Daily Whig.

THEY DESIRE SOME REWARD. It was assumed that Messrs. McCurdy and Baldwin had some understanding with the government with regard to their experiments at Petewawa, and that at least some of these expenses would be paid. It appears, however, that the government is not in any way committed to their experiments, and that Canada is not concerned financially with what the young aviators are doing.

They are not amateurs as some people may imagine. For some time they have been using the aerodromes, and some of these days they will surprise the country with their performance. Meanwhile the federal government should encourage them in some substantial way. They could be given a series of prizes for experiments under certain conditions, and Canada made to feel that it was doing its share in a modest way to achieve distinction in aviation.

If the young men desired to represent Canada at the London exhibition they should have moved quicker in the matter, and long since demonstrated their fitness for this honor. But Canada should appreciate what the young men are doing. They cannot, it is assumed, afford to make large sacrifices which gives them no assurance of public recognition.

A WAVE OF WORDS. The American idea of talking to the people, of giving them the story of the man, or his message, in his own way and with a reflection of his voice—is being adopted in England. In the last presidential campaign the candidates of the republican and democratic parties travelled day and night, and made hundreds of addresses. These were reported and flashed by telegraph to the papers so that every day Taft and Bryan spoke, directly and indirectly, to millions of the people.

There was no message, however, so effective as that of the living voice, and hence it was that all other expedients failing, the phonograph was called into use and from its records, made in hundreds, the men who sought the people's favour, addressed to them the words that were expected to seal the allegiance of many doubtful voters. To the places where the candidates could not go their messages were sent, and, before the picture of the man the phonograph was set and amid a hush that could not be had at an ordinary political meeting, the "voice" was heard and sometimes it was applauded.

In England the demand has been for an educational campaign on the issues of the hour, and for certain persons, to wit, Mr. Asquith, Mr. Lloyd-George, or Mr. Churchill, the request has been particularly preferred. The premier and his chancellor of the exchequer and secretary for the colonies cannot fill all the engagements that the party would like to make for them, and so the party managers propose to send out the speeches which they make to the gramophones, and they will be used wherever it is necessary to present the thoughts of the leaders in their tone of voice and way.

Both parties are immersed in a propaganda of huge dimensions. The people are being talked to all over the empire, and if they will only listen they will hear many things of profound interest. So far it must be said that the budget party is having the best of it. They are appealing to the masses, and the masses will eventually decide the day.

TARIFF REVISION DOUBTFUL. It seems peculiar that the president of the United States should issue a personal note or proclamation with regard to the tariff bill which he signed on Thursday afternoon. But the personal aspect of the case becomes apparent when it is remembered that he has the active advice, of a reduced tariff, and that he had to work some explanation of the situation.

In the statement which he sent to the press he makes three points clear: (1) That he thinks the act is the result of a sincere effort on the part of the republican party to solve the tariff problems; (2) That it is not a perfect tariff nor a complete compliance with the promises made by the party; and (3) That excepting the luxuries in silks, liquors and certain cottons, there are few increases, while there have been many decreases, and "a substantial downward revision."

One has been particularly marked during the tariff debate, namely, that the republican party is not united upon the question, that the middle and western states, through their representatives, are not satisfied with the settlement which has been made, and that unless these are modified in some way the republican party will have its trials in the next presidential election.

"The vote of Thursday" shows that Bristol, Clapp, Cummings, Doliver, LaFollette, Beveridge and Nelson voted in opposition to the bill, thereby carrying on to the end their welfare as republican insurgents. The men were sincere throughout in their fight and only sought to insure a revision that would be downward unmistakably. As individuals they have unquestionably strengthened their positions in their respective states. There seems no doubt also that in their action they have represented their constituents. They have certainly established a new order of things in the United States senate in the way of independence and have carried it through to the end. For this they are to be commended.

It is not independence merely. It means a breaking of party ties beyond the hope of repairing them.

EDITORIAL NOTES. In Hamilton the ice cream men seem to be getting the best of the Lord's Day Alliance. An interpretation of the act by some higher court is really necessary.

The assailants of the Ross rifle will now, on the evidence of the returned marksmen, be disposed to look up that ancient hole and pull the hole in after them.

The hot weather has not been overpowering the people, but it has led to an extraordinary display of men's and women's shirt waists, and just when bargain prices had been reached!

A million acres swept by hail and the crops destroyed. That is the announcement on the day following the storm when its ravages could not possibly have been ascertained. A guess or a gamble. Only that and nothing more.

Does the Hamilton Herald not see, in the encroachments of some men on the Sabbath, the danger of destroying it as a rest day? There are no blue laws in Canada, so that the reaction of Connecticut need not be anticipated.

The Montreal Standard says the English courts do not inquire much into a man's family history when he has been caught red-handed in crime. In America the courts do not consider the size of the criminal's wallet, or the financial backing of his friends, but there are those who do and they sway the courts.

Dispatch of A Criminal. Montreal Standard. When they catch a murderer red-handed in London, it is considered waste of time, at his trial, to enquire closely into his past. It is enough to prove the actual facts of the case: the plea of mental deficiency was not, and could not, be raised. By showing that he understood perfectly what he had done, no good purpose could be served by trying to decide whether he was the conscious or unconscious agent of any body of men yet unnamed. The record of the case has brought to the people of England a realization of the danger which threatens British rule in the great Indian dependency. There has been much talk of recent years of schemes for the bestowal upon the people of India of a larger share in the administration of the country.

Will Not Be Forgotten. Montreal Gazette. Some returned members of the Bisley team are reported to be saying harsh things about the Canadian papers which raised the question as to whether the rifles given to the team for use came within the regulations of the National Rifle Association. As the National Rifle Association has changed its rules so that it will not again have to accept as regular rifles issued to competitors on the eve of a meeting unless they bear the regular army marks, the action of the papers which raised the question has had its vindication. There were things about this year's Bisley meeting which Canadians should be glad to forget.

Becoming Liberal-Minded. Montreal Gazette. Connecticut, which had the strictest Sunday laws of any state in America, proposes through its legislature to substitute for them an enactment which is expected to permit Sunday theatrical performances, and the separation between state and church seems to be generally acceptable. The state extending, and leaving the church to maintain as it may the customs to which it thinks Christians should adhere.

TRIED TO LYNCH MAN WHO KILLED HIS BABY IN A SWAMP.

Infant a Month Old and Illegitimate—The Young Mother Says the Father Snatched Infant From Her.

Edgemont, Ill., Aug. 10.—Charged with murdering his month-old infant, which he snatched from the arms of its mother, James Pullman, of Edgemont, Ill., escaped lynching, yesterday afternoon, only through the arrival of a score of deputies in automobiles.

A rope had been placed about his neck and a mob was dragging him to a telephone pole in one of the city's main streets when the officers, who held in the Belleville jail with the mother of the infant. The baby's body was found with its skull crushed and stamped a foot deep in the mire of a swamp, with bootmarks all about it.

Pullman and the mother of the child, May Williams, of Danaville, Ill., were in St. Louis, yesterday, trying to find a home for the infant, which was born a month ago in a maternity home here. Failing to find a refuge, the girl started for her home to throw herself and the child on the mercy of her father.

Pullman accompanied her on the interurban car, and as they reached the suburbs of East St. Louis he snatched the child from her arms and jumped off. She followed him, but he eluded her in a swamp in Edgemont, an East St. Louis suburb, according to her story.

The girl went on to Belleville, where she swore out a warrant for Pullman, alleging paternity. Pullman was seen in Belleville two hours later and had disposed of the child. He was arrested and a charge of murder was entered against him.

He declared that he had given the baby to a woman who said she was willing to care for it. Accompanied by two deputies, he was taken back to Edgemont and the swamp was searched, but at that time the body was not found.

A mob collected when the charge against him became known, and a rope was tied about his neck after the two deputies had been beaten off.

Surrounded by two hundred or more infuriated men, he was dragged to a nearby telephone pole. A man had started to climb the pole with the rope when reinforcements arrived in automobiles from East St. Louis, and Pullman was saved. He was hustled into a machine and taken back to Belleville.

Pullman, shivering with fear, was subjected to a severe examination, and maintained his innocence of the paternity charge.

Feeling his running high against him in Belleville, and another attempt to lynch him is feared. Special deputies have been sworn in by the sheriff, and the jail is strongly guarded.

PROFANITY AND OBSCENITY. The Halifax Herald Speaks Out on the Subject.

Halifax Herald. In the course of an editorial article in the St. John Star the other day, when the subject of profanity, the true remark was made that it has become a blight on our language. Moreover, profanity—by which is meant not merely the use of strongly expressive words—leads to obscenity, and the two forms in combination are as degrading to those who employ them as they are to those who are forced to be listeners. Why is it that when a man is drunk his flow of language is picturesquely profane, his remarks clothed in shocking villainy? Surely the liquor, releasing intellectual control, permits the utterance of what is rooted in the brain. And certainly there would be less disgusting talk on the part of drunkards if there were less violent profanity in sober moments. It is to be feared that violence of expression rather than refinement of language is the dominant characteristic of the conversationalist of today.

George Wright, of Halifax, has for many years been conducting a one-man campaign against profanity. He has not been heard from of late, but no doubt is still actively following up his work of reform. Many, reading Mr. Wright's outpourings of indignation against this misuse of English may have felt that he takes too serious a view of the situation. But it must be confessed, and with regret, that he is not greatly exaggerating the true conditions in anything he has said. Even in the past few years the increasing opposition to profanity and obscenity has been apparent.

Right here in St. John and even among those who pride themselves on their conduct in all respects, the habit is growing, while among the other classes the extent to which the mother tongue is perverted, is positively shocking.

Are we to adopt, in the ordinary development of language, words and expressions which to our fathers were rightly regarded as vulgar and indecent? Certainly the evidences point that way, but the plan is by no means praiseworthy.

Wanted—An Open Sunday. Hamilton Herald. We fail to see that any great harm is done by the sale of ice cream and other refreshments on Sunday. As we take it, the object of the Lord's day act is to preserve the Sabbath as a day of rest for the toilers and to prohibit public amusements, etc. In some respects we think that the law has gone too far and made it so unpopular that it is difficult to enforce. In this instance we are not criticizing the law, but we think the courts should settle the ice cream question.

Reports that Fred Tenny, first base man and field-captain of the New York National League club, is to be traded to the Pittsburgh club for Outfelder Wilson and another player, have been received in New York, but no information as to the reported negotiations, it is believed, have been obtained. Manager McGraw, who is with the St. Louis club to-day in Toronto, sent word that he had nothing to say about the reported trade.

Champion Frank Kramer, who has been in the limelight as a cyclist for years, is now more than ever under the glare of the spotlight. His action in refusing to ride the deciding race in a team match race, at the Newark Velodrome, Sunday-afternoon, has created wide and varied discussions. Kramer's friends are naturally trying to let him down as easily as possible, but the fans, who are neither for nor against the champion, do not hesitate to say that he loved cycling and its patrons a mean trick.

"Consumption is Infectious." Every Precaution Should Be Taken to Prevent Its Spread.

Persons coming into contact with consumptives should inhale Catarrhazone several times each day as it is a powerful destroyer of disease germs and renders them innocuous. Catarrhazone is a most efficient preventive and may be thoroughly relied upon to promote expectation, soothe the cough and benefit in many ways too numerous to mention. Both from a medical and scientific point of view Catarrhazone is the most valuable addition to the armament against consumption. Its merits cannot be too highly applauded, and we advise any of our readers troubled with coughs, bronchitis, throat weakness, catarrh, etc., to use Catarrhazone frequently.
