MILITARY CAMP OVER

THE TROOPS MARCHED OUT THIS MORNING.

Everybody Satisfied With the Work Done—The Shooting Regulations the Only Sore Spot—Friday's Inspection.

Today, camp Barriehill is a thing of memory and 1,300 tired volunteers are on their way home by many different routes. Friday was breaking-up day in camp, and any who have never been on hand when soldiers are breaking camp, should try some time and do so. Once the soldiers start to break up, everything goes, and in a very short time the ground is as bare as ever, and absolutely no signs are left of there ever having been a camp.

On Friday afternoon at three o'clock the camp commandant, Col. W. D. Gordon, inspected all the troops, with the exception of No. 3 company, C.P.A.S.C. The troops were drawn up in front of Col. Gordon, in charge of Lieut.-Col. John Hughes, of the 6th Infantry Brigade. It certainly made an imposing sight as the men drew up into place, infantry regiments, blue coats and red caps, artillery and cavalry, horses and guns.

The officer commanding stated that he was greatly pleased with the condition of things in general, and with the way the men had acted in camp. The troops were put through different manoeuvres during the inspection and the officer commanding complimented them on their work.

After inspecting the officers in charge of the different units all said they were well satisfied with the camp, as far as work, meals and everything went, but, of course, the shooting was a sore spot.

Immediately after inspection all the tents that were not absolutely necessary were struck, and after being neatly folded were packed away again in the stores department. Early this morning the men were out taking down and folding the others, as most of the regiments returned home this morning. Many articles were drawn over from camp on Friday evening and left at the wharves and stations to be taken on.

The 16th Regiment left this morning, on the steamer Athletia, for Picton. The 40th and 49th went, some by boat and some by train; the 4th Hussars went home by route march, and the 47th on the Kingston and Pembroke and Bay of Quinte railways. The Army Service Corps boys have to stay in camp until Sunday, closing things up and seeing that everything is left in good order.

Friday night was a rather merry one in camp. Songs, recitations, etc., were the main attraction all along the line.

Postmaster-General Samuel McCallough will, today, close up quarters and come home, and can do so well satisfied, because the service this year was the best yet, and everyone was satisfied. Five orderlies were kept going all day long at this tent handling the mails.

"Duke" McCambridge states positively that this is his last public appearance in camp. He has so stated for the past forty-eight years. The Sentinel-Star, of Cobourg, has these things to say of the camp at Barriehill: "It is the most healthy camp ever remembered. This is due, not only to good weather, but to good water, which, thanks to improvements which the government have put in, is now supplied in abundance to all parts of the camp. It is pumped by Goodenow-Morse engines out of wells which have been drilled in the old Trenton limestone to a depth of hundreds of feet. Next year the engine house will be enlarged and a dynamo put in which will furnish electric lights all over the grounds. "The new rifle ranges are almost perfect, and so close to the parade ground as to be most convenient to the troops in camp. For years we were told that a good range was an impossibility at Barriehill. Thanks to the engineers we now have ranges from 100 to 1,000 yards which can not be surpassed anywhere. "One thing seems certain, the camp is a success. The canten will never be restored. The orderliness of this camp is in marked contrast to many which have preceded it."

Will Rents Be Affected? In view of the large number of houses being erected this season, people are beginning to wonder if there will not be a drop in rents next spring. The opinion is that there will soon be more buildings than are needed, and rents may take a tumble. At present rents in Kingston are high.

Gave A Fine Concert. The Mexican Concert company gave a concert in Verona, on Thursday night, to a large audience. The "serpentine dance" was a popular number. Want A Louder Sound. When the city property committee meets again, Ald. Toye intends asking some questions about the bell of the city dome clock, which many people do not think sounds loud enough. The Salvation Army band left at two o'clock, Saturday afternoon, to be the guests of the officers of the army, at Watertown, and to assist in services there. Adjutant Parsons accompanied the band. The members will stay over in Watertown until Monday. On Saturday night, they will give a concert and will assist in all the services on Sunday. The band is now full strength, and well trained, and is looked upon as one of the best bands in the army in Canada today. At the services held for the Independent Order of Foresters, held on Sunday last, the band rendered an able part, and many compliments were heard on all sides about the efficiency of the organization.

At St. Anthony's church, Centreville, on June 14th, Miss Mary A. Rush was quietly married to James Hinch, Camden East. DR. SPARKS' OPINION AS TO REBUILDING OF CITY'S ROADS.

The Roads Should Be Kept In Good Repair After Being Built And Not Neglected As In The Past.

Kingston, June 25.—(To the Editor): I recently read in the Whig that the city engineer had recommended limestone for rebuilding our streets in preference to granite or other more expensive material, claiming that it would be more economical to use the cheaper material and rebuild the streets every ten years. This does not seem reasonable. Judging by the length of time it takes to rebuild a stretch of street, one would suppose that the bulk of the expense would be for labor, and that would be the same in either case, except comparing granite with limestone, the haul would be a little greater and quarrying and breaking probably a little more in the case of the former over the latter. But the engineer and streets committee have, no doubt, figured that out and know what is cheaper, taking durability and cost into consideration.

What I wish to draw attention to is the intimation of the city engineer that the newly-constructed streets will require reconstruction every ten years. Why should they? One would suppose it would be cheaper to keep a well-built street in repair than to rebuild it after years of neglect. In no case more than in street repair is the "stitch in time" principle effective. There seems little excuse for the bad condition of some of the streets in the residential portions of the city where traffic is comparatively light. It is amusing to watch a party "enjoying" a spin in an automobile on University avenue, between Union and Princess streets, or Union street, from Harris street west, or Clergy street, from Johnson street to University avenue. Such a party looks as if its members were undergoing a disintegration of frames—a "dividing of joints and marrow"; and to one of the party makes the experience more realistic than amusing. Upon a recent visit to England and Scotland, the country roads seemed to be in the condition of our recently reconstructed streets. At short intervals small heaps of broken stone were noticed by the roadside. Road menders traversed the roads and where a depression was noticed the circumference was picked to make a definite edge, a few stones shoveled in and tamped down, bringing the depression up to the level of the roadbed. In this way the roads were not allowed to become a system of repair. Why could not such a system be adopted in connection with our streets? If the city were divided into districts and a cart and couple of road menders assigned to each district, I am under the impression the streets would be kept in repair more economically and with greater comfort.—R. E. SPARKS.

It is only fair to say that the city engineer recommended limestone macadam only for the residential streets. He did not say that the roads would have to be reconstructed every ten years, but stated that they could be reconstructed after that time, the cost of both constructions not exceeding the cost of one granite macadam road. Batt. Sergt-Major Grasset, who secured the sword of honor for good conduct and discipline throughout the course at the Royal Military College, is a nephew of Lieut.-Col. Grasset, chief of police. It is interesting to note that he is a descendant of General Hewitt, first commandant of the M.C., who afterwards returned to England and attained high honor in the Royal Engineers. Sergt-Major Grasset has now been offered a commission in the Royal Engineers, which he will accept.

Anxious Moments. The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal time of the year for babies and young children. Because of the great prevalence of stomach and bowel troubles. These come almost without warning and often before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in promptly curing bowel and stomach troubles and an occasional dose given the well child will keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter and ensure good health to the child. Therefore the Tablets should always be kept in the home, as they may be the means of saving a little life. Sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
