Daily Whig.

PRESIDENT AT REST.

Just as the Whig had gone to press, on Saturday, a message came to hand from Sherbrooke, Que., announcing the death of L. S. Channell, president of the Canadian Press Association, and founder and president of the Sherbrooke Daily Record company. He passed away on Saturday morning at his summer home, North Hatley. Mr. Channell returned home on Friday from Montreal, being unable to proceed to the press meeting at Kingston.

Every Ontario pressman who knew the pure-minded, noble-hearted and progressive president of the association will deplore his death. Elected the organization's head in March last (the second outside of Ontario in a half century's history) the elevation of L. S. Channell, of Sherbrooke, Que., was regarded as an omen of good things, the inauguration of a new era when a Canadian association, with one aim and purpose, would be created and from Vancouver to Halifax the brotherhood of journalism would be unified. This was his desire, this was his ambition. He hoped for its fruition in his time, but Death, the inexorable master, touched him and his voice is silent. His spirit, his work, will live and, mayhap, through the common feeling of sympathy and regret that he has been snatched from the activities of life, may spring the purpose in others to press on to ultimate triumph.

The late Mr. Channell was known to pressmen generally as a quiet, honest, resourceful man. Frail of body he was yet strong in will and determination; dignified he yet showed the marks of gentleness and courtliness. In him were found the sweet endearing virtues that won regard and esteem. Every pressman in Ontario, therefore, deplores his demise, and sorrows with the afflicted family, as also with the citizens of Sherbrooke, Que., where his work was done, and where he was most admired.

THE ECONOMIES GO ON.

The Intercolonial's Board of Management is pursuing its economic policy, and with results which must be commended by those who want to see the same business spirit exhibited in public as in private ownership. It has been the bane of this institution that in the past, in spite of all that has been attempted in the way of reform, there have been expenses which were undue and unattending, the management of any railroad by a company or private corporation.

The road was a political conception, and for political reasons men were appointed to it and continued in its service long after their usefulness appeared to be gone. Every feature in connection with it had some handicap. Sooner or later there had to be a change, and it is now coming to pass. It is to the credit of Hon. Mr. Graham that he presumably gave the matter his attention. He made an inspection of the road. He looked into every department of it. He saw that there was need of retrenchment, and that it had to set in systematically. The next move was to secure the men who would enter upon the work, and having begun it continue until the end.

The board, as finally constituted, with the old manager and the deputy minister of railways, as members, and having associated with them an expert railway man, has been at work about six months, and already many thousands of dollars a month have been saved. The working staff has been reduced, the contracts have been revised. The waste and unnecessary expense in every direction have been cut off. There is the nearest approach to business management and public ownership possible, and the railway department, before the next meeting of parliament, will demonstrate the wisdom of this new departure.

It was authorized with some misgiving, and it has been contemplated in a critical and kindly spirit. Now Mr. Graham is making good his promises, and the premier has been realizing his expectations in one of his latest colleagues.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Indianapolis officials of the United Mine Workers' Association are the great troublers in the Sydney mine trouble. The country must in some way be relieved of this foreign dictation.

A little while ago people were longing for a break in the dry spell. Now they are longing for a break in the wet spell. Pretty hard to suit all classes. It's good the hand of mere man is not upon the spiggot.

A woman cannot be tolerated because she preaches socialism in the streets of Montreal. If she had proclaimed the news of some new graft the people and the police could have stood it with great complacency.

The revenue of the dominion was nearly three millions of dollars better during the first three months of this year than the revenue of a similar period in 1908. The best indication that can be had of the return of better times.

The railway companies are acting wisely in making provision for the storage of grain at the Georgian Bay. They want to use the car service in bringing the grain to shipping points, and the cars must be unloaded at once. The elevators will pay for themselves.

It is remarkable that the depression came and went with so little bad effects. How is this accounted for? The banks foresaw the hard times and prepared for them. To the heroic treatment of the bankers is due results for which they have not been thanked enough.

Col. Sam Hughes has been vindicated by the shooting of Canadians at Bisley. He was a constant defender of the Ross rifle, and it has been winning honours for Canada right along. Col. Hughes knows a rifle when he sees it. His critics and the critics of the Ross men do not.

Cardinal Gibbons blames the clergy for being too eager to marry mismatched pairs. There is something in the charge. The clergy should be required to make some enquiry into the circumstances of the people they yoke in matrimony. Or the issuer of licenses should be obliged to do it.

Some people will remember Mr. Wyatt, who visited Kingston in the interest of the Naval League. He and his allies now spend their time in abusing the liberals, radicals and socialists. He thinks the unionists would be justified in using violence and driving the government from power. It's time some one used violence on him and ended his troubles.

Osteopath is not quackism. It is a scientific drugless method of curative treatment which confines itself, for the most part, to organic ailments of long standing. There might easily be cited scores of cases in which osteopathic treatment has been abundantly successful after medicinal treatment had repeatedly and hopelessly failed.

Result of the Ten Million Loan.

Toronto Globe.

When the Grand Trunk Pacific railway company some months ago found itself under the necessity of making a very great financial sacrifice to obtain the capital necessary to carry on the work of construction on the mountain section of the western division of the National Transcontinental railway it applied to the dominion parliament for temporary relief in the form of a loan of ten million dollars. The application was granted with little demur, it was so obviously the wise thing to do, because any unnecessary enhancement of the cost of capitalization meant a hampering impairment in the efficiency of the railway.

The announcement that a contract has been let for the section extending through the Yellow Head Pass is the result of the wise policy of aiding the company with a view to tiding it over the period of commercial depression. The distance between the western end of the contract just let and the eastern end of the section under construction from Prince Rupert inward has been reduced to 350 miles. The prospect of the early completion of the whole line is, therefore, very good. There are yet two years within the limit fixed by parliament, and there is a strong probability that this interval will be quite enough for the purpose.

AN HOSTLER PLEADED GUILTY TO CRIME

St. Andrew's Church Anniversary —A Young Lady Who is Winning Fame—People in Town For Vacation.

Gananoque, July 19.—A severe and painful accident occurred on Sunday among the islands whereby Robert Guernsey, caretaker of Leek Island, the palatial residence of Ira Knapp, will be laid up for some time. While operating the big six-cylinder engine of the Orion II by some means his foot got entangled and was severely lacerated by the projecting head of a large set screw. The unfortunate man was brought to Dr. J. P. Sinclair's surgery where his injuries were dressed.

St. Andrew's church celebrated its anniversary in a successful manner, yesterday. Rev. R. E. Knowles, Galt, preached. Under the mangement of Prof. W. H. Jackson, organist and choir leader an excellent programme of musical numbers was well rendered. Large congregations greeted the well-known and appreciated young pastor.

Frank Raisch, the Provincial Hotel hostler, committed for trial on a charge of attempting to commit an indecent assault on a little nine-year-old girl, pleaded guilty before the judge at Brockville, and was remanded until Saturday next for sentence. The Deseronto Navigation company's ferry steamer Wherenow made her initial, Sunday, to Clayton. Her service will now be daily.

E. A. Dornan, Thousand Islands Junction, district passenger agent for the G.T.R., has taken up his headquarters for the season at Alexandria Bay, N.Y. J. F. Chapman, district freight agent of the Rathbun company, attended the meetings of the Dominion Freight association in Halifax, N.S., during the past week. Mr. Chapman was accompanied east by Frederick Skinner, jr., King street. W. Funnell, one of Gananoque's aged and highly respected residents, is confined to his home seriously ill.

Miss Annie Moulton, editor of the Winnipeg Municipal News, spending a short vacation in this section, has returned to her sanctum in the prairie province. Miss Moulton was educated in the Gananoque public and high schools, from the latter of which she graduated to the school teachers' profession, held positions in various departments in the public schools of the town giving excellent satisfaction. At the close of the South African war she was one of the fortunate Canadian teachers sent to South Africa to advance the interests of peace. Returning she made a name for herself in the literary world by a series of magazine articles under the pen name of "Nan" Moulton, depicting scenes of interest during her career in that country. Miss Moulton is a native of South Leeds, who has gained honor in various lines of literary and pedagogy work and of whom not only her native county but all Canada is proud.

Room For The Millionaires.

Edmonton Bulletin.

And there is room for everybody. Of all these fat acres, in Alberta, only 1,000,000 are under cultivation; yet these produced last year 18,000,000 bushels of grain, with a total value of ten and a half million dollars.

The doors have been opened and the people are coming in. The most recent statistics of crop area, school attendance, and postal returns show us that Alberta has more than doubled in population in the last five years. Thirty-five years ago the white population of the province was less than 1,000 and if the increase continues at the present rate the census gatherer of 1911 will find here half a million souls.

But forty-bushel wheat is not the whole of Alberta's story of the soil. The plough may be mightier than the branding-iron, but it does not follow that everybody who comes to Alberta must turn vegetarian and grow dollar wheat. Added to her grain area, Alberta has 5,000,000 acres of ranching land, and her cattle exports last year totalled 3,000,000 dollars. The rancher came before the wheat man, but the latter has by no means dispossessed the former.

A PRINCESS PARDONED.

A Love Romance Has a Happy, Ending.

Berlin, July 17.—The announcement that Countess Elizabeth Seefried has left her home in Austria to visit her parents, Prince and Princess Leopold of Bavaria, at Munich, reveals the happy conclusion to a royal romance.

Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria was nineteen years old when she fell in love with Baron Ptto Von Seefried, a young lieutenant in a Bavarian regiment. Princess Elizabeth, like all members of the Bavarian royal family, was a Roman Catholic, and Baron Von Seefried, apart from being far inferior to her in birth, was a Protestant.

When Princess Elizabeth told her parents she desired to marry the young baron, they forbade all further intercourse between the young people, but on December 2nd, 1893, Princess Elizabeth fled from the royal palace, where she lived with her parents. During the night she met Baron Seefried, who was waiting for her close at hand, and eloped with him. On the following day they were married at Genoa.

The Bavarian government immediately dismissed Baron Seefried from the army, and issued a warrant against him on the charge of abducting a princess of the royal house. The young princess, after finishing the honeymoon journey, proceeded to Vienna to obtain help from her grandfather, the Emperor Francis Joseph, her mother having been the emperor's eldest daughter. Baron Seefried was not only a fugitive from justice in Bavaria, but also penniless, so that the young couple were entirely without means of sustenance.

Early one morning they drove up to the imperial palace in Vienna. Baron Seefried remained in the cab while Princess Elizabeth entered the palace, and threw herself on her knees before her grandfather.

The kind-hearted emperor gave Baron Seefried a position as officer in an Austrian regiment, and granted the young couple an allowance.

Baron Seefried's regiment was stationed at Snaim, where his wife became extremely popular. Finding that the young couple lived happily together, the Emperor Francis Joseph raised Baron Seefried to the rank of count, and gave the young couple an estate in Moravia.

His majesty repeatedly interceded at Munich to bring about the reconciliation of his granddaughter and her parents, who had refused to have anything to do with her. He has at last been successful, so that the Countess Seefried is now able to visit the court of Munich.

TURNING OF OTHER CHEEK.

Hon. Richard Harcourt's Story at Welland.

Hon. Richard Harcourt recalled an interesting fact in a speech delivered by him at the laying of the corner-stone of the Fonthill Baptist church on Monday last. In concluding his speech, he said he wished to speak a personal word, and we quote what follows from the Welland Telegraph:

"So long ago," said Mr. Harcourt, "that I do not like to say the time, I spent an hour and a half in the legislature trying to convince some eighty members that the university of the Baptist body should have the same rights in degree conferring powers as the university of any other religious body. I, myself, was a graduate of the University of Toronto and the authorities of that university objected very strongly to my position. But I held that if the Methodists were entitled to confer degrees at Victoria, the Presbyterians at Queen's, and the Anglicans at Trinity, the Baptists should have the same rights at McMaster. And if they had not that right I wanted to know why, in the light of nineteenth century liberalism. It was a narrow vote, but we won. An hour afterwards I received a telegram from Senator McMaster, thanking me for what I had done, and two days later he sent me a very kind letter amplifying the matter of his telegram.

"What happened the other day in the strange whirligig of time? The man who led the opposition to McMaster, my old, my tried, my honored friend, honored lieutenant-governor of the province, a few days ago, had a degree conferred upon him by McMaster University. That was a turning of the other cheek."

Miss Ethel Alford, M.A., a former pupil of the Brockville Collegiate Institute, who distinguished herself by winning a scholarship and whose course at Queen's University was a most brilliant one, has been appointed to the staff of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute at an initial salary of $1,100.

Gas Distended His Stomach.

Caused Palpitation, and Prevented Sleep. When Health Was Gone, Cure Followed Use of "Nerviline."

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveller of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my indigestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart.

Testimonal No 4890

When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers.

ON SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

She Was Attempting to Get Her Son.

Mrs. Isabella Burk, wife of a saloon-keeper, at Hammond, Indiana, formerly the widow of the late Robert Wilson, Perth, left the county town for the United States some years ago. Three of four years ago her eldest son, Hubert Wilson, was apprenticed to H. R. H. Beveridge, a farmer, near Perth, until he arrived at the age of manhood. Latterly the mother, Mrs. Burk, has been charged with attempting to entice her son away from Mr. Beveridge contrary to the statute, and when Mrs. Burk arrived to attend the 12th of July celebration she was promptly arrested and taken before Police Magistrate Taylor, charged with the offence. Being committed for trial, she was tried before Judge Senkler, on Wednesday, Crown Attorney Malloch prosecuting, and F. W. Hall appearing for the mother. There were some extenuating circumstances, but the mother pleaded guilty, was given a term of two years and was allowed out on suspended sentence on furnishing her own bond for $500.

The mystery surrounding the body of a dead man found in a Strathcona box-car, is lifting. It is said to be that of the Rev. John Tough, of Islay, Alta.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY.
