KATHLEEN'S VICTORY OVER THE CRESCENT WAS SENSATIONAL.

Henry Cunningham's Helm Work Was Clever—He Secured the Windward Position and Held it With Advantage.

There have been a number of very close yacht races in Kingston harbor during the past fifty years, but it is doubtful if such a full speed finish as that between the Kathleen, of Kingston, and the Crescent, of Watertown, on Saturday afternoon, when the Kingston boat won by half a jib-boom length, was ever equaled. It was a great race between those two rival yachts throughout the course, but when they came about after their long tack up the Wolfe Island shore, and raced almost side by side for home, the contest grew sensational. Henry Cunningham, the veteran Kingston yachtsman, who held the tiller of the Kathleen, played for the windward position and won it. The Crescent's helmsman, Judge Reeves, tried hard to head off the Kathleen, but Skipper Cunningham hung right to the Watertown boat and would not give way an inch. The Kathleen was a trifle behind when 300 yards from the home buoy, but her windward position enabled her to gradually come up and get about five feet of an overlap on the Crescent. Hence the latter could not cross the bow of the Kathleen, and had to give the latter the buoy, and allow her to swing around over the line. It was this position that Skipper Cunningham had played for, and his clever manoeuvring won the position which he desired.

All the Kathleen had to do was to defeat the Crescent in this race. Had the positions been reversed, with Crescent second, there would have been a tie among the three boats, as each would have had six points. Mrs. Hugh Osler, of Winnipeg (formerly Miss Kathleen Hart), after whom the Kathleen is named, arrived at the Yacht Club just as the race finish and was delighted over the victory of the yacht she christened two years ago.

Each of the three contestants for the George cup, which the Kathleen retains, secured a first place, the Crescent winning the first day, the Kathleen the second, and the Whirl the third. The Kathleen, however, won two seconds, and that retained for her the possession of the cup. Amelius Jarvis went out in the Whirl on Saturday to do or die. He was bound to trim the Kingston and Watertown boats and succeed, as both wind and wave were to the Whirl's particular liking. The Toronto boat's bow differs from that of the Kathleen and also the Crescent. It hits a sea and bounds ahead, while the Kathleen and Crescent bob up and down to a greater extent. Hence the Whirl sails more rapidly in a seaway. However, the Toronto boat would not have beaten either of the others by as much as five minutes on Saturday had the contest been of a little different character. The Kathleen and Crescent ran nearly half a mile further than the Whirl owing to the keen fight between the two, and the desire of each to hold right on to the other. The Whirl's lead would have been cut down a minute or more.

The Watertown and Toronto boats cleared for home on Saturday afternoon, after three days' visit.

George Cup Winners.
The summary of the previous races for the George cup is as follows:
1907.
July 25—At Glen Island, Crescent, 1:27; Kathleen, 1:29:30; Little Nell, 1:31:28.
July 27—At Kingston, Crescent, 2:34:25; Kathleen, 2:35:35.
1908.
August 14—At Chaumont, Kathleen, 2:19:55; Crescent, 2:24:36.
August 15—At Chaumont, Kathleen, 2:37:07; Crescent, 2:39:57.

Whirl's Entry Welcomed.
This is the third contest for the George cup. It was sailed for first at Picton in 1907, and won by Crescent against Kathleen and Little Nell. Last year Kathleen won the cup from Crescent at Chaumont Bay. The conditions insist on the challenge for the cup coming from a foreign club, but once it is challenged for all the lake yacht clubs are allowed to send one boat each. That is how Whirl's entry was acceptable. Judge Reeves, to whom much of the credit for the success of this new international trophy is due, is greatly pleased at securing a contestant from the west end of the lake. He likes to see the cup travel.
The contesting boats are shippy little craft that will put up a good race under all sorts of conditions. They are in class R, universal rule, which, being interpreted, means two sizes.

VICTORIAS DEFEAT Y. I. C. B. A. IN EXCITING GAME.

"Vics" Won the Match in the Ninth Innings, and Are Now at Head of the League—Junior "Vics" Win a Game Also.

Victorias, 10, Y.I.C.B.A., 6.
Kingston fans went baseball crazy on Saturday, in the city league game, at the cricket field. Without doubt, it was the most exciting game played in the league this season, and the Victorians pulled out a victory by the above score. In the last two innings the excitement was at fever heat, and it was well that both the fans and players had Sunday in which to cool off. Both teams put up a great fight for supremacy. The Victorians won the game in the ninth, up to that time the score being 6 to 4 in favor of the Irishmen. A lively dispute in the seventh innings, held up the game for about fifteen minutes. "Teddy" Saunders was the umpire, and the slab artists were McCammon for the Victorians and Matheson and Bernier for the Irishmen. Bernier only pitched for a short time.

The Victorians went to bat first, and Crawford made first, on a neat hit to left field, and by good base running, assisted by a wild throw, managed to score. Nicholson knocked a fly to Ewart, McMahon sent one to Coyne, and Cotman to Anderson, and the team was retired. The Irishmen went out in one, two, three order. Ewart placed an easy one to McCammon, Stokes fanned, and Anderson was thrown out at first.

In the second there was nothing doing for the Victorians. Ewart got first on Tilson's fumble, Derry got to first, but Pound was nipped stealing a bag, and Dick and McCammon were put out at first. The Irishmen scored two runs. Dehaney hit hard to centre and gained first, but was nipped stealing second. Joyce made a base hit, and sent McMahon over a drive to left garden, and on a mix-up at second base, both Coyne and Joyce scored. Tilson had a hole in his bat, and Bernier flew out to Dick.

The third was a short story, both teams going out in quick order. Ewart knocked a fly into Anderson's mitt, Nicholson presented one to Bernier, and Crawford fanned. Matheson was stopped at first, Ewart struck out, and Stokes flew out to McCammon.

The Victorians gingered up in the fourth, and chalked up three. McMahon led off, got first, and scored too, after an exciting steal. Cotman made a hit, and sent McMahon over to third. Dick assisted with a hit in field, which was poorly handled, and McMahon and Cotman scored. Dick made a good steal to second, but McCammon did not reach first. Dick scored on a sacrifice hit by Pound. The Irishmen scored one, the veteran Dehaney doing the trick. He placed a good one for one bag, and was assisted by Bernier and Coyne.

There was nothing doing in the fifth and sixth innings. Not one man got past first base. Coyne's good fielding was a feature of the fifth. The Irishmen made things lively in the seventh, and from then on there was something doing every minute until the end. The Irishmen tied the score, and added one extra, and this put their supporters in good spirits. There is great rivalry between the two teams, and the leaders were loudly cheered. Bernier got first, on a wild throw to first, and scored later on when Joyce knocked one to Nicholson, which the latter muffed. The score was then a tie. Coyne fanned, and it looked black for Joyce, who was running the bases. Tilson came to the rescue with a hit, and Matheson's two-bagger scored Joyce. This gave them one run in the lead, and their supporters ran loose. Ewart got a base, and then all three pillows were piled. Stokes knocked the ball into the crowd in the left field, and two men running home were put out. The Irishmen made things lively again by a man in the crowd and handed out the fielder. The umpire would not allow it, however, and the Irishmen refused to play. After fifteen minutes' warm discussion, the Irishmen decided to play under protest, and the game proceeded. The "Vics" made no score in the eighth, while their opponents added one, making it 6 to 4 in their favor. Anderson distinguished himself with a three-bagger, and scored the run.

In the ninth the scene was greatly changed. The "Vics" carried horses, and by bunching up their hits pulled up six runs, and it was as if their supporters had a turn to yell, and yell they did. The excitement in this innings rivaled any final match for the world's championship. Cotman earned a base, and Dick pushed him along for another. McCammon flew out to Dehaney. Pound started the fireworks with a fine two-bagger.

LIBEL ON OUR HENRY.

Toronto Telegram.

But the greatest contrast with the expected in these racing skips is in Henry Cunningham, who sails the Kathleen for her owner, Henry Richardson. Looking at his battered felt hat, his comfortable every-day clothes, his white shirt sleeves that make his fighting costume, you might guess he was a farmer, and his ruddy face would combine to keep you in that impression—not a mean, hard-fisted grubber of the soil, you would say, but a mellow, genial Old Man Ontario, who has cleared off, the mortgage long ago, married his sons and daughters well, and placed them on good farms, and is now enjoying the evening of life on the old homestead.

If you noticed the loose gloves he wore you might think of harvest mitts. You would hardly believe anybody who told you he was a pianist by profession, and you would be equally surprised to learn he was the best amateur skipper in Kingston parts—but he is.

With what is undoubtedly the slowest boat of the three, he has won five out of six possible points—second in one race and first in another—and stands a good chance of saving the trophy.

He is just as kindly as he looks, is absolutely without boastfulness, thanks Whirl is the best boat—and goes on beating her when possible.

All of which goes to prove what the Old Man has noticed before, that appearances are very deceptive.

There Is One In Kingston.
The Montreal Herald, last week, in commenting on the monument placed on Grosse Ile, below Quebec, erected by the Hibernians of Canada, in memory of the Irish emigrants, who died by the famine fever and were buried there, stated that this would make two monuments erected to their memory. In Kingston, that distinguished Irishman, the late Archbishop Cleary, erected a monument at his own personal expense and had it placed over the mound covering 200 emigrants at the general hospital, Kingston. The monument is a facsimile to one erected at St. Bartholomew's cemetery, outside of Rome, Italy.

At St. Mary's Cathedral.
The festival of Saints Peter and Paul was observed in St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday. The archbishop officiated at an early mass. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Corrigan. Vespers were sung in the afternoon, followed by the benediction of the holy sacrament. The altars were handsomely decorated with natural flowers. The music and singing by the choir was appropriate to the occasion.

While the ornamentation and decoration of the cathedral is under way vespers will be sung at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

City Council This Evening.
The city council meeting this evening will likely be the last regular session till the middle of September. The Sydnam street extension question will also be before the council. It will also be in order to pass a vote of congratulation to Ald. Kent for giving Kingston a town pump.

Kingston's Town Pump.
Kingston has long needed a "town pump" as a thing of historical interest to visitors. Alderman Kent, chairman of parks, has given the city, as near an approach to a town pump as can be erected in these progressive days. Visitors who ask about the town pump can be taken to the Clarence street park at the entrance to which the free drink producer is to be plainly seen.

But one goal separated the Vancouver and Westminster lacrosse teams at the end of one of the fastest and hardest-fought matches ever played between the two teams. The final score was 8 to 7, and right up to the finish the teams maintained a terrific pace, and both goals were being continually bombarded. Play was very even all through the match, but it was the great rushes of the Westminster home that gave the Minto cup holders the lead in the final quarter.
