A TAX ON LAUNDRIES SUNDAY SERVICES

T. F. HARRISON WRITES A LETTER ON THE QUESTION. Says Six Chinamen Are Unable to Pay For Their License and Must Be Helped or Crushed Out—They Rendered Aid to Japanese Famine Fund and Queen's University.

Bath, Aug. 27.—(To the Editor): Recent issues of your paper convey the information that the Chinese have not paid the laundry tax, because they believed it to be unjust, and that one, Sue Tang, had been arrested and fined for not doing so.

HONG LEE, Who may be crushed by the Laundry Tax.

again, when the Japanese famine fund was being raised here, our local Chinamen sent $42 as their contribution.

Further, for five years, a few of our Chinamen have been supporting a native Chinese teacher in China. These are only a few instances occurring to me, as I write, but sufficient to indicate that our local Chinamen, at least, are trying to become Canadianized, and possibly Christianized, sufficient also, to cause us to wonder what peculiar influence would cause low-walkers, some of whom believe in missions, and all of whom profess to believe in educating and Canadianizing our foreign element, to attempt, unfairly and unjustly, to crush out the few we have here.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Aldermen of the Kingston City Council. Gentlemen of the city council and trustees of the people's property: Allow me to call your attention to a great grievance of the working people of Kingston, a large majority of whom quit work at 5 p.m.

The Street Railway company does not honor work tickets until six o'clock, and these are limited to 6:30 p.m. after that fall fare. Every other street railway in Canada, that I am aware of, extends the limit of work tickets from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m.

Why should the people of Kingston be discriminated against by railway corporations? A few years ago the Street Railway company, in Kingston, went on strike for about six months and put the working people to all the inconvenience of walking to and from their work and places of business. It would not resume traffic until it got all it asked for in concessions from the city.

LOOKS LIKE LONGER SEASON. Many Can Tarry on River in September.

There is a feeling among Alexandria Bay hotel men that with good weather the present season will hang on a bit longer than usual. The fact that the boat day occurs later, that schools will open at a later date, will have a very material effect in prolonging the season, judging from talk here all along the river.

Taken To the "Cooler." Early this morning, the police had a call for a drunken man, who was trying to hold up a telegraph pole at the corner of King and Clarence streets—or rather to brace himself up. He was taken to the lock-up, but was too much under the influence to go before the acting magistrate, and thus will be detained at police headquarters over the week end.

WOLFE ISLAND WON ISLANDERS GOT SEVEN IN AN INNINGS

And the Victorias Could Not Overcome It—There Were Specimens of Fine Ball During the Game. There was a large torchlight procession and other demonstrations on Wolfe Island, on Friday evening, everyone being out in their best bib and tucker. No, it was not an election, where the people's candidate was elected, it was only a jollification because young "Doc" Spaulding's ball team, had lately won a game, especially from the junior Victorias, and for a side bet of $50. Was there a good time on the island? Well, I guess! Every one was out, and every one was happy, men, women and children. The winners were heroes on Friday evening.

The game was the outcome of a dispute after the game at Lake Ontario Park, on Saturday last, when the Vics won out, 7 runs to 6. A matched game was arranged for Wolfe Island, and it was played with the result that the Victorias were defeated 9 runs to 7, but only after putting up the finest game of ball ever seen on Wolfe Island. But for two glaring errors they would have—but they didn't.

The game was called at three o'clock, but, of course, the arguments hadn't commenced, so the game was postponed until four o'clock. The first rick was given Mandell, whom the islanders claimed had no right to play, because he played a senior game, the year before last. Mandell was retired by the Vics, and then the gentlemen from Marysville, claimed that Leo Millan, a fourteen-year-old player, was not a Victoria lad; they failed to win on this point. After the islanders had picked all the cherries they wanted from the Vics' tree, someone asked if "Fergie" Doyle was a bona fide resident of Wolfe Island. Well—anyone who said Doyle was not an islander was in danger of his life. They claimed "Fergie" got him and he played.

At four o'clock the umpire called the game, Wolfe Island going to the field. Schultz landed a nice hit over short, but was caught sleeping off first. Robinson went out on a slow hit, and Muckler was caught at second. Muckler pitched just three balls to retire the islanders.

In the second innings something happened. The islanders received a present of seven runs; out of these three were earned runs. The first man up hit for one base, the next up advanced the man to second, the third man bunted and Muckler made an error, putting three on bases with none out. Then the balloon went up, every one up hit, and every hit brought in a run, until seven were totalled. In the Victorias' half one run was secured, Millan getting a safe hit, and stealing the next three bases, in a way that would make Hans Wagner open his eyes.

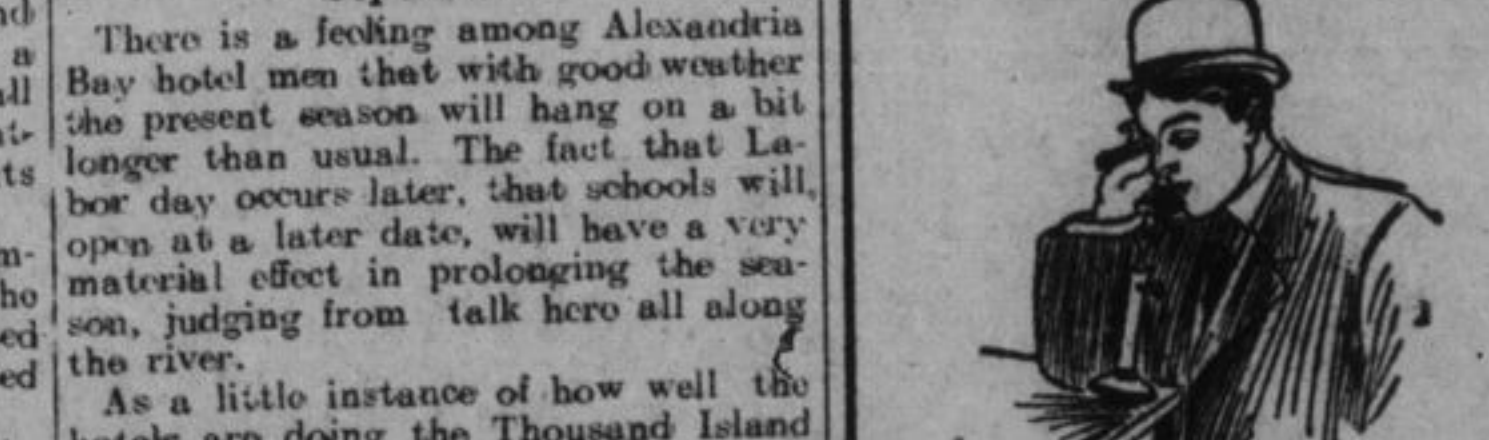

In the Vics' half of the third they came back strong, landing five runs. In this innings they were hitting everything, and made their five runs on well-placed hits, while the islanders made their seven on only three hits, and a bunch of errors. The islanders were retired one, two, three, and this made the score 6 runs to 7 in favor of the island, at the end of the third innings.

It went on the same way until the end of the eighth innings, when the islanders secured two more runs, the Vics receiving their other one in the fifth, Muckler getting around. In the five innings that there was no scoring, there was certainly baseball. Some fine plays were pulled off by both teams. The islanders had three men on bases and no one out in the seventh innings, when Muckler came to time, and retired the next three men. Again in the sixth, and two out, when Doyle landed a strong drive between first and second. Kinneair Reid covered fully one hundred feet, running with the ball, and then jumped and caught it, saving at least two runs. It was the finest catch made by a Kingston player this year, in any league.

In the last half of the eighth the islanders secured two runs, Davis and Crawford getting around, on two sacrifice hits. When the Vics came in for their end of the innings they could not land in a safe place.

Scoreboard for Wolfe Island and Victorias. Wolfe Island: R. H. E. 7 1 0. Victorias: R. H. E. 6 1 1.

From the score board the Vics led in hits, and should have won, only for the great glaring errors. The islanders played a good steady game, as they generally do on their home grounds, and deserved their victory. Both pitchers threw fine games, and received their share of credit.

As for an umpire, "Charlie" Jerome was fair to everyone, saw everything, called it, and if questioned could always give the rule, word for word from the book. The teams:

Wolfe Island: R. H. E. 7 1 0. Victorias: R. H. E. 6 1 1.

Have Two Classes. It is the idea of Frontenac Club members that the establishment of say two classes of motor boats, the forty-footers and the thirty-two footers, would help in securing better results in racing. If a person was building a fast boat, equipped with powerful engines, he would plan for one of the two classes, and arrange his engine's strengths accordingly.

Will Likely Be Re-Engaged. Jack Campbell and Joe McMahon will likely be re-engaged as coaches for the Queen's University football team this year, says the Hamilton Times. They are to meet the college boys' manager in Toronto next week, and expect to sign up an agreement with him. "Dinkey" is confident that Queen's will make a clean sweep of the inter-collegiate and says the team will then go after the winners of the "Big Four."
