THE INFANTS' HOME

THE ANNUAL MEETING HELD ON TUESDAY.

Dr. Ross is the New Physician to the Home—Report of the Year's Work—The Financial Report.

The annual meeting of the Infants' Home subscribers was held at the institution on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, Edward J. B. Pense presiding. In attendance were Mrs. W. Macneil, Mrs. C. Macpherson, Mrs. D. J. Law, Mrs. William Lesslie, Mrs. E. J. B. Pense, Mrs. Vere Hooper, Mrs. John Gaslin, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mrs. W. B. Nelles, Mrs. F. Ireland, Mrs. George McGowan, Dean Bidwell, Mayor Couper and Dr. A. E. Ross. The meeting was opened with prayer by Dean Bidwell to the report of the president, Mrs. W. Macneil, was as follows: "The past year has again prospered and in every way the working of the Home has improved. There has been no sickness of any epidemic form, the health of both adults and children being generally good. Through the year fifty-one children and fourteen adults were cared for and at present there are twenty-one children and five adults in the home. Four children who had been in the home since infancy were transferred to the Orphan's Home, having reached the age of three years. One infant, who was picked up on the street, was adopted and has a good home. The annual tea was held in April at the home of Mrs. Macneil and $125 was raised. A most successful garden party was held at Oranawa-da, the residence of Mrs. Pense. Throughout the year a special effort was made by each committee to raise $25. This was successfully done and the finances of the home were materially benefited thereby. In the removal of J. H. Bell from the city the home lost a valuable friend, who was always ready to come when his services were required, never thinking anything a trouble. Through Mrs. Thompson's and Miss Ferguson's good executive abilities we all feel the management of the home has risen beyond what even the most sanguine could have hoped for. Thanks is returned to all our friends who have helped us during the past year, especially at Christmas time.

LAW DOES NOT OFFER

ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO WORKINGMAN

In Regard to Accidents—Address By Prof. Skelton on "Industrial Insurance and the Workingman."

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the alumni conference, Prof. O. D. Skelton delivered an able address on "Industrial Insurance and the Workingman." The speaker was introduced to the large audience by Rev. H. T. Wallace, B.D., secretary of the association.

PROF. O. D. SKELTON.

ready having procured legislation of this type, and it is anticipated that the Ontario assembly will soon take active measures along this line.

The speaker emphatically substantiated the recent report of the English poor law committee dealing with the problem of the unemployed, offering as remedies:

1. The regularization of work. Fewer days and shorter hours.
2. Government promotion of public works in times of social depression, in order to provide employment.
3. That the government institute a system of labor exchange, dovetailing reasonable trades, and the drainage of stagnant pools of labor.
4. That national insurance must meet these demands, owing to the inadequacy of private companies. Trade unionism apparently the best solution now in existence, but this by no means complete.

Prof. Skelton pointed out that the aggravated conditions of the old law did not exist in Canada, but extensive immigration was presenting problems which alone can be solved by technical education and through the instrumentality of trade unions.

In speaking of individual saving, pension funds, compulsory insurance, state grants, fraternal societies, the speaker referred to them as being a boon to people in case of sickness and disease. He pronounced the old age annuity scheme as ideal. The system of state aid as at present existing in England and New Zealand is admirable, but here in Canada the aim could not be one of absolute elimination of these conditions, but rather what remedies should be prescribed to alleviate, which object can alone be attained by keeping forever open wide the door of opportunity, to offer to the laborer the fruits of the land and then leave him to the working out of his own salvation.

Prof. Robert Laird then tendered to the speaker the appreciation of the meeting at the same time urging men of the ministry to zealously acquaint themselves with existing economic and social problems. Rev. T. E. Burke and others spoke interestingly along this line.

Today, Prof. Dyle continued the chancellor's lectureship, at 10 a.m., speaking on "Grades of Imaginative Power." "The Problem of the Book of Job," occupied the hour before noon, Rev. W. J. Knox, Pembroke, and A. Barnard, M. A., Hamilton, being the chief speakers. "Jesus and the Kingdom of God" was Prof. E. F. Scott's topic during the noon hour. At 3 p.m. Prof. Cappon lectured on "The Interpretation of Life by Modern Poets." This evening Prof. Morrison gives an address upon "John Calvin, His Place in History and His Influence Upon Modern Thought."

License Was Transferred.
At a meeting of the board of license commissioners held on Tuesday opening the license of Louis Langport, of the Brunswick hotel, Ontario street, was transferred to John Couper, of Kingston. The chairman, Andrew McMahon, presided at the meeting and the commissioners present were James Mallen and George Heintz.

R. WALDRON

A Visit To The Home.

A representative of the Whig had the privilege of going through the Infants' Home, on Tuesday afternoon, and if more Kingston people would make a visit to the same place, far more would be given to this worthy institution, a place where friendless, wretched women may go and find peaceful homes, places where the destitute children and foundlings under three years of age can be taken and left in capable hands, where they will be well clothed, well fed and well looked after.

In the home at the present time are twenty-one children, a score of little tots of all ages, from a few weeks to two years and a half, innocent little people, quite happy and contented, free from every care, and always warm and comfortable. There are also in the home five adults, five women who would otherwise have to be on the street. These women found a home where they would be well treated and taught to look on the right side of life.

Could a number of women be engaged in a worthy object than that of saving the lives of little children from death or girls from lives of shame? The home is kept up by the efforts of about fifteen women of the city, who give freely much of their time and means to it, throwing open their homes and lawns for teas, games, parties and other entertainments, to raise funds to buy the necessities of life for foundlings. And how much any little kindness or donation is appreciated by the board of management, who, although they do all they can for the home, sometimes have apparently insurmountable obstacles to overcome, yet go cheerfully to their work.

If one could only go through the home and see how nicely everything is arranged and how well the little people are looked after, it would loose many a purse string. In a large sunny room the little cots and cradles are arranged, for the children, and another room is devoted to a nursery or play room for the children, from which all day long the merry, happy laughter of the children echoes through the large building. The adults have their sleeping apartments up stairs, and here again one is struck with how nicely and neatly everything is arranged and kept.

Mrs. Thompson, the matron, and Miss Ferguson, her assistant, are always kept busy looking after their charges, and to them is due great credit for the fine manner in which things are arranged and attended to.

A Girl And A Gold Miner.
Life among the mines and mountains of California is portrayed at the Bijou to-day and to-morrow, in a powerful drama entitled, "The Girl and the Gold Miner." The play is finely acted and well worth seeing. There are also two beautifully acted comedy dramas, by the celebrated actors of the Biograph company. They are entitled, "The Major and the Maid," or "The Awakening," and "Wanted, a Child." Both are excellent plays, as all products of the Biograph company are.

Kingston Post Office Revenue.
The annual report of the postmaster-general, just issued, shows that the Kingston post office gross revenue for the past year was $17,000, as compared to $14,000 during the previous year, an increase of $3,000. To the activity of Postmaster Stewart is accountable in no slight degree, part of this increase.

The cheapest place in town to buy stamped wood for pyrography, is Best's. Greatly reduced prices.

Dr. Rupert Dupuis, of St. Louis, is at the Randolph.
