PEST SPOTS IN THE CITY.

The board of health must wake up. The summer heat has developed foul odours which bespeak the existence of unwholesome conditions. The chairman should take a walk about the city, traversing streets which are new to him—as a representative of the Whig did a night or two ago—and he will get unpleasantly the evidence that will shock or move him to action.

There are places, bordering on the sidewalk in Frontenac, Rideau and Cataraqui wards, where the foulness is suffocating. There, may not be the remedy at hand, at once, for the stirring up of filth on a hot day must have demoralizing effects, but some relief could be afforded by the plentiful application of disinfectants. The board of health should be aggressive in its quality. It should act in these matters independently and vigorously. It has large powers and it should exercise them.

A half dozen times the Whig representative was nearly put to flight by the stench of adjacent nuisances while walking along the street. These places can be located, and there must be many others. The health department should send some one out with instructions to make a note of all these offensive spots and have the troubles removed if possible. Their continuation during the summer must operate seriously against the public health.

THE LUMSDEN RESIGNATION.

Three things have become apparent in connection with Mr. Lumsden and his office as chief engineer for the National Transcontinental railway. For (1) his duties have been onerous; (2) his pay has been inadequate (so he contends); and (3) the adjustment of contractors' difficulties has been discouraging. There is nothing in all this, however, to warrant a revival of the charge that there is over classification, and that the conflict with contractors has made the office untenable.

Mr. Lumsden is a good man, but he is sensitive to worries, and is not obliged to submit to them as a matter of course. No one questions his judgment, but the commission could not refuse a due consideration of the complaint of district engineers and contractors, that a recent inspection of the work by the arbitration committee—composed of Mr. Lumsden, Mr. Schreiber and the Grand Trunk Pacific engineer—was too hurried to permit of that judicial treatment which the nature of the case demanded. Without questioning the judgment of the committee it is suggested that three new and competent men make a survey of the finished work, and this will probably be done.

Meanwhile Mr. Lumsden acts for the government, and he may withdraw his resignation. An increase of salary, which he will earn, and a relief from some of the duties imposed upon him, may bring about a settlement of the difficulty.

SWEEP-BOX TACTICS.

There are several views of the sweep-box, and they emanate from very remarkable sources. One is that of an esteemed Montreal paper, which is usually devoted to the proprietors, and it is surprised that the witnesses before the royal commission are allowed to go without a grueling. The idea is that some of them are not telling all they know about the rottenness of civic administration, and that the screws should be put on to the end that they might be glad to make confession.

A second opinion is that of Col. Grassett, of Toronto, the head of the police department, who believes that circumstances occasionally justify the pressure which is put upon accused persons to extort the facts from them. Police are, of course, sometimes wrong in their suspicions, and they may bully and abuse innocent victims. The third degree, as conferred by some American officials, in the assumed interest of justice is, however, exceedingly brutal, and should not be tolerated in any civilized community.

The last opinion to be cited is that of the Hamilton Times, which becomes very wrathful in its contemplation of the subject. It regards the sweep-box as un-British and un-Canadian. "Like the thumb screw, the boot and the rack," it remarks, "the sweep-box might be made to serve their purpose in some cases, whether it would serve the cause of justice, or not, is probably less concern of theirs. But it is hardly likely that the people who have abolished the old torture chambers will permit petty police officers to esablish torture chambers of their own and to use them in defiance of the courts."

It is not to be assumed that a suspected person must not be submitted to a rigid examination. He should be invited to make a clean breast of his connection with a crime, but warned that the evidence may be used against him. It frequently happens that prompt enquiry reveals the iniquity of others as well as the detained person. The Sigel case, in New York, is showing how widespread is the trail of that murder, and that many, in place of one, may have had a hand in it. The sweep-box is not without some merit, and it is not apparent whether the expedients to which resort has been made in the Sigel case are such as cannot be approved.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Have you got the Nickelodion squint? It is the talk of the day. It is becoming common. Some people may have it and not be conscious of the fact.

Mr. Lumsden's resignation from the National Transcontinental railway commission does not revive or provoke any scandal. That much is certain.

The newest idea, developing out of a case tried in Lindsay, a violation of the Lord's Day act—that cigars and tobacco are drugs. The magistrate has the matter under consideration.

If uniformity be everything the legislature should provide that the assessment of municipalities should be conducted on the same basis. There is deception in comparison under present conditions.

The medical health officer of Toronto figures out that it will cost less to sprinkle the streets with oil than water, in order to abate the dust nuisance. Here's something for Ald. Graham to think about.

Who are the suffragettes of England who are storming the house of commons and getting themselves in prison? Not the middle classes, not the working classes. Is the hunt for the franchise a diversion for the rich?

On dit that the military headquarters for Eastern Ontario may be removed from Kingston to Ottawa. Well, if it improves the management of the militia department in any wise no one should object. Something is needed.

C. Montrose Wright (the husband of Florence Kinrade that was), has given up the ministry and proposes to do slum work in some large city. His experience in the past year has qualified him to sympathize with the unfortunates.

McGill College, Montreal, wants an endowment of $200,000 so that the salaries of the professors may be supplemented and their services secured permanently. They have access to the Carnegie Pension fund. Doubly blessed. A lesson to Queen's.

In Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Quebec the parties to divorce suits must apply to the senate and it costs at least $1,000. The other provinces have divorce laws. How is that? If divorce is a good thing why should it be a luxury in some provinces and not in others? It is time the scent of the senate for scandal was diverted.

SIR W. H. C. WYLLIE SHOT

MURDERED AT IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

Five Shots Penetrated His Skull—The Assassin Tried to Kill Himself—Murder Was Because of Politics.

London, July 2.—Lieut.-Col. Sir William Hart Curzon Wyllie was murdered, late last night, at a reception at the Imperial Institute by an Indian student, who shot him with a revolver. Dr. Lalcaea, another guest, was fatally wounded, dying later.

Col. Wyllie was regarded as one of the most distinguished political agents India has developed. His long, varied and successful career led to his selection as political aide-de-camp to Viscount Morley, secretary of state for India, in 1901.

Col. Wyllie was standing talking with Dr. Lalcaea, a practising physician at Shanghai, when the student suddenly approached and fired five shots from a revolver, point blank, at Wyllie's head, all the shots penetrating his skull. Almost simultaneously he shot Dr. Lalcaea in the breast. All happened before the bystanders were able to interfere.

The student tried to shoot himself with the round remaining in his revolver, but he was seized by the on-lookers and prevented.

Dr. Lalcaea died while being conveyed to a hospital.

Another revolver and a dagger were found in the murderer's pockets.

The murderer is named Dhenigri, and is about twenty years old.

A written three-sheet document, which apparently disclosed the motive for the crime, was found in his pockets. The police gave out that the murder was undoubtedly political.
