

Health Demands
that the bowels be kept regular. Neglect means sickness. Sluggish bowels are quickly regulated by

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In Boxes 25 cents.

Furniture, Carpets AND Curtains

Everything points to a big Fall trade, and we are better prepared than ever to meet the growing demand for Artistic Furniture, Carpets and Furnishings, at a moderate cost.

Kindly accept this invitation to visit our showrooms at any time.

Our new goods are now on the floors.

PHONE 89.

T. F. Harrison Co.

Kingston Agents for Vacuum Cleaning System make appointments at the office for Sept.

Look's Cotton Root Compound
The great Uprisings took, and only an effective Monthly Remuneration on which women can depend. Sold in three degrees of strength—No. 1, $1.00; No. 2 for special cases, $3 per box. Sold by all druggists, or send direct to Look's, 100 King Street, Free sample. Address: THE MEDICINE CO., TORONTO, CANADA.

Cheap Sale OF China Matting

Damasks at Reduced Prices.

Get your Sofas and Chairs covered now.

Table Cloths and Portieres at reduced prices.

We want all the room we can get as our Fall Stock will be exceptionally large.

R. McFAUL,
Kingston
Carpet Warehouse.

$2600

WILL BUY A DETACH-ED BRICK

8 rooms, extension kitchen, hot water furnace, in good locality. Rented until May.

STORE PROPERTY

We can sell you a centrally located store property at a figure that will make a good paying investment.

McCANN,

Brock Cor, King St.

CHINAMEN GO TO JAIL AND THEY WILL LOSE THEIR PIGTAILS.

The Celestials Are Obstinate and Will Neither Pay Their Fine or License Tax—Most of the Laundries Are Closed.

At four o'clock Friday afternoon a rather peculiar parade left the police station, in charge of Sergeant Nossitt, and Constables Armstrong and Driscoll. The parade was made up of the seven Chinamen, who were each fined fifteen dollars and sent home.

Friday morning, for non-payment of the recently imposed laundry tax. While confined in police cells, the "chinks" seemed to take things as a huge joke, but later began to realize that the city meant business. Still they were obstinate and would not pay their fines. During the afternoon, other members of their race from other laundries and restaurants, came down to visit them, and brought them fine things to eat. The Celestials seemed to like fruit best and all kinds of it were brought in to them. When a few arrival was let into the corridor by the police he was greeted by yells of delight that would do credit to a gang of supers in a western melomen cannot work until the licenses are paid.

The Vote Was Close.

The vote of the city council to retain the laundry tax at fifty dollars was very close, and there is a good chance that the measure will be repealed when the matter comes before the council this month, as it will. Ten members of the council voted for the fifty dollar tax and nine voted against it. The vote was as follows:

For the Tax—Ald. Carson, Chown, Craig, Clugston, Elliott, Free, Givens, Hartley, McKay, Tweddell 10.

Against the Tax—Mayor Couper and Alds. Angrove, Graham, Hanley, Kent, McCann, Nickle, Rigney, Robertson 9.

Oppose The Tax.

A large number of citizens strongly oppose the $50 laundry tax. "If the poor Chinamen have to pay this amount, why not make the same fee on the laundry women around the city?" asked a citizen, yesterday. "There are a lot of women who do laundry work at home, take in just as much money as some of the Chinamen, and they should be taxed just the same."

A lawyer says that the council had no right to discriminate in the matter, and on that ground alone the by-law can be attacked. No one wants to see the women taxed, of course.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

The Filling of the Pulpits To-Morrow.

Governor C. H. Corbett, of the jail, was seen by the Whig Saturday morning and stated that the Chinamen would be treated the same as ordinary prisoners, only they would not have their hair cut off. They are only in for ten days, and have committed no crime, as they were refusing to pay the license on advice of counsel. The public would have rebelled against any indignity to the Chinese. Governor Corbett is fully capable of meeting the situation.

Chalmers' Presbyterian church, Brock street—the pastor, Rev. W. S. MacTavish, Ph.D., will preach at both services. Sunday school, 3 p.m., missionary Sunday; prayer meeting, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Strangers welcome at all services.

Chalmers' Presbyterian church, Brock and Earl streets—Morning service, Rev. Prof. A. Laird; evening, Rev. R. B. Nelles. Sunday school, 3 p.m., missionary Sunday; prayer meeting, Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Strangers welcome to all the services.

Brock Street Methodist church—Rev. T. E. Burke, B.D., pastor. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The pastor will preach at both services. 10 a.m., class meeting; 3 p.m., Sunday school and Bible classes; Wednesday, 8 p.m., prayer meeting. Strangers made welcome to all services.

First Baptist church—Rev. Douglas Loring, pastor. The pastor will preach at 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m. Rev. T. S. Metruxtry, pastor of the Baptist church at Cork, Ireland, will preach. Bible school at 2:45 p.m. Mrs. Malcolm, of Pembroke, will sing at the evening service. A hearty welcome to strangers to all the services.

St. George's cathedral—8 a.m., celebration of holy communion; 10:15 a.m., matins; 11 a.m., choral celebration and service; 3 p.m., Sunday school; 4:15 p.m., baptisms; 7 p.m., evensong and sermon. Rev. H. D. Gray, B.D., warden of Bradford College, England, will preach morning and evening.

Bethel Congregational church, corner Johnson and Barrie streets—Morning service, 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. D. McCallum; evening service, 7 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Torrance will preach. Sunday school and Bible class, 3 p.m.

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the close of the morning service.

Princess Street Methodist church—Morning preacher, Rev. R. B. Nelles. M.A.; anthem, "Break Forth Into Joy"; solo, by Miss Grace Mitchell. Evening preacher, T. F. Harrison, subject, "Sustenance of the Church"; anthems, "I Will Magnify Thee" and "Blessed is the People"; duet, Miss Grace Mitchell and W. Mack. Organist, Miss L. Wilder.

St. Luke's church—Services, 8 and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. R. S. Forney, B.D., rector. Harvest thanksgiving service, Holy communion, 8 and 11 a.m. Rev. A. H. McGreevy, M.A., will preach in the morning; 3 p.m., Sunday school will re-assemble; 7 p.m., Rev. E. J. Bidwell, D.D., dean of Ontario, will preach. Good music.

Queen-Street Methodist church—Rev. S. Sellery, M.A., B.D., pastor. The pastor will conduct both services tomorrow. 11 a.m., subject, "The Withered Hand"; 7 p.m., "Lopsided Peep." Monthly fellowship meeting, 10 a.m. Sunday school and Bible class, 2:45 p.m. Music on Sunday: Morning anthem, "O Rest In The Lord" (Mendelsohn); solo, "Jesus My Lord" (Holden); Mr. Shea. Evening anthem, "I Will Keep Him In Perfect Peace" (W. A. Burke); solo, "Jesus Meek and Gentle" (Paul Ambrose), Miss Hinckley.

The Garbage System.

The two months' trial for the present garbage system will expire on September 26th, and it is a question what will be done then. The complaints about the present system have been many, and some are of the opinion that the $3500 granted for it was not money well spent.

Had Arm Broken.

As the result of an accident, at Cobourg, on Thursday afternoon, Abraham Shaw, inspector of customs, is confined to his home on University avenue. He had the upper bone in his left arm broken in two places. He received the injuries while assisting to free a horse from a pair of shafts.

Was Further Enlarged.

The case against a citizen, who was charged with a violation of the public health act, in not having his collar in proper condition, has been further enlarged for a week by the magistrate. It is understood that he is doing the work that is required.

Gave Band Concert.

There was a good-sized crowd out to hear the concert given in Macdonald park, last night, by the Salvation Army band. The band rendered a good programme. The concert given this summer have been most successful, & very respect.

See Bibby's new $2 hats.

CHINAMEN GO TO JAIL AND THEY WILL LOSE THEIR PIGTAILS.

men cannot work until the licenses are paid.

The Man On Watch.

The Lampman is pleased that his writings are causing comment, and is also amused at Townsman Glidden's opinions of him. If the ex-inspector will not own him as a friend, then he says he will have to be content with being merely acquaintance. The Lampman is a hard-working tradesman, too modest to reveal himself, but satisfied that his comments upon town topics are concurred in by the great majority. He notes, however, that W. Glidden is not the only one scolding him. The editor of the Freeman is also camping on the trail, and declaring that what the Lampman knows about dancing would not fill a small note book. The Lampman understands that the Freeman editor was quite a dancer in his day, and as the two are now about the same age, he is quite confident that he could outdo his Clarence street challenger in a waltz or two-step. As Mr. Glidden has said adieu, the Lampman wishes to bid him a kind goodbye, and hopes that he will enjoy life for many years to come.

Walking along King street, the Lampman noticed that in the Ontario syndicated building, in which a tavern existed for so many years, and where his old-time friend, the late "Tim" Doonan, used to keep; there is now a cake shop. One kind of refreshment place has been succeeded by another of a more wholesome kind. When Bishop Farthing, Montreal, revisits Kingston, the Lampman thinks he will wear a happy smile as he passes the place and sees that his church is no longer deriving revenue from a gin shop.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

Walking along King street, the Lampman noticed that in the Ontario syndicated building, in which a tavern existed for so many years, and where his old-time friend, the late "Tim" Doonan, used to keep; there is now a cake shop. One kind of refreshment place has been succeeded by another of a more wholesome kind. When Bishop Farthing, Montreal, revisits Kingston, the Lampman thinks he will wear a happy smile as he passes the place and sees that his church is no longer deriving revenue from a gin shop.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business. The town cannot afford to lose any of its inhabitants, even Chinese. A tax on cleanliness is what the Lampman terms the laundry by-law levy.

THE TOWN WATCHMAN.

The imprisonment of the poor Chinamen because they can't pay an unjust laundry tax of ten pounds a year, has roused the townspeople. The Lampman tells me. He himself has his shirts and collars washed by the Chinamen, and wouldn't send them anywhere else. He hopes that all who sympathize with the Chinese will give them their washes washed to do, and so help them to pay their taxes. Then he hopes that the righteous men of Kingston will arise and tell the town council that the unjust law must be repealed. It was made, he declares, to tidy and drive the Chinamen out of business