THE MICROSCOPE

Proves That Parasites Cause Hair Loss.

Nine-tenths of the diseases of the scalp and hair are caused by parasitic germs. The importance of this discovery by Prof. Unna, of the Charity Hospital, Hamburg, Germany, can not be overestimated. It explains why ordinary hair preparations, even of the most expensive character, fail to cure dandruff, because they do not, and they can not kill the dandruff germ.

AN EXPERIMENT THAT PAYS.

The Detroit people have been experimenting with a street emulsion and find that it gives the highest satisfaction. The emulsion is made of cheap oil, water and soap. In specified quantities, it is heated, mixed, and put upon the streets with an ordinary sprinkler. To 250 gallons of the emulsion is added 550 gallons of water, preferably warm, making a total of 800 gallons, and this will cover completely a surface of from 3,000 to 3,500 yards.

The commissioner of roads in Detroit says that the average street will require from two to four treatments in the season, according to its condition and the material of which it is made, but the street should be scraped and relieved of its mud before the emulsion is applied. The oil (Standard) costs in Detroit, 5.1c per gallon, and the soap, 4 1/2c per lb. The cost for 3,500 yards (30x1,050 feet) is $14.42 each time. If given three treatments the cost is $43.20, as against $84 for watering under the usual conditions.

The smaller towns of Canada are preparing to go into the work. Dundas has already experimented, and Galt is about to do the same. The result is twofold: (1) The cost of oil or emulsion is less than the cost of water, and (2) the road wears longer. Note the hard surface which is given the road under traffic when it is oiled. The material becomes compact and hard with a toughened exterior. The watered street wears quickly. The water loosens the material, and the wheels of the heavy vehicles grind the stone.

FUTURE OF THE BOYS.

Quebec is responding to the call, "Give the boys a chance," and on a farm at Shawville many are being taught agriculture as the best occupation of the time and the one calculated to bring them gain. The Montreal Witness, making note of the fact that a youth, claiming Smith's Falls as his home, appeared before a Boston court and pleaded to be sent somewhere in order to learn a trade, remarks: "Boys badly reared, and without training for any calling, are thrown upon the streets to shift for themselves. They drift into bad company, and take to 'chiving' as naturally as ducks to water, because of lack of moral restraint and, being without resources or recommendations, they can find no other way for getting money to supply their wants. Unfortunately there are always older heads only too ready to direct them on the downward path. Every boy should have a chance. The nation that neglects its boys throws away its most valuable asset and sows the seeds of future disaster to blossom in criminal courts and prisons, or, worse still, in the underground world, where sullen rebellion against all authority is nursed and anarchists are bred."

This suggests what the Whig has regarded as a futile attempt to teach boys trades in a criminal institution. The reformatory at Penitenciarie has never paved the way for any boy's success. It crabs, cabins, and confines him. It keeps him out of mischief for the time being. It gives him a smattering knowledge of books, and a mechanical service, but it does not elevate him in character and usefulness. The farm in Shawville is more promising of good. It is better than the technical school, for it takes time to develop mentally as well as physically and indoor work is not conducive to the happiness and comfort of youth.

The crux of the whole matter is that youthful depravity is the outcome of parental neglect. Of this there is no doubt. Every father should see that his boy is educated and given an occupation, in the shop or on the farm. He cannot shirk this duty without the consciousness that he is imperiling the future of his son and perhaps dooming him to a misspent life.

THE HOPE OF IRELAND.

The task of abolishing landlordism in Ireland is expensive, but it is effective. When the Balfour government undertook to do away with some of the Irish discontent it had no adequate idea of the financial obligations it was assuming. These obligations have been made more apparent by the recent legislation which has been adopted and for the purpose of giving further effect to the land conversion scheme. In introducing the new bill Augustus Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, said he found that the estimate of $500,000,000, made by one of his predecessors, George Wyndham, as the amount necessary to satisfy the land hunger of the tenants was totally inadequate; $800,000,000 would be required. The complete transfer of land represented $125,000,000, which had practically exhausted the amount realized from the issue of land stock. Pending transactions represented $260,000,000. The government intended to raise the money necessary to complete these transactions, leaving about $500,000,000 to be dealt with later.

The secretary proposed an issue of new three per cent. stock. He recognized that he was engaged in an extensive policy, but he declared that land purchase had worked such marvels in Ireland that the government did not hesitate to ask the house of commons to add materially to the burdens of the Imperial exchequer, which he proposed should assume liability for the entire loss caused by the issue of the stock below par. This loss would total $3,300,000 a year.

The imperial parliament passed the bill by a large majority, and with, of course, the concurrence of the entire Irish party. There is brooding in Ireland and there seems to be an end of the harrowing scenes which formerly made life in the old land among the peasantry exceedingly hard. The days of eviction for non-payment of rent have nearly passed. The man who wants to own his own land and make the best use of it can do so under the land act. He pays a sum equal to his rent, and a little more, and in a few years the land is his.

The government meanwhile is his banker, and makes him loans at three per cent. taking a lien on the property and finding it ample security for the millions that are advanced. No such change was contemplated a few years ago. It points to a happy solution of some of Ireland's grievances, and is a happy and hopeful spirit.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The ten minute service of cars one way may not do on a fine day when people prefer to walk, but for a day like yesterday it was inadequate and unsatisfactory. The cabbies had their reward.

The church bodies are passing their protests against race gambling and the chartering of companies "with all the modern accessories." Perhaps the governments will eventually realize the force of public opinion.

Jupiter Pluvius mercifully waited until about two thousand persons had got into the fair grounds, yesterday, and then came the splash. Couldn't have timed the thing better had he been managing the fair.

Chamberlain is anxious that the lords shall throw out the imperial budget and force an election. He has no doubt about the result, but there are others who have. Asquith has challenged the trio to do their prettiest.

Balfour has been prodded into activity by the energy of Rosebery. The one is the reputed leader of the conservative party, the other of the dukes and landholders, and Chamberlain, the radical, blesses the curious combination.

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER.

A Straight Talk From Rev. Dr. Elliott.

Rev. Dr. Elliott, professor of philosophy in Wesley College, Winnipeg, one of the great men in Canadian Methodism, gave the preachers a frank talk on their work and on themselves. His subject was "The Christian Minister," and he told of his aims, his methods, the things he should do and the things he ought not to do. "God never called a man nor a selfish man into the ministry," he said. There had been complaint, he stated, that there was not a higher respect for the ministry, but ministers were receiving all the respect they deserved. "The minister," he declared, "should be the broadest, noblest, manliest man grace can produce this side of heaven. He should never let the service degenerate into an entertainment in which he gives a fifteen-minute talk to keep up appearances. The wonder is that preaching is as popular as it is to-day. So much indifferent work has been done. There's great hunger for good preaching, but I hate sensational clap-trap."

Dr. Elliott also censured the appearance at church of "star singers," who sometimes did not have a rag of reputation. "A trust, which apparently was appreciated, was, 'We should visit our congregations, but we must not go to their homes to practice economy in our own, nor to while away an hour.'"

SCHOOL OF MINING

APPOINTMENT TO DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY.

W. O. Walker, M.A., Made Associate Professor—Dr. Guttman Selected As An Assistant Professor—Other Selections.

W. O. Walker, M.A., who had been offered the professorship of chemistry in a western college, has been advanced from the position of lecturer to that of associate professor. George G. Guttman, Ph. D., F.I.C., A.C.G.I., has been appointed as assistant professor. Dr. Guttman has had a distinguished career both as a student and as a teacher. He is a son of Dr. Oscar Guttman, the English authority on explosives. He spent three years at Central Technical College, London, where he obtained the diploma as civil engineer (A.C.G.I.). He then attended the University of Heidelberg, at Leipzig, Germany, where he received his M.A. degree in four years, obtaining the degree of Ph.D. (multa cum laude). After this he was assistant to Sir William Ramsay at University College, London, for two and one-half years. He then left England as chief Carnegie research assistant, Professor Baskerville at the college of the City of New York, where after six months he was appointed to the teaching staff of the same college. After four years teaching experience in New York he now comes to the School of Mining. The extent and completeness of Dr. Guttman's training should make him a highly valued member of the staff of the department of chemistry.

The positions formerly held by Dr. Eirth and Dr. Dickson have been filled by the appointment of Walter D. Bonner, M.A., and Rodger J. Manning, M.A. Mr. Bonner graduated at Yale's Wesleyan university in 1906. He then spent two years in the study of chemistry at Princeton university where he obtained the degree of M. A. During the past year he has been completing his work for the Ph.D. degree, as well as assisting with the teaching at the University of Toronto. Mr. Manning is a Canadian and received his education in chemistry at the University of Toronto. Since graduation in 1906 he has been teaching the subject, as well as working for the Ph. D. degree, at his alma mater. He comes to the School of Mining with the best of recommendations.

The fellowship in chemistry established by Dr. Milton Hersey, Montreal, has been filled by the appointment of J. A. McNeil, M.A., a recent graduate of Queen's. Mr. McNeil will do research work and assist with the teaching.

REMAINS AT DENBIGH

Instead of Settling in New Ontario.

Denbigh, Sept. 20.—William Chatsworth, who, during his trip through parts of New Ontario, has been so favorably impressed with the business prospects there that he intended to remove to, and open business at Englishman, has changed his mind, and will, for some time longer at least, remain here. He has started with a gang of men, to repair the dams and improvements on Snake Creek for the Gillies Bros. company.

William Blackly started, last week, again with a gang of men to extend the lines of the grant made by the provincial government for repairing the Addington Colonization Road, between here and the township of Lynedoch.

Rudolph Stein, who some time ago went to New Ontario, got typhoid fever there, and is now in the Reston hospital. Dr. J. Adams has been keeping bachelor's hall lately. Mrs. Adams being away to Kingston, visiting her son and relatives.

Rev. J. Reble has been considerably away from home lately. On Sunday before last he was assisting Rev. G. Daeschel, of Rankin, to conduct some missionary services there. The week following he attended the sessions of the eastern conference of the Lutheran synod of Canada, held at Arnprior. Last Sunday he held a series of missionary services in Raglan, in which he was assisted by Rev. William Kupfer, of Arnprior, and this week he intends to make a trip to Montreal, and be back in time to conduct service here on Sunday next. Mrs. Reble has enjoyed a week's visiting with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Brackebush, of Eganville, and is this week the guest of Rev. and Mrs. William Kupfer, of Arnprior.

Miss Emma Stein, of Ottawa, who has enjoyed nearly two months' visit to the capital. Her sister, Louise, who is yet the guest of her father, P. Stein, will follow her also in a few days, to resume her former situation. Misses Martha Petzold and Elsa Falk also left for Ottawa, where they have accepted social situations. Miss Jennie John, of Oswego, who visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William John, here, has also returned to the Yankee town.

Messrs. J. S. Lane and Herman Glaeser are each building an addition to their dwellings by adding frame kitchen and woodshed. Julius Glaeser left, Monday morning, for Toronto, where he intends to engage again in the shaving business, or to open again a barber establishment of his own.

Hoping For The Best.

By S. E. Kiser. Willie's gone away to college, but we're hoping for the best: They will tie knots in his trousers and sew up his vest; They will haze him to a frazzle, they will throw him in a well, And they'll break his bones for him if he ever dares to tell. They will teach him lots of habits we have warned him he should shun; They will press him into football, and they'll break his bones for fun; They'll convince him that his studies are of no account at all, And despite him if he doesn't mix in every silly brawl. He will have to learn that proxy is unworthy of respect. And become a noisy ruffian to be one of the elect; They'll endeavor to persuade him that the course is all a jest; Willie's gone away to college, but we're hoping for the best. A shave isn't a shave unless you have used a Vim stropper. Ask to see the one demonstrated at Gibson's Red Cross drug store.

CAUGHT IN A TRAP.

Murdered Man Had a Rival Who is Missing.

Central Exp. Long Island, Sept. 21.—While investigating the murder of Irving J. Nelson, the politician and democratic leader, who was assassinated early Tuesday morning while driving homeward, after taking Miss Gertrude Lipke to a dance, the police have discovered that a man formerly employed at the State Insane asylum there is missing. This man is alleged to have been violently in love with Miss Lipke, and to have threatened Nelson because of his attentions to the young nurse. A black cap, identified as the property of the missing guard, has been found near the scene of the murder. The police are still holding the wife of the dead man and her boarder, Augustus Schwartz, as material witnesses.

New Land Discovered.

New York, Sept. 23.—During his interview with reporters, Dr. Cook explained rhapsodically what he meant in his report at Copenhagen about 30,000 square miles he had opened to the world. He had not used the expression "30,000 square miles of land," he insisted. What he meant was that he had a horizon of fifteen miles on either side of him on his way to the pole, and by the 30,000 square miles he meant all the land drifting ice, everything that he believed he had been the first to cross—"30,000 square miles cut out of the terrestrial unknown," he put it. His most important discovery of land, he said, lay from forty to fifty miles to the west of him, when first he saw it. He is sure he could not have mistaken a cloud or fog for this land. The lower part of it is mountainous, he said, and the northern part a high plateau. He did not try to reach it, for, he explained, "If I had tried to do that I could not have reached the pole."

Mr. and Mrs. Walker and daughter, Portsmouth, visited at B. Goulter's on Sunday. Mrs. Martha Sherbinau, Kingston, spent several weeks at J. Clark's.

Another Contest

EVERYBODY STARTS IN THIS ONE WHICH IS CORRECT. DO WE COOK BY GAS OR DO WE COOK WITH GAS? In the City of St. Louis a general discussion upon the above two sentences has been stirred up and its interest has become widespread. In fact some of the investigators have put it up to the learned heads to solve the problem. It would seem to be an easy matter to settle which expression is correct. Grammatically speaking we are not going to put ourselves on record, but "BY" Gas are well up in the running, while those who failed to get the pipe installed in their homes this summer had better file their application at the office of the works, before it is too late to enjoy the benefit derived by the above named sentences.
