

A MARAUDING BAND OF GYPSIES SNOW SAFELY LODGED IN JAIL.

Provincial Inspector Greer and Posse of Peterboro Constables Place Sixty-six of Them Under Arrest.

Peterborough, June 22.—Provincial Inspector Greer, together with a high constable of Peterborough and a posse of constables, yesterday went out in the vicinity of Bobcaygeon and rounded up a gang of gypsies who have been terrorizing the people of this district for the past few days. In all sixty-six were placed under arrest and landed in jail on various charges, larceny, threatening, fortune telling and other misdemeanors. This wandering band arrived in Ontario a few weeks ago and from every point they have visited complaints of their conduct have been received. Stealing chickens, robbing gardens and pilfering small articles from stores are among the indictments lodged against them. The women of the party were said to be even worse than the men and ladies who refused to have their fortunes told were threatened with all sorts of dire calamities.

In most of the towns visited the tribe were given a certain time to leave the corporation limits, but in the smaller places where police protection is lacking the gypsies deported themselves with great boldness. Complaints from the attorney-general's department from Omenee and also from Bobcaygeon, and Detective Greer was placed on the case, with the results indicated.

THEY KNEW ABOUT IT.

Some Of Transactions Of Late Ontario Bank.

Toronto, June 22.—The examination of Charles McGill, general manager of the defunct Ontario Bank, to ascertain whether he should be placed on the list of contributors to the bank for 1,713 shares, was continued this morning before Referee George Kappelle. There was little new in his evidence. McGill, however, declared that of new stock issued by the bank in 1903 he bought $125,000, though he appeared on the books as having been transferred to Sir William Macdonald and Lord Strathcona. As in yesterday's evidence, he gave several other instances of manipulations with the stock and various transactions which all had a more or less indirect bearing on the collapse of the institution. McGill declared, in such cases, some of the directors were aware of what he was doing and that, in fact, he acted in some of these matters on the directors' instructions, while in others he acted on his own initiative, afterwards telling them about it.

REVENGE ON SAMUEL BERSIN.

Revenge on the part of a husband, the police believe, was the motive for the murder of Samuel Bersin, a painter, twenty-two years old, of No. 221 East Ninety-eighth street, New York, whose dismembered body was found in a bundle in front of public school, No. 1, at Oliver and Henry street, and his head, which had been missing, in a pile of rubbish under an arch of the Brooklyn bridge at Vandewater and Rose streets.

The body indicated that death occurred anywhere from fifteen to twenty-four hours preceding the discovery. The head had been severed with the aid of a knife and saw, the decapitation being almost surgeon-like in neatness. The arms had been cut off close to the body while the legs had been amputated a few inches above the knee joints. The torso was in one bundle, wrapped in brown paper and over this was a piece of black oilcloth, similar to that used by hucksters in covering produce in waggons. The arms and legs were similarly wrapped in another bundle.
