WOLFE ISLAND FAIR

THE EXHIBITS WERE BETTER THAN EVER.

Junior Victorias, of Kingston, defeated Wolfe Island, at Baseball—One Horse Race Was Run on Tuesday Afternoon.

The Wolfe Island fair opened on Tuesday afternoon, and the weather was hand-out sunshine. On the opening day everything and every person was busy. By noon nearly all the exhibits were in place, neatly and tastefully arranged, only awaiting the expert eye of the judges to pin on the red, blue or yellow ticket.

The exhibits this year are larger than last in nearly all branches. The display of vegetables is exceptionally good, and the judges were very busy all afternoon awarding prizes. The fruit display was also good. In the horticultural hall, the woman's work and perishable articles were displayed and those were certainly worth going to see. Miss Sutherland, the judge, had an exceedingly difficult time deciding on the winners in many events.

Along both sides of the grounds the live stock was arranged, and the exhibit drew forth many words of praise. In the horse and cattle grades the showing was exceptionally good, far better than in other years. Sheep and pigs were also well represented, and the poultry exhibit was fine. All these exhibits were greatly augmented on Wednesday.

Vics Won At Baseball.

The baseball game, between the Junior Victorias and the Senior Wolfe Islanders, was anything but a friendly one, as far as the islanders were concerned. The first kick was over five of the Vics' team. The game was "over" and, after much persuasion the Islanders agreed to play, providing they received half the purse whether they lost or won.

The game commenced at 3:45 o'clock, instead of 2:30 o'clock, and was really a fair exhibition of ball, as all the petty kicks were eliminated. At the end of the eighth innings the Vics led, four runs to three. Then in the ninth the Islanders got two, making it five to four. The Vics came back strong in their half, and with one out, Williams scored, and Robinson was on third, when some one rushed on the field and Robinson stole home. The person who rushed on the field called the game on account of darkness, and wanted the game to stand five runs all.

The teams lined up as follows:

	R.	H.	E.
Walsh, 1b.	0	0	1
Reid, 2b.	1	0	0
Millan, mt.	0	1	0

After a record of a year's run at the Gaiety theatre, London, and a similar period at the Casino, New York, "Havana," the George Edwards' musical play, will be seen here Monday night, and which will be seen here Thursday, Sept. 30th, at the Grand. This is what the Toronto World says:

"Eight curtain calls and uproarious demands for a speech" at the close of the second act, and six recalls at the close, are any token of public favor, "Le Wolf Hopper" and "A Matinee Idol" at the Princess last night were certainly triumphantly close to the hearts in front. Till the last moment the fun was fast and furious. Every line had a double meaning and elicited roars of laughter."

"A Matinee Idol" is remarkable for the possession of a real plot, not a thread of nonsense, but a compacted, logical and wildly ridiculous web of screaming absurdity, which affords a long series of ridiculous situations, all of which are fully availed of in the compilation of the dialogue. It is not too difficult to follow, though it would take paragraphs to explain and everybody will want to see it himself again.

The game commenced at 3:45 o'clock, on Wednesday morning, the firemen received a telephone call to Davis' tannery, where the roof was burning. When the men from both stations arrived, the tannery employees had the fire under control, by using their own hose, and the services of the city brigade were not needed. The sparks from the smokestack of one of the tannery buildings were driven on the roof by the wind, setting it on fire. Very little damage was done, and it was fully covered by insurance.

Citizens who were on Ontario street when the above call came in were greatly pleased with the way the men got out. When the alarm came in, Driver Frank Burns was down near the M. T. Co.'s offices, exercising the horses on horseback. He galloped to the station, and before some men who were at Polson's could get to the station, about a block away, the wagon passed them going out.

One team from the upper station was also exercising, but everyone got out in record time, the steamer pulling out with heavy smoke pouring from her stack.

Was A Slight Fire.

The firemen received an alarm from box No. 2, at the corner of York and Division streets, on Tuesday afternoon, when a chimney in the house occupied by W. Hogan, 103 York street, was burning. The damage was very slight, a few pails of water putting out the flames.

The Horse Races.

Only one horse race was pulled off on Tuesday, the Kingston township race, and was a fast one. The race was in mile heats, best three in five, and was won as follows:

Lucy Right (O'Brien) 1.1.2.1.
Dan Caesar (McAdoo) 2.2.2.2.
May (Michee) 3.3.3.3.

Time—3.15, 3.10, 3.08, 3.05.

Judges—Michael Griffin and C. W. Horne.

Every heat was fast and close, considering the track, and the spectators were well pleased. Fine races were pulled off Wednesday.

OF DECIDED ADVANTAGE.

To Have Medical Professor As Health Officer.

The appointment of a medical professor of Queen's University as medical health officer of the city is regarded as a wise act of the city council. There is connected with Queen's Medical College a public health department, at the head of which is Dr. W. T. Connell, the noted bacteriologist and pathologist. Associated with Dr. Connell in this work is Dr. Williamson, the new health officer, and it can easily be seen what benefit this will be to the city, which will have a health officer who is expert in bacteriological work. It is also understood that Dr. Williamson will probably have the benefit of the sanitary science students of the medical college, who can be utilized in making reports upon local sanitary conditions.

The new health officer will have at his back his associates on the medical college staff. All this will be to the city's advantage.

The medical health officer began duties yesterday, on notification by the mayor, and his first act was to pay a visit to the city refuge, whose inmates have been without regular medical attention for several weeks.

Another Outbreak Unlikely.

Dr. Williamson, medical health officer, does not think that any such contagious disease outbreak like that of a year ago will disturb Kingston for years. He says that the fact of such a large proportion of the inhabitants having been vaccinated will deter any further spread of the disease, and furthermore, the city is now prepared with an isolation hospital which it didn't have a year ago.

Painters On Strike.

About ten painters, employed by A. McMahon & Co., were on strike, Monday, over the employment of non-union labor. The men were on strike several months ago for the same cause. One man working for the firm is not a union man, and the union painters refused to work with him, unless he came into the union. This the man refused to do, and he was not discharged. As it is against the labor laws for the men to work with him, and as they gave him every chance to join, the only alternative left them was to strike and this they did on Monday morning.

A few meetings have been held, but no agreement was reached.

"A KNIGHT FOR A DAY."

Musical Comedy at the Grand Last Night.

"The critics may roar, But what the people like most, Is to whistle as you walk out."

The above are lines in one of the cateney songs in "A Knight For a Day," which returned to the Grand last night, and as a musical comedy gave entire satisfaction. Two other songs, "Life Is a See-Saw," and "Little Girl in Blue," are also very catchy, and bound to make a person whistle or hum the tunes. Did you not hear them on the street to day?

In "A Knight For a Day," there is indeed a rare treat. The music is indeed a rare treat. The many people of the show are Miss Hilda Thomas, as Tilke, and George Ovey, as Jonathan Joy, and they kept the audience in a continued roar of laughter. You just have to laugh—in fact their eloquence seems made some in the audience scream with delight. Miss Louise Shepherd, leading soloist, has a most graceful appearance, and is a charming singer. She was repeatedly encored in her "Little Girl in Blue" and "See-Saw." The electrical effects for the See-Saw were the finest ever put on the stage here. There are also some other clever features. Every member of the company sang well. One girl, in the grand opera, part of the whistling song, has a magnificent voice but, unfortunately, is only heard for a short time.

Hopper's Big Success.

Not in many years have the Toronto papers been so enthusiastic about a new musical play as they have been over "Le Wolf Hopper" new vehicle.

"A Matinee Idol" which was produced here Monday night, and which will be seen here Thursday, Sept. 30th, at the Grand. This is what the Toronto World says:
