PAID HEAVY FINE FOR SELLING LIQUOR TO MAN ON "INDIAN LIST."

Dealer Points Out Great Difficulty of Keeping Track of Those on the List—The Other Fines Imposed.

In police court, this morning, Magistrate Farrell imposed a fine of $50 and costs, or twenty days, on the proprietor of a liquor store, for selling a bottle of whisky to a man on the "prohibited list." The man accused of being drunk, said he procured the liquor at this store. The dealer had his clerks in court, and the man identified one of them as the person who had sold him the liquor. The clerk said that he remembers seeing the man in the store, but was not sure whether he had sold him any liquor or not. The proprietor pointed out to the magistrate how difficult it was to keep track of all the members of the list. No liquor was ever sold to people on the list if they were identified. There was no money in this trade and he did not cater to it.

The magistrate pointed out, however, that no such plea could be accepted. The law made it so that every licensee holder must take responsibility of not selling to members on the list.

The dealer said that every effort was put forth by himself and clerks to become acquainted with the people on the list.

"Better have them all photographed in a group," said the magistrate. The dealer pointed out that it was a great hardship on him, when he was endeavoring to carry out the law. The member of the "prohibited list" who purchased the liquor, was fined $10 and costs, or twenty days.

A woman on the list, accused of drunkenness, was fined $10 and costs. She said she got the liquor from a neighbor. Another woman was fined $1 and costs, or ten days, for being drunk.

A charge against a citizen, that of procuring liquor for a member of the "prohibited list," was dismissed. The member of the list was found guilty of being drunk and fined $10 and costs.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.
Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up By Reporters on Their Rounds.

Special dip-hip corsets, 65c. New York Dress Reform.
Best $2.50 boys' suits in the city at Roney & Co's.

George B. Jones, of the House of Commons, Toronto, is in the city on business.

If you want a swell overcoat for $15 Roney & Co's is the place to get it.

The bar of Ungava, of the M.T. Co., ran into the cement wharf at Port Dalhousie and suffered slight injuries. During the month of September the import duties collected at the Kingston customs house amounted to $14,719.54.

Don't let it worry you when the servant girl leaves. You can have another in a few hours by using or reading the "Whig's Little 'Want Ads.'" William Marshall, Kingston, has been put on the executive committee of the Ontario Licensed and Allied Trades Association.

"Keep me in the house," a good hot-water bottle. It pays to buy them at Gibson's Bed Cross drug store, Phone 230.

James McManus, committed for trial by the magistrate, for assault, will appear before Judge Price, on Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock.

In this city of good homes, many people have an extra room to rent. Ask "Whig's Little 'Want Ads.'" A resident of Sydenham was about to have a summons issued against the keeper of a slaughter house there, for neglecting to keep his premises in a sanitary condition, but the keeper has promised to make some needed alterations and the case was dropped.

A Rare Autograph.
Philadelphia Ledger.
"What is the most expensive autograph you ever sold?" inquired the reporter.

"That of Thomas Lynch, jr.," answered the dealer. The reporter looked perfectly blank. "Never heard of him," he confessed.

TURTLES AND THEIR EGGS.

The Mother Turtle Takes No Great Care of Them.

Turtles lay their eggs in the sand and let the sun bake them out. They do not lay them all in one place probably because they think it safer to scatter them. Then, even though one be stolen or broken, the others may escape. The mother turtle covers them all carefully up, one after another, with a thin sprinkling of sand and then apparently never gives them another thought, considering her maternal duty done. Certain it is that she has never been discovered going near these egg babies again, and when they hatch at last the tiny soft-backed creatures at once begin crawling around in search of food and other food as independently as if there were no such thing as a mother in the world. A little girl who found one of these odd oblong turtle eggs on a sandy river bank in Louisiana took it home and put it in a tin can for a table for safe keeping. A few hours later a slight noise was noticed in that direction, and on looking in the cup again she found a baby turtle, full fledged, but tiny, scrambling about among the bits of its broken eggshell cradle.

He Was The Same Man.

London, Tit-Bits.
A prominent merchant of Sheffield recently accented a gentleman on the street with:

"Good morning, Mr. Johnson. How is coal today?"

"Well," responded the other, "I am not much acquainted with the coal market, but I can ascertain the price if it will accommodate you."

"I beg pardon," laughed the merchant. "I really thought you were Mr. Johnson, the coal dealer. You certainly resemble him."

A few days later the merchant entered a tram car and, seating himself beside a gentleman, exclaimed heartily:

"Well, Mr. Johnson, I'm glad to recognize you today. I made a laughable mistake one day last week. I mistook another man for you and, addressing him very familiarly, asked how coal was. He looked amused and replied that he did not know much about coal, but would inquire if it would accommodate me. Then I looked at him and saw that he was a perfect stranger. It really was laughable. Mr. Johnson, but he looked so much like you."

"Yes," responded the gentleman, looking more amused, "and I am that same party again."

The merchant recognizes no more coal dealers.

A Sensible Breakfast.

The staple, or what the French call the piece de resistance, of a breakfast should consist of some form of meat, fish, eggs or milk, or its equivalent in starch or sugar, like bread, toast or cakes, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in the Woman's Home Companion.

These may be supplemented by hot breads, jams or biscuits, with the proper medium of fat in the shape of butter, and the alkaline salts in the shape of some fruit or preserves or syrup upon cakes, and an accessory or appetizer in the form of tea, coffee or cocoa.

The so-called cereals and breakfast foods ought not to be made the mainstay of the breakfast. As accessories and useful, but they lack seriously in steaming power, in proportion to their weight, bulk and power of satisfying the appetite.

What He Escaped.

Westminster, Graphic Banbury, in the Budget debate on Monday, said, "I have to pay the duty on German stocks if I live here. If I live in Germany I should not pay it." Mr. Asquith replied: "I hesitate to contemplate the preservation of the public life of this country would sustain if the hon. Baronet were to migrate to Germany in order to escape the extra 2d. He would find himself liable to pay a 2d. tax in Germany for every pound of the income he enjoyed."

Shank's Mare.

"I haven't got a limousine, or any automobile, haven't got a coach and six, not even a special train; I haven't got a bicycle nor yet a horse and team. I get along all right, by jinks, 'tbout gasoline or steam. I travel jest by shank's mare an' never see no fear but what I'll reach my stoppin' place the same day in the year. No artificial rigs for me, no nusted tires or bones, no leadin' all up in a heap upon the highway stones. I may be slow a-gettin' round an' cause the world to stare, but I'll git there by an' by all right side up with care."

Swiss Flags.

The Swiss flag is red, and it bears a Greek cross in its center. The Swissers declared their independence in 1307, and at the battle of Morgarten, 1315, where the Austrian army was defeated, they carried a plain red flag, without any device. During the seventeenth century a white cross was added, though it is said that the cross appeared on some Swiss flags as early as 1339. The different cantons of Switzerland have different coats of arms and different flags.

Telephone Language.

Youths' Companion.
Rev. Mr. Spices had for three days enjoyed the telephone, which had been his last gift from an admirer. He had been using it immediately before going to church. When the time came for him to announce the hymn he rose and with his usual impressive manner read the words. Then in a crisp firm tone he said: "Let us all unite in hymn six, double o, sing three."

CONFIRMED IN SEAT BUT THERE SHOULD BE FURTHER INQUIRY.

This is What the Judges Will Notify the Speaker—Said Other Petitions Will Be Dropped.

Special to the Whig.
Charlottetown, P.E.I., Oct. 1.—The judge in the petition against A. Z. Fraser, conservative member for King's county, yesterday, confirmed the defendant in his seat, though they stated that they would notify the speaker that there should be a further enquiry. Counter petition against his opponent, J. J. Hughes, was dropped, also a charge of violation of independence of parliament.

THEY WERE ALL LUCKY.

Old Farmer Did Not Pay For Lottery Ticket.

Spare Moments.
An old farmer of the county of Durham called at roadside public house where he was well known. The landlady asked him to buy a ticket for a lottery they had on there.

"Well," he said, "I have naught in my pocket, or I might."

"Oh, that's a real John," she says; "take the ticket, and pay for it any time."

Some time later John called again, and the landlady asked him if he knew who had won the lottery.

"No," he said, "Who won?"

"Well, I hardly could tell you, but Sam won. Wasn't he lucky?"

"Aye," said John, "he was lucky. And who was second then?"

"I durst hardly tell you. Who would you think now?" she said.

"I couldn't say," said John.

"Well, it was O' Sally. Wasn't she lucky?"

"Aye, she was lucky," said John.

"And who was third?" he asked.

"Well," she said, "you would never guess, and I might as well tell. I was third. Wasn't I lucky?"

"You were for that ticket, Missus?"

"No, John, you didn't," she said, frowning upon him.

"Well," said John, "isn't I lucky?"

Miss Annabella McKenzie, Prescott, aged eighty years, was found unconscious from coal gas, in the little cottage where she lived alone. All efforts to restore her have been unavailing to the general election.

Sick Headache And Indigestion

The Former is Very Frequently Caused by The Other.

The pneumo-gastric nerve connects the stomach region directly with the brain, and when the stomach is out of order the head is almost certain to be affected through reflex or sympathetic nervous irritation.

The headache of dyspepsia and indigestion is of every variety from the dulldest and least defined to the most acute pain. Sometimes the whole mass of the brain seems racked with anguish; at others, the ache is confined to the back or front part of the head. The first form is usually of a confused character, and is often accompanied by dimness of vision, and a mild vertigo, or so-called "rush of blood to the head." The victims of this symptom complain of a "swimming" or "lightness" in the head, and dizziness, or a sensation of motion while the body is still, and specks, or flashes of light before the eyes.

Persons subject to indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble, are very frequent sufferers from headache, and in numerous cases a sick headache is the only noticeable symptom of indigestion present; in others, there are stomach manifestations as well.

The majority of people regard this headache as a separate disease, instead of a symptom of stomach troubles, which it usually is, and they attempt to treat it separately, and make the mistake of endeavoring to obtain relief through the use of headache powders, tablets, pills and setzers, the use of which is extremely dangerous, as many of them contain such powerful depressant drugs as acetanilid, phlogestine, atropine, caffeine, etc., which depress the heart, brain and nerve centers, and lower arterial pressure, and many a person with a weak heart has become dangerously ill shortly after taking one of these headache remedies. They also interfere with the digestive processes, and actually make the dyspepsia worse than before.

In order to get rid of the headache of indigestion—and most headaches are caused by stomach trouble—one should endeavor to reach and remove the cause, and the headache effect will soon be relieved.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS do not cure the symptoms; they cure the cause of the headache, which permanently removes the symptoms. They digest every atom of food in the stomach, cure all forms of stomach trouble, and the headache, and every other disagreeable symptom and untoward effect is quickly gotten rid of.

Don't make the mistake of trying to cure your dyspeptic or nervous headache through the use of headache powders, tablets, etc. Use common sense, good judgment, and one of two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and you will be agreeably surprised at the rapidity with which the headache will be relieved, and cured simultaneously with the relief and cure of the stomach disturbance.

An Awkward Compliment.
Washington Star.
Inspector General Hornaday, of the Grand Army of the Republic, was relating incidents of famous national encampments.

"I remember a little Jap who attended one of our banquets," he said, smiling, "and a queer compliment that he paid to a colored wife."

"I sat between the two, and the lady said across me:

"Mr. Takashiro, you compress the ladies' feet in your country, don't you?"

"Oh, no, madam, that is a Chinese custom," said the Jap. "We Japanese allow our ladies' feet to grow to their full size. Not that—"

"And he bowed and kissed in the polite Japanese way."

"Not that they could ever hope to rival yours, madam."
