine in Paris.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has written a play entitled "The Fires of Fate," which was produced at the Lyric Theatre, London, June 15th, and is termed by the author a morality play.

It is rumored that Lulu Glaser will retire from the stage at the conclusion of her present contract with the Shuberts.

Louis James is preparing an elaborate production of "Henry VIII," in which he will be seen next season.

H. H. Frazer has arranged to feature James J. Corbett in "The Gir Question," which is a musical comedy.

Sir Charles Wyndham will, it is stated, appear in London next season in a new play, which will probably be "The Blind Passenger," recently secured by him.

Grace Van Studdford has been booked for a two weeks' season in Delmar,

The mother who keeps this medicine in hand may feel as safe as if she had a doctor in the home. Mrs. C. ### Shoes For A Giant.

New York Sun. A pair of shoes roomy enough for the feet of a giant, but to be worn by a mere citizen of Arkansas, were shipped recently from a factory in East Weymouth, Mass. The shoes are 22 inches long and of 7 inches beam. The ball measures 12 1/2 inches, the waist 12 inches and the instep 13 1/2 inches. The size is 16.

The customer lives in Newport, Ark. The dealers in his neighborhood could do nothing with the order on New England, so the shoes were made on a special pair of lasts and are said to be graceful, considering.

In A Class By Itself.

If you have been accustomed to using ordinary liniments try Smith's White Liniment the next time and see how much quicker it relieves and cures. It belongs in a class by itself and yet costs less than the common kinds. Cures rheumatism, neuralgia and all external injuries. Large bottles, 25c., at Wade's drug store.

One that tries and fails still has to his credit the fact that he made the effort. The transgressor usually has blame for others because his way is hard.

THE NON-MAGNETIC YACHT CARNEGIE.

MISS LOUISE BAUER WHO CHRISTENED THE CARNEGIE

LAUNCHING OF THE CARNEGIE.

CAPT. C. E. LITTLEFIELD.

New York, June 19.—Flags of all nations, symbolizing the international importance of the event, were unfurled to the breeze from the completed hull of the Carnegie, the non-magnetic yacht, as it slipped from its ways in the yards of the Tebo Yacht Basin company in Brooklyn. The vessel, the survey work of which, under the supervision of scientists from the Carnegie Institute at Washington, is expected to mark an epoch in the nautical world, was christened by Miss Dorothea Louise Bauer, daughter of Dr. L. A. Bauer, director of the department of terrestrial magnetism of the institution.

Four thousand persons, including many representatives of scientific institutions, witnessed the successful launching. The signal to let go was given by the builder, Wallace Downey, vice-president and manager of the Tebo company. Mr. Downey was the builder of the German emperor's racing yacht, the Meteor, and of the Atlantic, which was the trans-Atlantic racer in 1905.

Present were: Henry J. Gislow, designer of the Carnegie; William J. Peters, scientific representative of the Carnegie Institute, who will be the commanding officer of the vessel, and Capt. C. E. Littlefield, her sailing master.

RECEIVING DIPLOMAS AT WEST POINT.

WING HSING WEN RECEIVING HIS DIPLOMA FROM SECRETARY DICKINSON.

West Point, N.Y., June 19.—Cullum Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity with the proud parents, friends and sweethearts of the graduates as the 1809 class received its diplomas, the first from the Military Academy into the ranks of Uncle Sam's commissioned officers. There were 103 members in the 1909 class, but the two Chinese, Ken and Class, of course, will not receive commissions, so the class really contained 101 members who will enter the army. The first fifteen will enter the engineering corps, which is the most desirable in the army. Secretary Dickinson arrived early, and was met by an escort of cavalry and the customary salute fired as the distinguished official entered the academy grounds. The graduates were drawn up and presented arms while he drove past, and a grand review was tendered to the secretary prior to the graduating exercises. General Horace Porter and Secretary Dickinson addressed the class.

Best, Iron and Wine, "Our Own" make. Pint bottles, 50c., at Wade's drug store. Today's opportunities are not likely to be duplicated tomorrow. Birth doesn't amount to much without the right kind of breeding.

Clothe some men with authority and the brute nature comes quickly to the surface. Downright meanness has sometimes been falsely called discipline. False pride has been known to cause relatives to meet as strangers.
