INVERARY LAD KILLED
SAD FATE OF RUSSELL GUMMER, AGED THIRTEEN.

Was Run Over By Rig Which He Was Driving Into the City—His Two Companions Had a Miraculous Escape.

Russell Gummer, aged thirteen, a son of William Gummer, a well-known farmer, at Inverary, was killed in a runaway accident, on Monday morning. The accident occurred about nine o'clock.
From information given by Inverary people, who came into the city, it appears that young Gummer and his cousin, named Keyes, started out to drive into the city, with George Hunter, who was bringing in a load of cheese for shipment, on Monday morning. The three were sitting on the seat together, and all went well until Flannigan's Hill, on the Perth Road, was reached, when the seat was broken, and the three were thrown forward. The horses then became frightened, and ran away. Hunter grabbed hold of one of the reins, and in this way managed to keep clear of the horses and the rig, although he suffered a severe shaking. Keyes also had a miraculous escape, but his horse was broken. The team galloped on about a mile further, before coming to a standstill. Keyes and Hunter at once attended to the injured lad, drove him back home and had a doctor summoned, but he only lived a short time.
Deceased was well known around the village, and the sad accident cast a gloom over the community.

Nothing In The Report.

The local executive of the Lord's Day Alliance received word from Toronto, on Saturday, that an excursion by steamer, was going to land at Kingston on Sunday. The report proved to be incorrect, however, as no excursion was here. The customs authorities have their instructions on these matters, and excursions by boat are an impossibility on Sunday.

Bicycle Thieves At Work.

Bicycle thieves are at work in the city. On Saturday night, a young man named Woods, clerk in Hoag's drug store, left his wheel in the yard at the rear of the store, but when he was ready to leave for his home, the wheel was missing. The police are endeavoring to locate it. Another young man also claims to have had his bicycle stolen.

City's Health Is Good.

Medical Health Officer Bell says that during June the only contagious disease case that developed in Kingston was a light one of chicken pox. There wasn't even a case of typhoid. In fact there hasn't been a typhoid case develop in Kingston in three months. The board of health has, during the past two or three years, insisted upon the dairymen improving the sanitary conditions of their wells and springs so that the danger from milk has been greatly lessened. This spring the city has been remarkably healthy as sanitary conditions generally have been improved.

Five Acts At The Bijou.

"Saved From Death" or "The Brutal Foreman and the Farmer's Grandson" is a fine drama in ten acts and is now on at the Bijou. It's a thriller and tells the story of a boy who acted a man's part. The mother's love of animals shows many of her young, wild and tamed, with their young. Another thrilling drama with the scenes laid in the far south is entitled "The Love of a Mexican Girl" or "The Eavesdropper's Drama." It is a beautiful drama. The last picture is a comedy entitled "Heir to a Fortune" or "The Breaking up of the Suicide Club." James Douglas Bankier sings splendid march song "Promise Me When I Am Far Away." It's a good programme.

An Alderman Who Did Not Wish His Name Mentioned Before the Matter Came Before the City Council Again, Said That the Object of the Fifty Dollar Tax Was to Get Some Additional Revenue for the City, and When It Was Decided to License Laundries, Some of the Aldermen Thought That Here Was a Way to Raise a Little More Money for City Needs.

Chinamen Held A Meeting.

On Friday evening the Chinamen held a meeting, at which thirteen laundries were represented. An interpreter from Toronto, was present. After discussing the situation, which they claim is very unfair and harsh, they decided to present their side of the case before the council on Monday evening, and request a reconsideration of the license fee. They are willing to pay up to three or five dollars for that, but cannot possibly do more. They quote Hamilton and Toronto, where two and five dollars, respectively, are paid, and cannot understand why fifty dollars should be imposed here. They claim that when $200 had to be paid to enter the country, no further disabilities should be imposed.

OPPOSE HIGH LICENSE

CITIZENS OBJECT TO THE LAUNDRY TAX.

They Say It's Not Right—A Suggestion That the Laundries Be Centralized—Chinamen Seem to Flourish An Alderman Says.

The high tax placed on laundries by the city council continues to cause discussion, and there is no doubt that the popular feeling is against the tax of fifty dollars, which is said to drive some Chinamen out of business. Those who rent premises to Chinese laundrymen got good prices, and property is thus enhanced in value. A Chinaman says he couldn't get as much rent for it except from a laundry, and hence he's a friend of the local Celestials.

A suggestion is made by an alderman that if it is only a close supervision of laundries that is wanted, the city council might repeal the by-law passed two weeks ago, and pass another, restricting laundries to a certain down town section of the city. Let the laundries be centralized, he says.

It is pointed out that the people wouldn't like this, for they like the laundries spread over the city like corn growing stores for convenience. If the Chinese laundries were centralized, the Celestials would lose a great deal of their business, for a number of them are patronized because their places of business are convenient.

The Chinamen of Kingston seem to flourish, said one alderman, who thinks he knows a little about it. "They're all making money, but the naturally won't acknowledge it. There's one thing I notice, and that is that the Chinamen here always have money to pay their debts when they become due. That's more than a good many of our merchants can say." It is furthermore, the Chinamen don't pay the income tax. They should be made. They don't understand what the assessor wants, and wouldn't tell him correctly if they did understand.

To show that the large tax does not meet with general favor, a few expressions of opinion from prominent citizens are here given. Abraham Shaw—"I certainly think fifty dollars is too high a tax. A smaller charge would be quite sufficient. The Chinese laundries are small and shouldn't be charged as much as a big concern. Twenty-five dollars should surely be high enough." E. A. D. McMan said that he believed that $50 was far too heavy a tax. "I believe the laundries should be taxed," he said, "but I think $10 would be sufficient."

Dr. J. H. Bell favors the high tax. "Fifty dollars is not too much," he said. "The city shouldn't encourage allowing yellow labor to take the place of our own. Chinamen cannot be made good citizens when their women are not allowed in Canada."

Dr. C. L. Curtis—"Yes, I'm decidedly opposed to so high a tax as fifty dollars, for it will only create monopolies, and I'm against all kinds of monopolies. I favor a low license fee." W. Teiler—"You can't say that I'm opposed to the fifty dollar license charge. It's unfair. I may say that I pay about $3,500 a year for laundry work, and if the charges are raised on me, I'll install a laundry plant for my two hotels, and take in other work besides."

C. Boringham—"I think the charge unjust and unfair. It is not a tax, but a license, and a license is given for the purpose of regulation or because of the enjoyment of a special profitable business. In this case the business doesn't warrant a high license charge, and a very small fee would suffice for inspection and regulation. A fifty dollar tax is prohibitive, and is apt to exclude some laundrymen from the right of making a living. I don't think that the Chinamen can be very well impressed with the way we follow out our golden rule which says to do to others as we would have others do to us."

H. W. Richardson, president of the board of trade, says: "I think the tax of fifty dollars is an imposition. We shouldn't treat the Chinese in such a harsh way. They're honest citizens and should be given fair play. When they pay a tax of $500 to enter the country, they shouldn't be burdened with business restrictions aimed directly at them. Only a nominal inspection fee should be charged."

W. H. Maene—"I'm in favor of laundry inspection, but think the fee might be made less than fifty dollars."

J. B. Walkom, K.C.—"I think fifty dollars is not too high a tax for laundries to pay, and favor retaining the by-law passed at the last meeting of the city council."

An alderman who did not wish his name mentioned before the matter came before the city council again, said that the object of the fifty dollar tax was to get some additional revenue for the city, and when it was decided to license laundries, some of the aldermen thought that here was a way to raise a little more money for city needs.
