THE RIFLE IS ALL RIGHT.

There is a disposition to find fault with the Ross rifle, because the shooting at the ranges has not been as good as it was expected to be, and the men in the ranks may lose their efficiency pay in consequence.

The plan has been to place the musket or rifle in the hands of the volunteer with sight adjusted so that he will do the best shooting with the limited trials at his command. And yet he has been doing poor marking. He wants practice at the ranges. He cannot hit a centre or a bull's eye with the experience of a few shots.

Would the average record be any better in a similar practice with any rifle? It is doubtful. If there is any defect it is in the regulations with regard to the shooting, and in the high percentage which the winner of the efficiency pay must score. The military council at Ottawa, that charmed circle of misfits, seems to have surpassed itself in its camp requirements of this year.

DREAMS NOT FULFILLED.

The Montreal Gazette is merely dreaming when it says that Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power with the announcement that he would immediately negotiate a reciprocity treaty with the United States. Our contemporary is thinking of the one poorest leader of the conservative party, the man whose removal led, as it was prophesied, to the "deluge." He wanted a rallying cry, on the eve of an election, and he announced that should his government be sustained he would send a commission to Washington with orders to negotiate a reciprocity treaty. His government was sustained, and Tupper, Sr., and Hon. (afterwards Sir Mackenzie) Bowell, were the chosen bearers of a message to the American government. The failure of it will never be forgotten. The men presented their credentials, and the late Mr. Blair looked them over, dropped them into some convenient receptacle for curios, and bid the visitors good morning. The White House had no special attractions for them, and they did not linger long about it. There is somewhere, in the archives at Ottawa, a report upon this mission, but it is safe to say that it is not a faithful record of all that the Canadian commissioners thought and said on that occasion. Sir Wilfrid Laurier may not have realized all his political dreams, but there are others.

WHO PAYS THE PIPER?

R. Ockel, in the Westminster Review, announces that "no fewer than fifteen hundred towns and villages in Germany still own, and have owned, right down from the Middle Ages, so much common land that their inhabitants pay neither rates nor taxes. Five hundred of these townships and villages derive so great a rental from their lands that they are able, in addition, to pay every citizen, on New Year's day, a bonus of from £5 to £20 as his share of the surplus revenue."

There are places in the United States where there are no taxes, where, as Success puts it, "a city has been caught young," and its land is held in communal fashion, and all one can do is pay rent for his land. It cannot be bought nor exploited. There is a land tax, but it is light and it meets every expense.

There are other places where all the public utilities are owned by the municipality, and their earnings are used for public purposes, and the revenue is such that little is wanted from taxation. The result is generally the same, however, whether the public receipts are from customs, rentals, taxes, or gas and water rates. Pavements, sidewalks, parks, public buildings, light and water cost money; and the people have to contribute to it directly or indirectly. They grumble about paying it the less, of course, the more indirect and invisible it is.

There is a difference when the public give away or sell for a song their franchises, and the profits from them go to the private companies or corporations. When the cities are large and these public utilities become very remunerative, the people see what they are losing. They are not then paying equitably for the service they receive, and the result is not the same whether the contribution is a tax or a rental.

The women's council, in discussing moral questions, mercifully spared the men who are allowed to go when disorderly houses are pulled. What were they afraid of? In no other way is the doctrine of equal rights so persistently ignored.

WORTHY OF THE HONOUR.

Lady Aberdeen is a born leader of women. She has not only the enthusiasm which is so necessary in the president of a great organization like the International Council of Women, but she has the tact, and her direction of a great movement is exceedingly meritorious. She reminds one of that most remarkable woman of her age, Miss Frances E. Willard, who possessed an amazing ability for administrative service, who seemed to anticipate every phase of a public meeting, and to guide a discussion with unerring judgment.

It is significant that one of the most important conventions of the year should materialize in Toronto so quietly and with so little commotion. Here are women from all parts of the world, the older parts especially, keen, alert, practical, with eyes for everything that is passing, and thoughts that show a concentration of intellectual power away above the common. They are concerned with world-wide issues touching the moral improvement of the people, and they represent a force at once potent, persuasive and persistent. That it cannot be exerted in vain goes without saying. Recognizing that the women are not to be denied the right to speak, if they are denied in some countries the right to vote, it must come that that for which they contend will sooner or later be realized.

They claim recognition in a peaceful way. There is not a tittle of evidence that they design the course suggested by a Canadian paper, a huge strike in many walks of life, to be continued until men surrender to their demands. They will agitate and appeal, in a dignified manner, and in time they feel they must succeed. Meanwhile Lady Aberdeen leads, wisely, judiciously, ably, cheerfully. As the wife of a former governor-general, she has displayed rare talents in a rare field of service, and all Canada will rejoice that she has been again honored by election to the chief office in the Council of Women.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mr. King will surely be able to enter upon his ministerial duties light-heartedly. He has the approval of all classes in his constituency.

If gambling, in the pit, is an offence why is it not made illegal? Is the legislature of Ontario not equal to the making of a statute that will end this scandal?

The expression, "white slave traffic," has been dropped by the women's council. There are others than whites concerned. The new term is, "Equal moral standard and traffic in women." It will do.

The book-men, the aristocratic title of the tribe that gamble on the race tracks, cannot be got at under the present law. Can't it be amended? Surely Canada will not tolerate what New York cannot stand.

Now it is the city council that gets the advice of its engineer as to how money can be saved, and it is not impressed. What is the virtue of a public official if he does not wisely advise his superiors on certain points?

Lord Rosebery does not like the British budget, with its extraordinary method of raising revenue, but he favours a vigorous war policy in the army and navy. The policy is expensive. The money must come from some source. Who have it if not the rich?

Is Mr. McGill laying up trouble for the directors of the Ontario bank? Before the official referee he swore that all his manipulation of the stock of the bank was by order and consent of the directors. And they have been posing all the while as innocents.

What is the crookedness that is insinuated by the Citizen, of Brantford? A fund of $3,200, deposited before the election, mysteriously disappeared on the morning of polling day. What became of it? What was it used for? The Citizen scents a huge scandal.

The Toronto World refers to the troubles of the conservative party over the distribution of patronage. Why should the local government not abolish the spoils system? What is good for one government should be good for another, and the conservative press demands a non-political administration of the federal affairs.

LABOR DAY PICNIC.

A Fine Programme To Be Arranged This Year.

Although Labor Day is some distance off yet, members of the Trades and Labor Council are busy mapping out a programme for this year's event, promises to be one of the best ever held by the labor men. The picnic will be held at Lake Ontario park, and in addition to baseball matches and races, a Marathon race is talked of, and it would certainly prove a big attraction.

The committees will get down to business in due time.

What Is A "Man Milliner?"

There was a celebrated Parisian named Worth who attained a world-wide reputation as a "man milliner" when, in fact, his principal creations were gowns and costumes rather than ladies' hats.

The term is one that should, as a matter of fact, be applied to a dealer in gentlemen's hats, for the latter certainly is a "man milliner" in the strictest sense of the word.

It is quite true that the styles in men's hats do not run to such absurd extremes as do the fashions in millinery for the fair sex, but there are still changes in style and the correct dresser cannot very well afford to ignore them.

The hat manufacturer must every season study the demands made by consumers upon the retailers, and he must also produce artistic designs and attractive shades that will appeal to the careful man.

Every season there is some slight change in both soft and hard hats. It may be in the brim, the crown or the slope of the rim. It may be in the shade, a new one being introduced almost every season.

The very latest are sure to be found at the popular hat store of George Mills & Co., who always set the hat fashions a little ahead of other hatters in town. Moderate prices, too.

We defy competition when it comes to fine Panama hats. Ours at $1 $5 $7.50, $10, $12 are not surpassed in Canada, and we invite your inspection. Campbell Bros., Kingston's hat store.

What shall we do to be saved? was the title of one of Robert Ingersoll's lectures. People of faith and people of no faith flocked to hear it. Thousands are asking, "What shall I do to get rid of dandruff?" The answer is, "Kill the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair and finally baldness; and the only thing that will do it is Newbro's Herpicide. That is the very latest discovery of the laboratory, and it is the only preparation that claims to, or that will, kill the pestiferous dandruff germ. It also is a delightful hair-dressing free from oil or grease or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit.

Indian Battles Recalled.

The battle of Summit Springs, the Oriental spectacle, the great train hold-up by Indians, showing the perils of the iron trail, an attack on an emigrant train, illustrating the dangers of pioneering, and a holiday at the pleasures of the plainsman, will be among the leading spectacular features with the Wild West and Far East. The Congress of Rough-Riders will be especially interesting, and at every performance no matter what the weather, Col. Wm. F. Cody, the original and only Buffalo Bill, will ride at the head of his company, directing the performance and appearing in many of the scenes.

Our Way

We go about the Shoe business in a way very different from other shoe stores. Most stores that are not makers, themselves, buy shoes that the manufacturers offer just as they are, or with very slight changes. There are but few makers of whom we buy in this way. Some of our shoes we plan almost from the beginning. The reasons are three:

1. Some of the best looking shoes are not honest inside.
2. Some of the honestest shoes don't fit the wants of the people. Our store comes in contact with many, many feet, and we are more than usually watchful.
3. We can save money—yours and ours—by bossing the making of our shoes. Try our kind of shoes.
