SOME STRONG OPINIONS.

Opinions differ as to the advantage of missionary work among the Chinese. The most powerful indictment of the missionary cause as it has existed is that of Miss Helen Clark for many years, the director of a mission. She declares that the white women must leave the Chinamen alone. The Chinese cannot, in her estimation, be converted.

Arthur Brisbane, of the New York Journal, and a noted student of the times, records it as his most positive conviction that the Chinese do not go to the Christian churches for a religion, that Confucianism teaches them sufficient "to keep a man a good citizen," and he does not hesitate to call anyone who says to the contrary, "a smooth-faced hypocrite."

Mr. Brisbane goes further, and emphasizes a fact that is generally obscured, namely, that many of the Chinese are married, that their wives are excluded from Canada, and that the white women who associate with the men are "associating deliberately under the guise of religion, with Chinese who are compelled to live falsely and in defiance of nature's laws."

The New York case has led to a controversy as to the advantage or disadvantage of missions under some circumstances, and incidentally some facts are coming out of a more or less startling character. Brisbane's idea may be an extreme one. It is that the yellow race should be confined to Asia, and the whites to Europe and America, that only when the races can work side by side will the conditions be above censure or suspicion.

Something less drastic is possible. America and Europe can no more be closed against the Asiatics than the Orient can be closed against the Europeans and the Americans. The open door is desired on the far sides of the Atlantic and Pacific. As a consequence some educational methods must be adopted, for the sake of the immigrants, but the best represent schools in which men are the teachers and with the sand and judgment to keep the pupils in their places.

CONDITION OF OUR PLANTS.

The Whig has not seen the report of the expert who has been asked to examine the water works plant and pronounce upon its condition, but it will be surprised if he does not find the pumping facilities ample. They may want improvement in certain respects, but they can be made to meet the requirements of the city without heavy expenditure. The object of the special enquiry is not quite apparent, unless it be to establish what has long been a suspicion of the water committee, or some members of it, namely, that the plant has about reached the limit of its capacity.

The engines may have their defects, but they are surely capable of pumping all the water that is required, unless there is a tremendous waste, and this has been invited by the relaxation of a rule with regard to the watering of lawns and gardens. The remarkable fact remains that four or five years ago the department shut down on the lawn watering during certain hours, on the ground that the day engine, without the reservation, could not keep up the supply of water adequately. The rule was suspended because, forsooth, it had been in operation for several years and the aldermen, without asking the cause of it, decided that it was time for a change.

To talk of larger pumps or more pumping is out of the question, until there is a larger intake and better mains. The water system was not made entirely new when it was taken over by the city. Some of the old pipes remain in use, and they cannot stand very much pressure. The gradual removal of them should be undertaken, so that later, when the pressure must be applied, there will be no trouble in consequence. The report of the mechanical expert will be awaited with interest, and it may help the council into a better understanding of the value and service of the plant. The same expert examination of the electric light outfit should follow. The city has a very large sum invested in machinery and it should have the best advice attainable as to the condition and efficiency of it.

If Mrs. Howard Gould is satisfied with the decision of the court and must get along for all things with the amount she used to spend on dresses alone, no one else can be dissatisfied. She wanted about a third of her husband's annual income and gets a twentieth.

QUALIFIES FOR PROMOTION.

What a lot of men would be willing to sacrifice themselves on the altar of public duty if they could be assured of so easy a time as has fallen to the lot of one W. L. King, up Waterloo way.—Exchange.

One would suppose, on reading this, that Hon. Mr. King had acquired some great favour on very easy terms. On the contrary he has come to his own because he has worked for it. Mr. King had a distinguished career at college. He might have gone through the course half-heartedly and without any particular aim in view. There are too many students of that kind. He won distinction in the subjects that do not generally attract large attention, and he was selected by Sir William Mulock as his deputy in the new department of labour.

In the ten years he occupied this position he did splendid service. Was there any occasion, when he investigated the difficulties between capital and labour, that he did not succeed? He worked, he reasoned, he brought to bear upon the situation the sound sense and judgment which led to success. When the minister of labour was wanted no other person was thought of by the premier and he has had ample opportunity in which to study his man.

In other words Mr. King has reached a place of rare responsibility because he has qualified for it, and there is not another in sight with his experience and ability. There are no doubt many who would be willing to accept a call to the government, to fill the leadership of any department, but few of them would be equal to its duties. It is an old saying, that the door of opportunity will open for most people when they have shown their qualifications for advancement—and not a day sooner.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Is Montreal the home of a band of anarchists?" asks a contemporary. Very likely. The hoodlars are there, and they and the anarchists are of a kind.

Brigadier-General Cotton pronounces the Niagara camp, without the canteen, a complete success. It is a significant declaration, and it will have its effect.

The civil service clerks in Ottawa do well not to protest too much against the lengthened hours during which they have to serve. The Civil Service Commission is taking good care of them at present.

Haven't the Montreal scandal enquiry gone far enough? All Canada must be convinced, from what it knows, that the civic government of its chief commercial men, has been in the hands of corrupt men.

Miss Barnett, an English lady, hurt the feelings of her sex at the Women's Council by advising that the women abandon professional life and stick to the business of home making. She is a very sensible person.

George Bernard Shaw will not improve his luck by becoming sarcastic. The fact that so many of his plays are put under the ban indicates a degree of eccentricity which is not in keeping with his swelling importance.

By the time the gas tank is finished and declared gas or water tight, it will have cost enough. And it will have taught the city council a useful lesson. It is that constructive work should be supervised by those who are masters of it.

The portico encroachment question is settled for this year at any rate. Last evening's vote by the city council on a motion to reconsider the rule laid down a year ago about encroachments, was decisive, eleven voting against re-opening the question and four voting for the motion. The majority of the aldermen realized that if the rule of July, 1908, was altered, there would be no end of trouble. And they are right. No further encroachments should be allowed on the streets.

When To Advertise.

Waterloo Standard.

Some merchants have become possessed of the idea that the summer months are a poor time to advertise on account of so many people being out of town. Nothing is further away from the truth.

While a large section of our people take vacations, the number of people who go away for more than two or three weeks is comparatively small. The number of stay-at-homes is great and the merchant who tells about his bargains will find plenty of people listening.

Most people have to make many purchases in the midst of summer to complete their equipment even for two weeks' vacation. The merchant who keeps his regular space full will get this business.

Hats For The Holiday.

We have every good style, fine Panamas, $4 up; outing hats, 25c up; straw sailors, 25c up; Agilgee straws, 25c up, at Campbell Bros., the leaders in men's hats.

Pekin, June 29.—Yang Shi-Siang, who in 1907 succeeded Yuan Shi Kai as viceroy of the province of Chi Li, died, Sunday, from apoplexy, following charges against him of corruption in connection with the Tien-Tsin Pukow railway, and of deficits in the provincial finances.

Tied Himself; Rolled Into Pond.

Hornell, N.Y., June 29.—Robert M. Bonney committed suicide in a peculiar manner. Going to the bank of a pond, he tied his feet securely with a rope which he also looped several times about his body until his arms were fastened. He then rolled into the water.

THE FEAR IS ENDED.

Ottawa Free Press.

The farce is ended. The petition against the election of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as member for Ottawa has been formally withdrawn. It has been as petty a piece of political trickery as Canada has witnessed for many years, and it is to be hoped that it will be a long time before its like will be seen again.

After British Capital.

Montreal Gazette.

A feature of the English papers coming to hand is the large number of offerings of new stocks and bonds, from the securities of Japanese and Finland cities, to railway, mining and other commercial ventures of varying degrees of promise. The men who have been saving during the past dozen months will not have the proceeds long enough to make holes in their pockets if those who believe that money was made to spend have their way.

No Work For Women.

Toronto Star.

No doubt the intentions of the churches that promote and conduct missionary organizations of this kind (Chinese) are good and commendable, but their efforts should be guided with judgment and discretion. Young girls ought certainly not to be engaged in work which lays them open to dangers which they cannot gauge and to risks they only realize when it is too late. It is to be hoped that the churches, both in the United States and Canada, will act in accordance with public opinion in the conduct of missions to colored men, and see that the work of conversion is entrusted to men and to men only.

Canteens And Drinking.

London Advertiser.

The hotelkeepers at Niagara report that their business was better, this year. That might be. There will always be some men in camp who will drink, and if they cannot get the liquor in the canteens they will go out side for it to the advantage of the hotelkeeper. No one has suggested that the closing of the canteen will make all the men total abstainers. The only question has been whether, if they have to go to the hotels for liquor they will drink more than if they could get all they wanted in camp. The experience of this summer goes to show that they will not. And if that is the case, the experiment was justified and should be continued.

Children Had Eczema SUFFERED AGONY UNTOLD

Treatment Prescribed Had No effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT Made Thorough Cure.

Many a mother's heart has been torn by the sufferings of her little one who has fallen a victim of eczema. Only such mothers appreciate, to the full, the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this horrible ailment.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:

"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure of Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Fortunately we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Chaffing and irritation of the skin, from which nearly all babies suffer more or less, is a frequent source of eczema. There is no treatment for chafing so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Pore-clogging, unsanitary powders are being discarded by all who have once learned the value of this great ointment in keeping baby's skin soft, smooth and healthy.

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home in the treatment of pimples, barber's itch, scalds and burns, poisoned skin, sore feet and every form of itching skin disease. 60c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
