

RUINS OF ARCHAMBAULT BUILDING

This building at the corner of Elovath and Market streets, Philadelphia is where six people lost their lives and where twenty-four were seriously injured. This view shows the crowd at the southwest corner just after the police patrols and ambulances had arrived. The building was undergoing repairs at the time.

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later, he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature crosby while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, lined it with hay and used it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown on the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constables. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerably left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kindhearted Sark workmen, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes a special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare India specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes its wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen in Church Pagent.

The allotment of parts in the church pagent in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI." in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. P. S. G. Probert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Gallop will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

Providing Against Emergencies.

"Is you de insurance gemman?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"I am," answered the urbane agent.

"Well, I wants to talk business. I ain't got nuffin' to say agin' no neighbors, but I's had a lot of unexpected occurrences. I wants to see if I can't arrange to get some accident insurance on my chicken coop."

From Saskatoon has come the first appeal, under the provisions of the Demeux act by municipal employees. They ask a board of conciliation in their dispute with the city council over wages and hours and it has been granted.

$1 a Cake Could Buy No Better Soap

If you were to offer us $1 for a single cake of soap, we could make no better than our Infants' Delight.

For we have put our very best into this cake. We go to the gardens of France for pure vegetable oil. There we pay often double what we might pay. We bring coconut oil more than 12,000 miles from the Isle of Ceylon. Then we mix these oils and boil them doubly long.

After this we send them through our own special milling process—one that we have perfected only in our 43 years of experience.

From here they fall like flakes of snow into huge bins and are then crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture.

Then they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of silky ribbons, after which they are dried eight times. The result is the most perfect and delightful soap.

It is so pure and clean that it leaves the skin fair as an infant's. So we call this soap Infants' Delight.

Order one cake today and see for yourself how different it is. Note the rich, creamy lather and see how it leaves the skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as silk.

Note the dainty perfume—it comes from Bulgaria and costs us $100 a pound. But it requires 3,000 pounds of rose leaves to make a single ounce of this Otto of Roses. The fragrance is simply exquisite. Please try it and see.

How to Manicure

File your nails to the desired length. Then soak them in warm water with a thick lather of Infants' Delight. Remove your fingers from the water and push back the cuticle at the base of the nail, until the white crescent appears. After this, trim and polish the nails as usual.

A Dying Woman Rescued Through the Timely Use of DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

"My doctor told me I had only six weeks to live—that nothing human could help me, but to-day I am healthy and well, because I took a long treatment with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they saved my life!"

Continuing her declaration, Mrs. Jamison says: "I had from childhood been a sufferer from biliousness and liver complaint. I suffered excessively from wind and could not eat my food without feeling ill afterwards. Sometimes I was so bad I could not stand up straight for the pain. The wind gathered in my stomach, chest and sides, and always caused blinding headaches. At times I seemed one mass of ulcers and pain—I became rheumatic because my blood was so poor. The benefit I received from the first box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills encouraged me and I continued their use three to five pills a week, for several months and was brought to the most perfect condition of health."

If you suffer from constipation, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, anaemia, headache, nervousness, depression, depression, general debility, loss of appetite, liver and kidney troubles, acute and chronic dyspepsia, or any form of stomach and digestive weakness, you may look with certain hope for a complete cure by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Catnip.
