HAIR WON'T FALL OUT.

If You Kill the Dandruff Germ With the New Treatment.

John N. Fuller, a well-known citizen of Colfax, Wash., says: "I had dandruff so badly that it caked on my scalp. Herpicide completely cured me." George H. McWhirk, of Walla Walla, says: "Herpicide completely cured me of a bad case of dandruff of thirty years' standing." They took the only really sensible treatment, a remedy that destroys the dandruff germ—Newbro's Herpicide. Stop dandruff, hair won't fall out, but will grow naturally, luxuriantly. Allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. One bottle will convince any doubter of its merits.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. $1 bottles guaranteed. G. W. Mahood, special agent.

ADRIFT IN RAPIDS

EXCURSIONISTS HAVE TERRIFYING EXPERIENCES.

In the Treacherous Rapids Near to Montreal—The "Rapids Queen" Drifting Helpless in Split Rock Rapids During Darkness, With Terrific Thunderstorm Raging.

Montreal Standard.

One of the most exciting trips which has ever been made down through the rapids of the St. Lawrence river, between Cornwall and Montreal, has just been brought to a conclusion by that fine steamer of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, the Rapids Queen, being run aground just above the Cascades Rapids, near Montreal, where she now remains.

The Rapids Queen left Cornwall for Montreal, at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning with about 250 excursionists on board who had been making the trip down through the Thousand Islands.

Everything went well until the Cedar Rapids were reached, when the steering gear gave way, leaving the captain no alternative but to run the nose of the vessel in the mud. Repairs were quickly effected, and then it was found impossible to get the vessel off under her own steam. A man was therefore sent ashore to telephone to Kingston for a tug, and after a wait of 17 hours the tug Chieftain arrived and pulled her off.

Meanwhile the passengers had a most terrifying experience. The night was an extremely dark one, and the roaring of the rapids, in the middle of which the vessel had run aground, was soon augmented by the roar of what the passengers declared was one of the fiercest thunderstorms they had ever known. Such tremendous velocity did the wind attain that it broke the cable by which the boat was moored to a tree, and the vessel was quickly blown out into the rapids.

Shrieking women, sobbing children and shouting men added to the general excitement. The propeller was set working again, and once more the vessel dug her bows into the mud, the propellor being kept working for the rest of the night in order to hold her there.

The Chieftain arrived about midday on Friday and after floating the Rapids Queen and turning her round, the latter started off once more on her journey to Montreal. This time she got down through the Cedar Rapids safely, and a short time afterwards began the run down through the Split Rock Rapids. Hardly had she entered the rushing and foaming waters of these rapids when her new steering gear broke down and with a series of tremendous bumps and crashes, she was carried swiftly downstream at the mercy of the curren.

The captain immediately blew signals of distress, which brought the Chieftain rushing again to the rescue down through the Split Rock rapids. All the exciting experiences which the passengers had gone through were as nothing to the situation which now confronted them, for the vessel was already badly damaged, and for all they knew with bottom partly torn out, they were now confronted by the Cascade Rapids, the most dangerous of all, towards which the boat was rapidly drifting.

Fortunately the Chieftain managed to run alongside the Rapids Queen before the Cascade Rapids were reached, and after nearly ramming her amidship in the turbulent water, managed to get lashed to her and run her aground once more, just in the nick of time. Aground she still remains, with the Split Rock Rapids roaring above her, and the Cascade Rapids roaring below her.

The extent of the damage is not yet known, but it is considerable, for the passengers state that the bows of the boat are all crumpled up as a result of collision with rocks.

The sleeping accommodation on the boat was by no means sufficient to accommodate all the passengers, many of whom had to get what snatches they could by lying down on the deck.

On the boat were quite a number of people who are going to Europe, and who expected to get away on the week end boats. Their experiences in the rapids have therefore, delayed them a week, for they did not reach Montreal till to-day instead of Thursday, being brought in from Vaudreuil on the train.

Curtis W. Coe, who was one of the passengers on the unfortunate vessel, was considerably dissatisfied with the manner in which the plans were made for transferring the passengers to the city. He stated that after the steering gear broke in the first instance and the pilot ran the boat ashore he and a number of other passengers asked to be put on land. There was ample time for this to have been done, but the captain, he stated, insisted that all those on board remain where they were. The line that was run ashore broke like a thread. Mr. Coe stated that the material used was so old and worn that it could not have born any heavy strain. The passengers were unable to get any satisfaction from the captain, and he was very much surprised at the coolness with which the passengers, ladies included, took the experience.

Tidings From Tamworth.

Tamworth, Sept. 24.—Rev. Mr. Wright is visiting his sister, Mrs. Lockridge. Mrs. John Sherman, of Kingston, is visiting Mrs. James Aylesworth. L. J. House and Miss Aliza Hinchey were married at Christ church on Sunday last. Mr. Postlewaite, of Mattawa, is visiting friends. S. Storings died on Tuesday. The funeral took place on Thursday to the Methodist church. The sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Dixon. Russell Chown, Edmonton, and Mrs. Amey, of Moscow, visited James L. Whalen for a few days last week. The Tamworth fair turned out a success. The rain came down in the afternoon making it a little unpleasant. The foot race was won by Cole, of Deseronto. The Sulphite boys played ball with the Tamworth team. Score 8 to 7 in favor of Sulphite.
